1 Listen and Discuss

Read the texts and underline the words or phrases that provide facts and/or opinions.

What do you think?

Collaborative learning promotes teamwork in class. Learners work together in small or large teams. However, it is not always easy for individuals to work effectively with others. Some learners prefer to work on their own first, then share ideas and information. Others are reluctant to share, because they want to impress the teacher with their performance. Negative competition in class tends to prevent students from working together, as they feel that they need to keep what they know to themselves, in order to gain credit against everyone else in class.

Who are they? How do you feel about them?

What do people mean when they say that someone is “self-made”? They usually refer to success stories of individuals who have been able to recognize and utilize opportunities in their lives, for the purposes of improving their personal living standards, gaining respect in their community, and helping others. Can you think of successful “self-made” people in your country? Who are they? How do you feel about them?

Would you take a course on future studies?

Have you heard of the terms 'future studies' or 'strategic foresight'? Future Studies is an interdisciplinary field that studies and analyzes current and past changes with respect to tomorrow. For example, many people believe that the Earth's ecosystem will collapse in the near future, while others believe that it will survive. A foresight approach would analyze and highlight the assumptions underpinning such views. Would you choose to take a course on future studies at university?

Would you buy it?

Infomercials are longer television commercials that include demonstrations of product features and customer comments. A toll-free telephone number and/or website is included for potential buyers accompanied by "an offer you can't refuse".

2 Pair Work

- A. Before you discuss each issue, brainstorm and think of:
- phrases you can use to express your opinion/view
 - ways to agree and disagree
 - arguments to support your view
- B. Which topic would you like to know more about? Why? Which topic do you find least interesting? Why?

3 Conversation

Listen and practice reading the conversation in pairs. Then act it out.

Adnan and Yahya are high school students. They are walking along the corridor, chatting during break.

Adnan: You've heard, haven't you? Our chemistry teacher has been transferred.

Yahya: It can't be true. I saw him yesterday. He can't have left. I thought he must still be teaching in our school.

Adnan: Yes, so did I. But apparently, he has been transferred to his hometown. So someone else is going to be teaching chemistry.

Yahya: I am sorry to hear that.

Adnan: I saw someone new walking into the chemistry lab. He must be our new teacher..

Yahya: Let's have a look. No, it can't be. I don't believe it. He must be looking for me.

Adnan: What are you talking about? That must be our new teacher.

Yahya: No, it can't be.

Adnan: Oh, come on. Why not?

Yahya: Because that's my uncle! He must have known about this but never told me.

Adnan: He must have wanted to surprise you! It's good news, isn't it?

Your Turn

A. Role-play a conversation like the one above with a partner. Use phrases from the box.

Making Deductions

(present) It can't be true. / He must be ...

He must be ...ing ...

He must have ... (known) ... / He must have ... (wanted) ...

B. Read the situations and make deductions.

1. Your father's car is in the garage. He must be home. / He can't have left.
2. Your cousin's bicycle is in the garden. He/She ...
3. You can't turn on your new computer. It ...
4. Your best friend is not at school today. He/She ...
5. You are 15 minutes late. Your friends don't seem to be in the mall. They ...

4 Speaking

1. Listen and compare the written text with the spoken account of the incident. Tick the features that you identify in each or both.

Has it happened to you or someone you know?

About a week ago I went to check my bank account for the umpteenth time, hoping that I'd find some cash. I placed my card in the machine, keyed in my password and to my great delight; there was the money in my account. So I pressed withdrawal, took my card out of the machine, as I was supposed to, and happily walked away...

I must have taken about ten steps or so, when I thought of checking to make sure that I'd put the money away securely. I searched my small bag and my pockets to no avail. I immediately turned and rushed back to the ATM. As I had feared, there was no cash in the slot.

I then checked my account to only get a confirmation that the amount I had requested had in fact been withdrawn. I was really upset and embarrassed. I called the bank and reported the incident. They promised to check the following day.

Fortunately, the machine had a security feature which pulled back cash that was not collected within fifteen or twenty seconds!

I was feeling really foolish to have done such a thing but then I was told that it happens all the time! Would you believe it?

2. Work in pairs. Think about an incident you heard or read about or something that happened to you or someone you know. Make notes.
3. It might help to write the actions/verbs in the order they happened and then add people, objects and places. Lastly, don't forget to also convey the manner in which things happened. Use your voice, exclamations, adjectives and adverbs.
4. Now use your notes and tell your partner or your class.

1 Two Is Better Than One

1 Listen and Discuss

1. Name some famous duos, or pairs, who have left their mark in history (for example, a husband and wife team or a pair of siblings). Tell the most legendary story you know of a famous pair.
2. Read the texts about some famous family members from history. Do you think their close relationship made it easier for them to achieve certain goals?

Marie and Pierre Curie (1894–1906)

Maria Sklodowska was born in Warsaw in 1867. She was the daughter of a secondary-school teacher. She studied in local schools and received some training in science from her father. Because women were not allowed to attend university in Poland in the 19th century, Maria left Poland to study at a French university in 1891. Now known by the French name Marie, she worked hard in a laboratory that was owned by Pierre Curie.

Pierre Curie was born in Paris in 1859. He received his early education at home and then joined the Faculty of Sciences at the Sorbonne. He was promoted to professor in 1900.

Marie and Pierre Curie got married in 1895. Although poor, they were devoted to each other and their research. Their studies of radioactive substances were carried out under difficult conditions. Their laboratory facilities were hardly adequate and they had to do a lot of teaching to earn a living.

In 1898, the couple discovered the elements polonium and radium. They eventually won the Nobel Prize for Physics in 1903 for the discovery of radioactivity. When Pierre died in 1906, Marie honored his memory by continuing their work. In 1911, Marie Curie won another Nobel Prize, this time for chemistry. She was the first person to win the Nobel Prize twice.

The Wright Brothers

The Wright brothers, Orville (1871–1948) and Wilbur (1867–1912), were inventors and aviation pioneers who built and flew the first successful airplane. They were not the first to build and fly experimental aircraft, but they were the first to invent airplane controls that made powered flight possible.

The Wright brothers differed from other inventors of the time because their focus wasn't on creating more powerful engines. What they did focus on was developing a reliable pilot control system. Their homemade wind tunnel provided the data the brothers needed in order to design and build the most efficient wings and propellers that had ever been made. They gained valuable experience and mechanical skills by working with bicycles, motors, and other machinery in their shop for years. They developed their skills as pilots through extensive glider tests, from 1900 to 1903, until their first powered flight.

Competing researchers and entrepreneurs challenged the Wright brothers' abilities and skills as inventors. The Wright brothers' work has had a lasting impact on aviation and aerodynamics.

Quick Check

A. Vocabulary. Match each word to its meaning.

- | | |
|--------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. _____ devoted | a. airplane manufacture, development, and design |
| 2. _____ pioneer | b. trusted to work well |
| 3. _____ reliable | c. dedicated |
| 4. _____ extensive | d. famous |
| 5. _____ legendary | e. a person who starts or is involved in a new method or activity |
| 6. _____ aviation | f. something that covers a wide range of ideas and details |

B. Comprehension. Answer the questions about the famous pairs in history.

1. Why did Marie Curie leave Poland after school?
2. Why were conditions difficult for Marie and Pierre Curie?
3. Which discovery made Marie and Pierre Curie famous?
4. How many Nobel Prizes did they win? When?
5. How were the Wright brothers different from other experimenters?
6. How did the Wright brothers gain mechanical skills?
7. How did they develop their skills as pilots?

