One of the most important periods in the development of medicine at all, especially medieval medicine, which lasted from the 9th to the 13th century is called "The Golden Age of Arabic Medicine". The books of Arabic science that came about in this period are not only by Muslim authors because Arab civilization is the result of consecutive and continuous efforts of various nations.

In ancient times, people used to cure sickness by using plants, herbs and other materials. In countries such as Egypt, Greece, Rome and Mesopotamia medicine was magical and mythological. Thus, patients were treated mostly in temples. During the middle ages, the practice of medicine was empirical; it focused on curing illnesses rather than discovering their causes. Modern medicine started to emerge in the late 18th century and there were many improvements on medical tools, especially after the Industrial Revolution. Physicians learned that illnesses were caused by germs and hospitals began to focus on keeping clean to keep germs away.

Arabic medicine has made a major contribution to the development of pharmacy. Doctors discovered new drugs while looking for ways to treat patients. Today, healthcare isn't just about doctors; nurses, physical therapists and technicians are all part of a large health care system that helps to keep people healthy.

Highly successful people are the ones who have failed the most. We usually only learn about these individuals and their companies once they have made it big. Yet, we rarely witness the huge struggle they went through to get there. From a young age we have been taught that being wrong and making mistakes are bad. This way of thinking has made the world afraid of failure.

Failure is inevitable in life, but how we overcome challenges and use them to our advantage is what matters. Steps that help us to overcome failure may include: First, stay positive. It means if you are faced with a failure, understanding it is not your final destination. It is a stepping stone in your journey where you need to be. Second, find inspiration and support from your world, a conversation with someone close to you can be very helpful. Finally, improve your self-esteem. Remember that YOU are not a failure, that everyone has failed once in his life and this should make you think of your abilities to overcome it. In short, if we don't learn from our mistakes and failures in life, then we are doomed to keep repeating them whether we realize it or not.