2 Pair Work

Discuss historically famous people with your partner. Choose a person who has changed the world for the better. Explain to your partner why you selected the person.

3 Grammar

Other, Others, and Another

Other/Others

Other can be used as an adjective before a plural noun to mean “additional” or “further.”

Many scientists feel that global warming can be reversed. Other scientists disagree.

Others can be used as a pronoun to mean additional or other persons or things.

Many scientists feel that global warming can be reversed. Others disagree.

Another

Another can be used as an adjective or a pronoun.

As an adjective, it means an alternative to something previously considered.

I know you want to go to Mexico on vacation, but I have another idea.

As a pronoun, it means an additional one of the same kind.

That was a good cup of coffee. I think I'll have another.

Whether used as an adjective or a pronoun, another is only used with singular nouns.

Incorrect: I think I'll have another beef burgers.

Note: Don't confuse other, others, and another with the pronouns each other and one another. Note that each other and one another, which are inseparable phrases, are used to express a mutual relationship.

My friends have deep trust in each other. I know that none of them could let down the others.

Emphatic Do

Do is usually used as an auxiliary in negative and question forms of the simple present and past tense.

However, the auxiliary do can also be used before the infinitive in affirmative sentences to add special emphasis.

I do enjoy his company.

He does like to talk.

We can also use emphatic do to show a contrast between expectations and reality.

A: You didn't call me yesterday. B: I did call you yesterday.

We usually get along very well, but we do have arguments occasionally.

Note: Emphatic do is strongly emphasized in speech.

A. Complete each sentence with other, others, or another.

1. He says he is so full of beef burgers. He says he could not eat _____.
2. You can use that topic for your paper. I have a few _____ in mind for my paper.
3. They like their cats so much that they are talking about getting _____ kitten.
4. You can keep that pen. I have two or three _____ pens in my backpack.
5. There are six _____ people in line ahead of us.
6. Cover your mouth when you cough so that _____ won't catch your cold.
7. I just recovered from a cold, and already I'm getting _____ one.

B. Read each sentence. Then use your own ideas to write a second sentence, using other, others, or another.

💡 Some people are happy about the new shopping mall. Others are upset about it.

1. Many young people like to socialize on the Internet.
2. One thing you can do to help the environment is recycle.
3. Two of my three sisters have brown hair.
4. English isn't the only class I have on Mondays.
5. Attractive is one synonym for pretty.
6. My backpack is ripping.
7. We're not the first people in line.
8. One thing you should do for your health is exercise.

C. Rewrite each sentence, adding do, does, or did for emphasis.

💡 I feel tired. I do feel tired.

1. I hope you get better quickly.
2. That child plays quietly.
3. He needs to find a job soon.
4. I asked my friend to join us.
5. This store has the best selection.
6. The teacher noticed you were absent.

D. Match the sentence beginnings and endings. Rewrite the sentences, adding do, does, or did for emphasis.

💡 We don't usually watch TV, but we do watch that program.

- | | |
|---------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------|
| 1. We don't usually watch TV,  c  | a. but her sister wants to go shopping. |
| 2. I'm afraid of heights,   | b. but I sent my friend an email. |
| 3. I forgot to call my friend,   | c. but we watch that program. |
| 4. I didn't have a lot of time,   | d. she has a great sense of humor. |
| 5. She doesn't want to go shopping,   | e. though I fly occasionally. |
| 6. Although she's a bit quiet,   | f. but I managed to finish my homework. |

1 Two Is Better Than One

4 Conversation

- Badr: I'm really excited that we're going to share an apartment to save money while we study in New York.
- Adnan: I am, too. But, you know, a lot of friends end up arguing about chores. So, I was thinking it might be a good idea for us to divide up the chores before we move in.
- Badr: Yeah. I do think we should discuss that. I'm sure we can work out a fair division of chores.
- Adnan: Of course, we'll each clean our own room. And since there are two bathrooms, how about if I clean one and you clean the other?
- Badr: That's fair. And each week we can take turns cleaning the rest of the apartment.
- Adnan: Hey, do you want to do our laundry together so that only one of us has to go to the laundromat each week?
- Badr: We're on the same wavelength. I was just going to suggest that.
- Adnan: I really don't like folding the wash. If I wash the laundry, would you be willing to do the folding?
- Badr: No sweat. And how about cooking? I don't mind cleaning, but cooking is really not my cup of tea. Would you do the cooking if I did the cleaning up?
- Adnan: Sorry, but if there's one chore I hate, it's cooking.
- Badr: Well, it looks like we're going to be eating a lot of takeout!

About the Conversation

1. What problem are Badr and Adnan trying to avoid?
2. How do Badr and Adnan divide up the chores?
3. What chore does neither of them want to do? What solution does Badr offer?

Your Turn

Role-play with a partner. Pretend that you are dividing up responsibilities for something you are doing together, such as working on a school project. Figure out a list of tasks, and then discuss who will be responsible for each task. Use the phrases for negotiating.

Real Talk

on the same wavelength = thinking the same thing
No sweat. = No problem.
not my cup of tea = a polite way to say you don't like something

Negotiating

How about if I...and you...?
I think it would be fair if...
I'm sure we can work this out.
OK, I'll agree to...if you will...
Would you (be willing to)...if I...?

5 Listening

Listen to a summary about Dr. Abdullah Al-Rabeeah, a famous pediatric surgeon. Then number his achievements in the correct order/in chronological order.

- ___ He and his team perform surgery on Polish twins.
- ___ He becomes Executive Director of Health Affairs at the National Guard.
- ___ He realizes he wants to become a doctor.
- ___ He graduates from King Saud University.
- ___ He is assistant professor at King Saud University.
- ___ He gets his Master's in Pediatric Surgery.
- ___ He is honored by the Polish community.
- ___ He is appointed Minister of Health.
- ___ He is a member of the Canadian Board of Pediatric Surgeons.
- ___ He is appointed as a consultant in the Royal Court.

6 Pronunciation

While most languages have the /r/ sound, it is pronounced differently in different languages. Listen and practice the English /r/ sound in these sentences.

1. Dr. Rabeeah is respected for his contribution to pediatric surgery.
2. They have enriched the lives of children around the world.
3. He received a Bachelor's of Surgery from King Saud University in Riyadh.
4. After the operation, the mother was relieved.
5. The Ambassador held a reception to honor Dr. Rabeeah.

7 Vocabulary Building

A. You will see these words in the reading on pages 12 and 13. Match the words with their meanings.

- | | |
|---------------------|------------------------------------------------|
| 1. ___ compensate | a. ways in which something lacks what it needs |
| 2. ___ deficiencies | b. causing great fear |
| 3. ___ fearsome | c. animals that live by hunting others |
| 4. ___ invaluable | d. extremely valuable; priceless |
| 5. ___ predators | e. to overcome a weakness with a strength |

B. Check your answers with a partner. If you do not understand the meaning of a word, look it up in a dictionary.

8 Reading

Before Reading

Do you think animals ever form partnerships to help one another? Explain.

ANIMAL PARTNERS

For animals in the wild, each day is a struggle to survive. They must continually search for food, while at the same time keeping themselves safe from predators. Some animals have learned that teaming up with another animal makes the struggle to find food, shelter, and safety a bit easier. This kind of special relationship in which animals depend upon and benefit from one another is called symbiosis.

One of the most visually surprising examples of symbiosis occurs between the fearsome African crocodile and the small plover bird. When a plover is nearby, a crocodile will open its long, sharp-toothed jaws to invite it inside. You might assume that the plover would quickly reject this invitation and fly off. Yet surprisingly, the plover does hop inside. Perhaps even more amazingly, the crocodile, normally known for its aggression, does not snap its mouth shut and have the plover for a snack. Instead, it remains still, not closing its mouth until the plover leaves. How can this strange behavior be explained? The answer is symbiosis. The plover picks out all the small pieces of meat stuck between the crocodile's teeth. In doing so, it cleans the crocodile's teeth, which prevents it from getting infections. Because the crocodile can not clean its own teeth, it depends on the plover to perform this service. In return, the crocodile provides an easy meal for the plover.

In some cases of symbiosis, like the crocodile and the plover, each animal in the pair benefits from their relationship in a different way. However, in other cases, the animals share a common goal. This is true of the honeyguide bird and the ratel, a furry creature with short legs and long claws. Both these animals live on grasslands in Africa and have an appetite for honey. As its name suggests, the honeyguide has a special ability for locating beehives. However, this small bird cannot open a beehive to get at the honey. To accomplish this, it teams up with the ratel. Ratels are a perfect match for the honeyguide as they love honey, are large enough to crack open a hive, but have no ability to find hives themselves. The honeyguide flies over grasslands looking for a hive. When it does spot a hive, it swoops down and makes a noise to alert the ratel. The ratel uses its claws to tear open the hive. After eating its fill, the ratel invites the honeyguide to finish the leftovers.

Another two animals that team up to compensate for their own weaknesses are the zebra and the ostrich. These two animals often travel together. This is no surprise since they are a perfect match. While the giant, flightless ostrich has poor senses of both smell and hearing, the zebra has acute senses of smell and hearing. On the other hand, the zebra has terrible eyesight, while the ostrich has excellent eyesight, enhanced by its long neck which enables the ostrich to see far into the distance. In this way, each makes up for the other's deficiencies. As a result, the animals are far safer together than they would be apart. Ostriches can see predators, such as lions, far in the distance, while zebras can smell or hear others as they approach.

Birds and land animals aren't the only ones that work in symbiotic pairs. Some sea animals, like the clownfish and the sea anemone, do as well. Sea anemones, which look like plants, are actually dangerous animals with poisonous tentacles. Most fish stay away from anemones to avoid being stung. However, the clownfish makes its home among the sea anemones. It does not get stung, because its body is protected by a special coating. Living among the deadly tentacles of an anemone has a clear advantage—most predators stay away! Another benefit for the clownfish is that it is able to eat the anemone’s leftover bits of food. But what is the advantage to the anemone? There are several. First, the brightly colored clownfish attracts predators. When the clownfish swims under the anemone’s tentacles to safety, if the predator follows, the anemone has the chance to sting and eat it. Other services the clownfish performs are cleaning up food scraps and dead anemone tentacles, and chasing away fish that might eat the anemone.

While many symbiotic pairs may at first look like odd partners, the benefits they provide one another are invaluable, and may make the difference between life and death. In fact, it is often these animals’ very differences that make them perfect partners.

After Reading

Answer the questions.

1. Explain the meaning of symbiosis.
2. In what way do the African crocodile and the plover have a symbiotic relationship?
3. Give an example of a case of symbiosis in which each animal has the same goal.
4. Name two animals that make up for each other’s deficiencies. How do they do this?
5. What benefits do the clownfish and anemone offer each other?

9 Speaking

1. Work in pairs/groups. Think about your relationship with a good friend. What can you offer each other?
2. Complete the chart with your notes and use them to discuss in class.

What can you offer your friend?	How does it help your friend?	What can your friend offer you?	How does it help you?

10 Writing

- A. 1. Do you think it is necessary for people to share the same characteristics in order to get along well with each other? Why? Why not?
- 2. Read the text and find out.
- Who are the people involved?
 - What kind of people are they? Underline words that provide information about each one.
 - In your view, what are the characteristics that they share?
 - What do you think might have happened if they both shared exactly the same characteristics and attitude to life?
 - a. if they were both like the grandfather
 - b. if they were both like the grandmother
 - Why did the writer choose to describe the particular incident? What do you think it portrays?

There is a memory that always makes me smile with contentment and admiration, and that is the memory of my maternal grandparents.

My grandfather was a dedicated lawyer whose moral fiber prevented him from taking advantage of circumstances to make a profit! He was highly respected in courts and had the reputation of being the most honest law specialist. He was genuinely interested in people, history, law, and philosophy and was always reading when he was at home. He was the calmest, most serene person I have ever met. He never raised his voice, never lost his temper, and had a special ability to always rationalize things ever so smoothly that the worst calamity seemed like a slight twitch. Nothing could make him lose his sense and aura of peace.

Grandmother, on the other hand, was the exact opposite. She used to get all worked up about things and flustered over minor irregularities. She had to have everything planned just so and still worried about things that could go wrong. She wanted everything to be perfect, sometimes to an extreme. Once, when she had gotten into her cleanliness frenzy, she called someone in and got rid of genuine antique furniture that grandfather had painstakingly collected over a number of years and arranged in this perfect replica of a drawing room. There were fine, elegant chairs with brocade upholstery on the seats and beautiful tables, not to mention some exquisite mirrors. Grandmother had gotten it into her head that it was all useless because it collected too much dust and decided to sell it off to the first bidder for next to nothing.

When grandfather came home, he opened the door to the little drawing room to admire his creation and found an empty shell. He asked grandmother where everything was, and she very naturally informed him that she'd gotten rid of it because it was a dust magnet. All he did was chuckle, and then sat down at the table to have his lunch!

This incident pretty much rounds up the amazing symbiosis between these two wonderful people. In spite of their different characteristics, they obviously complemented each other in a way that only they could fully appreciate!

- 3. Read the text again and find out.
- What is the topic of each paragraph? (What or who is the paragraph about?)
 - Are all paragraphs about the same length? Why? Why not?
 - What words/phrases describe the qualities of each person? Can you think of more?
 - Which qualities are demonstrated through the incident?

- B. 1. Think about two people you know who are good friends.
- 2. Using a Venn diagram, write the qualities you feel each person has. In the overlapping portion of the diagram, write the qualities/characteristics that they share.
- 3. Write a short essay about the two friends, explaining how they complement each other.

Rosa and Sue: A Perfect Friendship

My sister Rosa and her best friend Sue have been friends since elementary school. They always seem to be together, and others joke that they are twins. However, their personalities are quite different...

Writing Corner

When you write a descriptive essay about people's qualities/characteristics:

- think about their positive and negative qualities, their needs and the things they offer, their attitude to life, typical incidents, etc.
- express your personal feelings/views about the people.
- do not simply write a list of adjectives.
- vary the way you express thoughts, memories, and feelings; use expressions like these: I think he/she is..., I have always felt that..., I regard him/her as..., He/She seems to..., He/She tends to..., Anytime I think of..., I have never..., He/She is the most (adjective) person I have ever known/met, etc.
- use linking devices that indicate similarity and contrast, cause and effect, consequence, reason, etc.; use a variety of expressions and words like these: due to this..., although..., in spite of..., while..., compared to..., because of..., as a result, both, etc.
- plan your essay carefully by deciding what/who you are going to focus on in different sections/ paragraphs.
- write a first draft, then read it and make corrections or write questions about things you are not sure about.
- hand over the draft to someone else to read and edit; encourage him/her to write comments and questions.
- read the comments and edit your essay.

11 Form, Meaning and Function

Simple Present Tense

Use the simple present tense for facts and things that are true in general.

For animals in the wild, each day is a struggle to survive.

Use the simple present tense to talk about future timetables or schedules.

My flight from Dubai to Bahrain leaves at 8:10 A.M. tomorrow. I then fly to Saudi Arabia and arrive in Riyadh at eleven o'clock.

Use the present simple with exclamations with Here...! and There...!:

Q: Can I have the check, please?

A: Of course, Sir. Here you are!

Q: Dad, can I borrow your cell phone, please?

A: I suppose so. Here you go!

Q: Where are my glasses?

A: Ah! There they are!

Q: Where is Nathalie?

A: Here she comes!

Simple Present versus Present Progressive

Use the simple present tense to talk about habits and routine, and use the present progressive for actions occurring now or for a temporary situation.

Badr usually eats takeout, but today he is cooking dinner.

Use the present progressive for changing or developing situations.

More and more students are sharing apartments to save money while they study.

Use the present progressive with always, continually, constantly to describe an ongoing annoying situation or habit.

He is always asking his brother to lend him money.

Note: Some verbs are not often used in the progressive form: believe, think (opinion), know, remember, like, hate, want, prefer, see, hear, feel, seem, appear, have, belong, own.

A. Read the telephone conversation between Badr and his brother, Fahad. Complete the conversation with the correct form of the word in the parentheses. Use the simple present or present progressive.

Fahad: Hi Badr. How are (1. be) things in New York?

Badr: To tell you the truth, Fahad, not so good. It's my flatmate, Adnan. I was really excited about us sharing a flat but he _____ (2. not/do) any chores. One bathroom _____ (3. be) spotless because I _____ (4. clean) it but the other one is very dirty. The rest of the apartment is very untidy. He _____ always _____ (5. leave) his dirty dishes around the flat. I _____ constantly _____ (6. clean up). We agreed to take it in turns to do the laundry but he is always busy. I _____ (7. do) the laundry every week. Also, about the cooking ...

B. Complete the conversation with your own ideas. Compare with a partner.

Expressing Enthusiasm with Intensifiers and Adjectives

We use the intensifiers really, very, absolutely and quite with adjectives to express our enthusiasm with something. There are two kinds of adjectives: gradable and non-gradable. Gradable adjectives can be measured in degrees, such as size, age, quality etc. Non-gradable adjectives cannot be measured like this.

We use certain intensifiers with each group of adjectives.

	Gradable Adjectives		Non-Gradable Adjectives
very	expensive	absolutely	priceless really	old	really	ancient extremely	beautiful	quite	stunning important		crucial
	good		amazing
	interesting		fascinating frightening		terrifying small		tiny
	big		massive

Note: The intensifier really can be used with both gradable and non-gradable adjectives.

2 Influential People

1 Listen and Discuss

1. Talk about a person who went from not having much money to being wealthy and influential.
2. What qualities do you think a person needs to excel in life and be successful?

AMANCIO ORTEGA

Industry: Retail Clothing

Country of Citizenship: Spain

Amancio Ortega is the founder and chairman of a company that owns many stores, including the enormously popular international clothing store, Zara. Now Spain's richest man, Ortega is the son of a railroad worker, and had no formal higher education. When Ortega was 13, he worked as a delivery boy for a shirtmaker and later became the manager of a clothing store. He began making clothing in his living room and selling it to local stores. Ortega had an ability to predict what styles were going to be popular and to create these styles with inexpensive materials. In 1975, Ortega opened his first Zara store. Zara gained a reputation for selling designer fashions at reasonable prices. Today Ortega's company has more than 2,850 stores in 88 countries.

MOHAMMAD ABDUL LATIF JAMEEL

Industry: Business

Country of Citizenship: Saudi Arabia

A great philanthropist and prominent businessman, Mohammad Abdul Latif Jameel, president of ALJ, runs one of the world's largest car dealerships, with operations in the Middle East, U.K., Central Asia and China. A leading figure in corporate social responsibility, he has created a series of initiatives against poverty and has contributed greatly to the government's Saudization program in the Kingdom, by promoting thousands of jobs every year through the ALJ Community Services Programs. Abdul Latif Jameel is an MIT alumnus, member of the board of trustees, and dedicated supporter of the Abdul Latif Jameel Poverty Action Lab (J-PAL). He was named "Saudi Volunteer of the Year" in 2012, in recognition of the services offered by ALJCI in Saudi Arabia and the rest of the Arab world.

LI KA-SHING

Industry: Business

Country of Citizenship: China

Li was born into an impoverished family in China in 1928. When he was 15, his father died, forcing Li to leave high school so that he could work to support his family. He took a job in a plastics company, where he would work 16 hours a day. At this company, Li used to assemble plastic flowers. By 1950, Li had started his own plastics manufacturing company. His company prospered, which led Li to expand his business into many different fields.

However, his successes are not all monetary. Li Ka-shing has a reputation for being honest and generous. In fact, he is one of Asia's most prominent philanthropists, and has announced plans to donate one-third of his wealth to charity.

STEVEN PAUL JOBS (1955-2011)

Industry: Computer Design

Country of Citizenship: U.S.

Steven Paul Jobs was born in 1955 and adopted into a working class family. He grew up in what later became Silicon Valley. He dropped out of college because he could not afford to pay his tuition. In the late 70s, he co-founded Apple with Steve Wozniak and others, and proceeded to develop and market the first successful lines of personal computers. He eventually resigned from Apple over an argument with the board of directors in 1984, and founded NeXT. Apple's buyout of NeXT, in 1997, brought Jobs back to Apple as its CEO. He was the largest individual shareholder of The Walt Disney Company and a member of the board. Jobs was admired by many for his entrepreneurial skills, his foresight, and his ability to create and support products that were both functional and aesthetically pleasing.

3 Grammar

Used To versus Be Used To

Used to + the base form of a verb is used to talk about an activity that was repeated habitually in the past, but which is not done now.

He used to live in a mansion. But he lost all his money and now he lives in a small apartment.
She didn't use to care about money. But now she's become very materialistic.

Note: For the negative, use didn't use to (omit the -d).

Be used to + gerund or noun is used to talk about something that has become familiar or habitual.

Some people think it's crazy that he works seven days a week. But he is used to it.
Although she is a millionaire now, she isn't used to shopping in expensive stores.

Note: For the negative, use be + not + used to (do not omit the -d).

Would for Repeated Action in the Past versus Used To

Would can be used to talk about an action that happened regularly in the past. Used this way, would means the same thing as used to.

When I was a child, I would dream of being a millionaire. = When I was a child, I used to dream of being a millionaire.

Note: Only used to (not would) can be used to talk about a situation that was true (without habitual action) in the past.

He used to live at home until he got a job. (Correct)

He would live at home until he got a job. (Incorrect)

Was/Were Going To (Future in the Past)

Was/Were + going to + the base form of a verb is used to talk about a prediction for the future made in the past, or a past plan that was not carried out.

I knew that company was going to be a great success.

He was going to spend the money, but he decided to invest it in the stock market instead.

A. Complete the sentences with either use(d) to or be used to. Use the negative in some cases.

1. We _____ eat at all the best restaurants, but then we started saving more money.
2. She's from Costa Rica, so she _____ warm weather all year round.
3. The bed in my first apartment was so uncomfortable that I _____ sleep on the couch.
4. Marco _____ live with his whole extended family.
5. Even though he loves his apartment, he _____ living alone.
6. We _____ swim in that pond, but now it's too polluted.
7. He likes his new job, but he _____ wearing a suit and tie.
8. She had always excelled in English, so she _____ receiving poor grades.

B. Use the phrases to write sentences about your own childhood, including either would or used to (in positive or negative form). In some cases, both are possible.

- Ahmed: My parents gave me SAR 30,000 for graduation.
- Ibrahim: Wow! What are you going to do with all that cash?
- Ahmed: I don't know. I'm going around in circles about it, driving myself and everyone else crazy. At first I was going to do something really indulgent with it, like take a vacation. I was ready to book it, but then I got cold feet.
- Ibrahim: Why? I think a vacation sounds like a great idea. You've worked really hard for four years. You deserve a break.
- Ahmed: That's true. But, on the other hand, I don't want to spend all that money on something that will be over in a week. So, then I was thinking of buying something useful, like a used car.
- Ibrahim: That's a good idea.
- Ahmed: Yeah. It would be a great convenience to have a car. But, at the same time, I'm used to taking public transportation, and I really don't mind it. Frankly, I can't think of anything that I really need. So maybe I should put the money aside for a rainy day.
- Ibrahim: Well, yes, I suppose the alternative would be to just put it in the bank until you need it.
- Ahmed: Right. But then again, what's the point of having money if you're not enjoying it? Maybe I should do something indulgent with it—like take that vacation.
- Ibrahim: Now I see how you're driving everyone crazy!

Before Reading

What do you know about Sheik Sulaiman Al-Rajhi?
What do you think matters to him most?

Sheikh Sulaiman bin Abdul-Aziz Al-Rajhi

Sheikh Sulaiman bin Abdul-Aziz Al-Rajhi, the world-renowned philanthropist and winner of the 2012 King Faisal International Prize for Service to Islam, has not always been a billionaire.

Born in 1929, he spent his youth in Al-Qassim where he and his brother Saleh began their business, changing money for pilgrims, on their way to the cities of Makkah and Madinah.

Their business expanded in the 1970s during the oil boom in Saudi Arabia. The Al-Rajhi brothers helped migrant workers from Indonesia, Pakistan and other places to send their earnings home. They were granted permission to establish a bank, the Al Rajhi Bank, which complied with religious tenets such as a ban on interest.

Founding the bank, which is now the world's biggest Islamic lender, was not hurdle-free. Sulaiman Al-Rajhi began by opening an office in Britain, to introduce the Islamic banking system on a more international basis. However, his initial attempts to secure a banking license were unsuccessful, as British officials were not aware of the principles and requirements of Islamic banking. He had to travel to different countries in order to explain to bankers that interest was forbidden by Islam and regarded as unacceptable by pious people all over the world. He pointed out that interest caused a lot of people to avoid transactions with banks and to keep their cash and valuables at home. Eventually, the banking system he proposed was launched in Saudi Arabia and subsequently implemented in the United Kingdom.

Sheikh Sulaiman bin Abdul-Aziz Al-Rajhi is also chairman of the National Agricultural Development Company and founder of the Al-Watania agricultural projects, which include the largest poultry farm in the Middle East and one of the most successful companies in Saudi Arabia. Al Rajhi had visited a poultry farm abroad and had been shocked by the improper way chickens were fed and slaughtered. This prompted him to launch the poultry farm project, making sure that chickens were naturally fed and halal slaughtered according to Islamic tenets. He has also introduced and supported organic farming throughout the Middle East, intent on securing healthy food for all as a means of fostering good health, preventing illness and consequently reducing the cost of medical treatment. The Al-Rajhi projects diversified into other areas, as well, such as real estate and other investment projects.

In 2009, Sulaiman Al-Rajhi established the Sulaiman Al-Rajhi University, a non-profit research university with three departments; Medicine, Nursing, and Applied Science. In fact, the university was established by the Awqaf Sulaiman Al Rajhi Holding Company (ASARHC), which is considered the largest foundation of its kind in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, in terms of capital as well as range and volume of activities. ASARHC now owns and controls more than half of Sulaiman Al-Rajhi's wealth. The foundation organizes and oversees a substantial number of charities and humanitarian activities worldwide.

In May 2011, Sulaiman Al-Rajhi announced that he was donating most of his $7.7 billion fortune to charity. During his lifetime, Al-Rajhi distributed the rest of his wealth to his children in order to avoid potential disputes over inheritance, that could destroy kinship and harmony among them.

Sulaiman Al-Rajhi was awarded the highly prestigious King Faisal International Prize for Service to Islam, in 2012, in recognition of his outstanding service to Islam, his role in the establishment of the world's largest Islamic bank and his ongoing contribution to charities, and humanitarian projects' fight against poverty.

Having experienced extreme poverty earlier in life, Al-Rajhi chose to donate and distribute all his assets, to gain peace of mind and inner happiness.

In December 2019, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia assumed the 2020 presidency of the Group of Twenty (G20), an international forum for economic cooperation attended by the largest and some of the fastest growing economies in the world. Founded in 1999, the G20 brings together leaders from 19 countries and the European Union to discuss the world’s most challenging problems.

The G20 was created in 1999, (1) _____ the 1997 economic crisis. (2) _____ then, the G20 members have met regularly to discuss major global issues. However, it was only in 2008 that the leaders’ summits were introduced, becoming an annual event (3) _____ 2011 onward. (4) _____ the two-day G20 Leaders’ Summit was hosted in Riyadh in November 2020, it was the first time that this meeting was held in the Arab world. Another first was the fact that it took place virtually, because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Nevertheless, despite the protection measures against COVID-19, the 2020 summit was a great opportunity for the Middle East, North Africa, and developing countries to present their own views and concerns.

(5) _____ it had assumed the 2020 G20 presidency, the Kingdom began to carry out its ambitious agenda under the theme “Realizing Opportunities of the 21st Century for All.” The agenda had three main aims: (6) _____, to empower people by creating the conditions that will allow them to live, work, and prosper; second, to safeguard the planet by protecting its natural resources, and (7) _____, to shape new frontiers by adopting ambitious strategies to share the benefits of technological and other advances.

These three aims are closely aligned with Saudi Arabia’s vision for the future, Vision 2030, which is based on three main themes: a vibrant society, a prosperous economy, and an ambitious nation. (8) _____ 2030, the Kingdom aims to have built a country in which all of its citizens can make their dreams, hopes, and ambitions come true.

5. Identify the topic/theme of each paragraph.
Paragraph 1: _____ Paragraph 2: _____
Paragraph 3: _____ Paragraph 4: _____
6. Which verb forms are mostly used? Are passive sentences used in any sections? Why? Why not?
7. Find the key events relating to the G20 that are mentioned in the text. Highlight the dates and events/verbs in the text. Then write them on a timeline.
8. Now cover the text and look at your timeline. Reconstruct the story and tell your partner. Then switch roles and repeat.

Majed Ahmed Abdullah

Majed Ahmed Abdullah is a Saudi Arabian former footballer who was born in Jeddah but moved to Riyadh with his family when he was very young. He is one of the best football strikers in the history of Saudi Arabia, having scored 72 goals in 117 games with the Saudi Arabian national football team. He scored 4 goals against India, during the 1984 Summer Olympics. Majed Ahmed Abdullah was the all-time top scorer of the Saudi Professional League. Many newspapers have written articles about his accomplishments!

Writing Corner

When you write a descriptive essay about a person's life:

- distinguish the main life events from surrounding information.
- select key events that provide a complete picture of how someone's life developed from the time they were born.
- list the events in chronological order, then switch them around if you wish, e.g. Having completed his studies, he proceeded to apply for any position that was advertised in his area of specialty.
- use connectors to show the order of events such as: when; then; after; while.
- be as descriptive as possible. Describe the person's character, qualities and actions. Choose key events based on these qualities so that the reader has a clear picture of the person's character as well as the person's life story.

11 Form, Meaning and Function

Present Perfect Simple Tense

Use the present perfect to talk about actions that started at an indefinite time in the past. It is often used to talk about time from the past to now in a person's life.

Q: Have you been to Kuwait?

A: Yes, I've been to Kuwait. I have visited many places in the Middle East.

Use the present perfect to talk about recently completed actions.

Mohammad Abdul Latif Jameel has contributed greatly to the government's Saudization program in the Kingdom.

Use the present perfect simple to emphasis an action that started in the past and has continued until now and may continue in the future.

Li Ka-shing has lived in China for all his life.

Time Expressions with For and Since

Use the present perfect simple tense with for to indicate the duration of the action: for two months, for a year, for a long time.

Use the present perfect simple with since to indicate when the action began: since yesterday, since last June.

Questions with How Long

Q: How long has the clothing store been in operation?

A: It's been in operation since 1975.

It's been in operation for about 50 years.

A. Complete the sentences with for or since.

1. Hameed has had the same TV _____ 15 years.

Over the years, the clothing store _____ (6. gain) a reputation for selling designer fashions at reasonable prices. Today, Ortega's company has more than 2,850 stores in 88 countries.

Past Simple versus Present Perfect

Use the present perfect to talk about an action that happened in the past when the exact time isn't known or isn't important. Use the simple past tense when the exact time is given.

Present Perfect

A: Have you ever met a billionaire?

B: No, I've never met a billionaire.

Simple Past

A: When did he start the company?

B: He started the company in the late 70s.

Note: Time expressions we can use with the present perfect are: yet, so far, ever, never, already, recently, lately, once, twice, etc.

Asking and Telling about Personal Experiences: Have you ever ...?

Have you ever ordered books online

Yes. So far this year. I've ordered 25 books online.
No. I've never ordered books online, but I've bought other products through the Internet. I haven't bought books online yet. I buy them from the bookstore on the corner.

C. Complete the conversations. Use the present perfect and simple past. Then practice with a partner.

1 Listen and Discuss

1. What things that we take for granted today did people not have 100 years ago?
2. Name a discovery or development that you think people will have (or use) 100 years from now.

In 1900, a popular American magazine, called Ladies' Home Journal, published an article called "What May Happen in the Next Hundred Years," making predictions about what life would be like in the year 2001. Read and discuss the predictions.

People

People will be taller by one to two inches. This increase in height will be a result of better health, due to improvements in medicine, sanitation, and diet. The average life expectancy will have risen from the current age of 35 to the age of 50.

Language

There will be no C, X, or Q in the English alphabet as these letters will have been determined to be unnecessary. Spelling by sound will have been adopted. English will have become a language of condensed words. English will also be more extensively spoken than any other language. Russian will rank second.

Transportation

Cars will be cheaper than horses are today. Automobiles will have been substituted for every horse vehicle now known. A one-pound motor in one of these vehicles will do the work of a pair of horses or more.

There will be air-ships, but they will not successfully compete with cars and ships for passenger or freight traffic. They will be used mainly by the military.

Traffic

There will be no traffic on the streets of large cities. All traffic, including subways, cars, and buses will be either below ground or high above ground. "Moving-sidewalk" stairways will connect them to the street level. The vehicles on the busy underground and overhead streets will have cushioned wheels. Therefore, there will be almost no noise in cities.

Media

Photographs will be telegraphed from any distance. If there is an important event happening halfway around the world, photographs of the event will be published in newspapers an hour later.

Deliveries

When people make purchases from stores, their purchases will be delivered by tubes, connected from the store to houses. These tubes will also collect, deliver, and transport mail over distances, perhaps for hundreds of miles.

Communication

Wireless telephone circuits will span the world. A person in New York will easily be able to call someone in China.

Quick Check

A. Vocabulary. Match each word to its definition.

- | | |
|----------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1. _____ circuits | a. extend across |
| 2. _____ condensed | b. shortened |
| 3. _____ determined | c. covering a wide range or area |
| 4. _____ extensively | d. position in an ordered group |
| 5. _____ rank | e. paths for electrical currents |
| 6. _____ span | f. decided |

B. Comprehension. Answer the questions.

1. What was the average life expectancy in 1900?
2. What predictions did the author make about the English language? Have they come true?
3. What do you think the author was referring to when he used the term air-ships?
4. Choose a prediction and give an example of how it has come true.
5. Which prediction do you think is the least likely to ever come true? Why?

2 Pair Work

Work with a partner to make predictions about the year 2100. Create one prediction for each of the categories in the article. Discuss your predictions with the class.

3 Grammar

Future Perfect

The future perfect is used to express the idea that an action will be completed in the future, before another event or before another specific time in the future. The future perfect is formed with will have + past participle.

By the time my children are grown, scientists will have found a solution to global warming.

The car company will have introduced their new models by November.

Future Perfect Progressive

The future perfect progressive is used to focus on the duration of an action that will be happening in the future before another time or event happens in the future. The future perfect progressive is formed with will have + been + present participle.

By the year 2033, people will have been flying for 130 years.

Note: Sometimes either the future perfect or the future perfect progressive can be used to express the same idea.

By 2030, I will have been living in Sao Paulo for 15 years.

By 2030, I will have lived in Sao Paulo for 15 years.

The Future with Dependent Time Clauses

We can talk about a future event using a time clause with when, before, after, while, until, and as soon as. A present tense verb form (not a future form) is used in the time clause, and will or be going to are used in the main clause.

My father will keep using his old-fashioned cord phone until it breaks.

When he finishes working on his invention, he's going to let me try it out.

A. Use the future perfect to combine the future events into one sentence, using by or by the time.

1st Event: I will take all my final exams. 2nd Event: The end of June will come.

By the end of June, I will have taken all my final exams.

- 1st Event: It will start to rain.
2nd Event: We will arrive at the picnic.
- 1st Event: I will fall asleep.
2nd Event: This film will be over.
- 1st Event: I will get married and have children.
2nd Event: 2035 will come.
- 1st Event: My father will work at his company for 20 years.
2nd Event: He will retire.
- 1st Event: He will decide which college to attend.
2nd Event: February will come.
- 1st Event: The food will get cold.
2nd Event: You will come to the table.
- 1st Event: He will learn to drive.
2nd Event: He will graduate.

- B. Use the future perfect or the future perfect progressive to complete each sentence. In some cases, both forms are possible.

🔑 Sheri started teaching biology in 2019.
By 2029, she will have been teaching biology for ten years.

1. Fadi and Amina got married in 2000. By 2034, _____.

7. We started waiting 20 minutes ago. If she gets here in 10 minutes, _____.
8. This TV show started two-and-a-half hours ago! In another half hour, _____.

- C. Put the verbs in parentheses in either the future tense (will or be going to) or the present tense.

🔑 I 'll call (call) you as soon as I get (get) home.

1. The company _____ (manufacture) the parts when they _____ (receive) the order.
2. After I _____ (make) a million dollars, I _____ (buy) my parents a house.
3. I _____ (travel) the world, before I _____ (get) married and settle down.
4. He _____ (run) to the store, before it _____ (start) raining.
5. When you _____ (drive) down the road, you _____ (see) a large, red building.
6. _____ you _____ (argue) with me until I _____ (change) my mind?

- D. Look at the pictures. Then complete the paragraph about how life will be different in the year 2050. Use the future perfect, future perfect progressive, and the future with dependent time clauses.

While some things will have stayed the same for the average family in 2050, some things will have changed dramatically...

4 Conversation

Edward: Grandma, you've been lugging that book around all weekend.

Grandma: If I want to read it, what choice do I have?

Edward: You can ditch the book and get an electronic book reader.

Grandma: A what?

Edward: An electronic book reader. They're these great little devices that let you read books electronically. So, you read on screen instead of on paper.

Grandma: But I like reading on paper.

Edward: Trust me, Grandma. In a few years, no one is going to be reading books printed on paper anymore. Paper books will have disappeared.

Grandma: I don't like all this new technology. I'm happy with things the way they are.

Edward: You really should check out e-book readers. One of the advantages is that you can buy, download, and start reading a book in minutes. Another great thing about it is that you can carry hundreds of books with you without it being heavy.

Grandma: Why would I want to carry hundreds of books around with me?

Edward: Grandma, I'm sure if you just gave it a try, you'd find that you actually prefer it. Why not go with the flow?

Grandma: I think this is all just a lot of hoopla. I've been reading my books on paper for 68 years, and I'm not about to change that now.

About the Conversation

1. What does Edward want Grandma to try?
2. What arguments does he make?
3. Is Edward successful in persuading Grandma? Why or why not?

8 Reading

Before Reading

If you could go into space, would you? Why or why not?

AN OUT-OF-THIS-WORLD VACATION

Things that once seemed impossible often become commonplace with the passing of time. There are people predicting that this will happen with space tourism in the next decade or two. Some are even investing in and developing space tourism technology, believing that space tourism will be the next big thing. They imagine a future in which space travel will have become a reality for millions of ordinary people.

At the moment, space tourism is only a possibility for the incredibly wealthy. In 2001, American multi-millionaire Dennis Tito paid $20 million to become the first space tourist. After eight months of rigorous training, Tito traveled aboard a Russian capsule that was launched by an American company called 'Space Adventures.'

He then spent seven days aboard the International Space Station. Since then, a number of other millionaire space tourists of different nationalities have gone into space.

Although up to now only very wealthy people have had the opportunity to be space tourists, many see this as the beginning of what will eventually become a lucrative new industry. There are several companies that have already invested millions of dollars in developing new, reusable launch vehicles. Their goal is to lower launch costs enough to make it possible for the average person to buy a ticket to space. The Japanese Rocket Society, for example, has set a target price of one million yen (about $10,000).

Virgin Galactic, a British company owned by Richard Branson's Virgin Group, has been working on plans for sending people into space for years. The company is about to begin testing of their eight-seat spacecraft, and expects that they will have worked out any problems by 2022. When the spacecraft is shown to be safe, Virgin Galactic will begin their flights. Although tickets are a steep £100,000 ($123,000), amazingly, the first year of flights has already been booked. One of these future passengers is Lisa Ramirez, a mother of three. When asked why she was prepared to spend so much money on a Galactic flight, Ramirez explained, "I'm 58 years old, and by the time this happens, I will have been dreaming of going to space for at least 45 years!"

There are even companies working on plans to build hotels for space tourists. The Shimizu Corporation, a giant Japanese construction company, has detailed plans for a space hotel concept. They plan to create a 64-room hotel which will orbit 279 miles (450 kilometers) above the surface of Earth. The hotel will slowly spin in order to produce enough force to simulate Earth's gravity. It is estimated that such a space hotel would cost 6 to 12 billion dollars, and would take about six years to build.

Since water was discovered on the moon in 1998, the multi-national hotel chain, Hilton Hotels, has been working on plans for a hotel on the moon. The plans call for a 5,000-room complex with a beach, a working farm, a medical center, and even a school. Two huge solar panels will generate the power. Hilton is working on this project with experts at NASA.

You may wonder what space tourists will do while in space. To begin with, most will probably want to spend some time simply enjoying the incredible sight of Earth from space. After that, no doubt they will spend some time gazing at the amazingly bright stars, and will take a space walk or two. When space tourists have had their fill of observing, they are likely to spend hours amusing themselves floating and doing acrobatics in the zero gravity of space. This zero gravity could provide endless recreational opportunities, including swimming in a zero gravity swimming pool in which people move through a floating mass of water.

With so much research, energy, and money being poured into space tourism, it is clear that it is a matter of when, rather than if space tourism will become a reality.

After Reading

Answer true or false. Rewrite the false statements to make them true.

1. _____ The first tourist in space paid two million dollars.
2. _____ Virgin Galactic is struggling to book its first year of flights.
3. _____ A Japanese construction company has plans to build a hotel in space.
4. _____ The entire hotel will experience zero gravity.
5. _____ The Hilton Hotel chain plans to power a moon hotel with wind power.
6. _____ Hilton Hotels is working on the moon hotel with NASA.

9 Speaking

1. Work in groups/pairs. Think about space tourism in the future. Do you think it will happen? Why? Why not?
2. What do you think some of the advantages and disadvantages will be?
3. Think about transportation, accommodation, cost, and advertising.
4. Make notes in the chart and use them to help you present your opinion and discuss in class.

3 What Will They Think of Next?

10 Writing

- A. 1. How do you think the world will have changed by the year 2050? Think about cities, crops, manufacturing, vehicles, trade, homes and other buildings, and measures to protect people from environmental factors, such as radiation from nuclear power stations.
- 2. How do you think Saudi Arabia will change in the future? What progress and developments will have been made by 2030 in areas, such as education, society, the economy, technology, culture, and infrastructure?
- 3. Read the text and compare your ideas in 2 with the plans in the text.
- 4. Look at the use of active and passive voice in the text. Which is used most often? Why?

All success stories start with a vision, and successful visions are based on strong pillars. By 2030 our Vision for the country will have been implemented, providing greater opportunities for our people.

The pillars on which we will build this Vision are firstly, our status as the heart of the Arab and Islamic worlds, secondly, our determination to become a global investment powerhouse and finally, the transformation of our unique strategic location into a global hub connecting three continents, Asia, Europe and Africa.

By 2030, our Vision will have been developed into reality, built around three themes: a vibrant society, a thriving economy and an ambitious nation.

This first theme is vital to achieving the vision and a strong foundation for economic prosperity.

We recognize the importance of preserving our society and our sophisticated heritage in order to promote national unity and consolidate true Islamic and Arab values. We will endeavor to strengthen, preserve and highlight our national identity so that it can guide the lives of future generations. We will do so by keeping true to our national values and principles, as well as by encouraging social development and upholding the Arabic language. We will continue to work on the restoration of national, Arab, Islamic and ancient cultural sites and strive to make them accessible to everyone, and in the process, create cultural events and build world-class museums which will attract visitors from near and far.

Our cities already enjoy high levels of security and development. Our citizens are safe, secure and healthy. We will continue to maintain this through supporting infrastructure development, providing high-quality services and keeping our crime rates (already among the lowest in the world) very low. We will further continue to develop and provide meaningful recreation facilities to our citizens and encourage the exchange of knowledge and cultural experiences through community clubs and pastimes.

In the second theme, a thriving economy provides opportunities for all by building an education system aligned with market needs and creating economic opportunities for entrepreneurs and small enterprises as well as the large corporations. Therefore, we will develop our investment tools to unlock our promising economic sectors, diversify our economy and create job opportunities. We will also expand our economy and improve the quality of our services. We will continue to support our already excellent education system to help young people gain the skills and training to enter the job market and find work.

Our nation is ambitious in what we want to achieve. We will improve efficiency and take responsibility seriously at all levels. Our third theme is built on an effective, transparent, accountable, enabling and high-performing government. We will also prepare the right environment for our citizens, the private sector and non-profit sector to take their responsibilities and take the initiative in facing challenges and seizing opportunities. One of our responsibilities is towards not only the people of our country and our visitors, but also to the environment. By preserving our environment and natural resources, we fulfill our Islamic, human and moral duties. We will seek to safeguard our environment by increasing the efficiency of waste management. We will promote the optimal use of our water resources and we will direct our efforts towards protecting and rehabilitating our areas of natural beauty.

* Adapted from the text of the Vision Programs at <https://vision2030.gov.sa/en> and from the text that was drafted by the Council of Economic and Development Affairs as instructed by the Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques King Salman bin Abdulaziz Al Saud.

- B.
1. Choose one development in the text which will have been completed by 2030.
 2. Think about the impact this development will have on both your personal life and on society. Write your ideas in the organizer.
 3. Write an essay presenting your ideas and give some examples.

The development that will have taken place by 2030:
The impact on my life:
The impact on society:

Education in 2030

By 2030, the Vision Program will have made great progress in developing more ways for us to learn effectively. I think that in addition to supporting teachers and students even more with resources and training, we will also be able to learn from home via the use of computers. This will be helpful for people who live in remote areas or when a child is sick and cannot get to school. There will be online classes and perhaps we will have project materials delivered by drones!

Writing Corner

When you write a personal essay which expresses your views:

- make notes before you start writing to plan what you want to say.
- organize your thoughts into paragraphs; for example, describe the change in the introduction. Use the main body to talk about the impact on you and the impact on society.
- include a conclusion to sum up your views or opinions. Don't include any new information in the conclusion.
- be creative but focused on the topic.
- you don't have to be objective.
- address your audience directly.
- use I narration, as in I think or I feel.
- include examples, personal anecdotes, thoughts, interpretations, or ideas.
- try to get your point across as clearly as possible.
- do not repeat yourself.

Words Connected with Space and the Planetary System: Part 1

Some words we associate with space and the planetary system are:

technology	gas	solar system	rocks	orbit
space station	gravity	the moon	volcanoes	launch
spacecraft	stars	the sun	poisonous air	land
robot car	meteors	Earth	high mountains	take photos
astronauts	eclipse	the planets	atmosphere	build

Our planet Earth is a lump of rock in space.

Each planet orbits the sun on its own invisible path.

The sun was formed by thick clouds of dust and gas.

The moon is the only place in space where people have landed.

An eclipse is when the moon moves in front of the sun for a short time. The sky gets darker and the temperature drops.

C. Complete these facts about space with an appropriate word. Use the vocabulary words above.

1. The sun is at the center of our _____. _____ is one planet in a group of eight planets. Scientists now consider Pluto to be a dwarf planet.
2. The sun is a _____. Because it is very close to Earth, it looks bigger than the other stars.
3. Sometimes a _____ crashes into the moon and makes a crater or giant hole in the surface.
4. In the future, scientists want to _____ hotels on the _____ so people can go there on vacation.

D. Work with a partner. One person should read EXTRACT 1 and the other person should read EXTRACT 2. Ask and answer each other to talk about your reading extract.

A: What is EXTRACT 2 about?

B: It's about space tourism and what tourists will do in space.

A: What will they do?

EXTRACT 1

Are humans the only intelligent life in the universe? Or, are we just one of many advanced civilizations out there? While people used to assume we were alone in the universe, we now know that the galaxy contains over 100 billion stars. This fact has led many scientists to think it unlikely that we are the only intelligent life form in the universe. Some of these scientists have devoted themselves to searching for other civilizations. This search is commonly referred to as the Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence, or SETI. Since the SETI program began in 1959, scientists have been scanning the sky for signals sent by another, alien civilization. To do this, they used the world's largest radio telescope which is located in Arecibo, Puerto Rico. The Arecibo telescope is 1,000 feet (305 meters) in diameter. This telescope is so large, it is said that it could hold 10 billion bowls of cornflakes! Prior to its partial collapse on December 1, 2020, the telescope collected and sent data to SETI computers 24 hours a day.

EXTRACT 2

There are companies working on plans to build hotels for space tourists. The Shimizu Corporation, a giant Japanese construction company, has detailed plans for a space hotel concept. They believe they can build a 64-room hotel which will orbit 279 miles (450 kilometers) above the surface of Earth. The hotel will slowly spin in order to produce enough force to simulate Earth's gravity. It is estimated that such a space hotel would cost 6 to 12 billion dollars, and would take about six years to build. You may wonder what space tourists will do while in space. To begin with, most will probably want to spend some time simply enjoying the incredible sight of Earth from space. After that, no doubt they will spend some time gazing at the amazingly bright stars, and will take a space walk or two. When space tourists have had their fill of observing, they are likely to spend hours amusing themselves floating and doing acrobatics in the zero gravity of space. This zero gravity could provide endless recreational opportunities, including swimming in a zero gravity swimming pool in which people move through a floating mass of water.

Take a closer look at your neighborhood or an area in your town or city and think about changes that have been taking place over the last year or two.

1. Look at the area and write things that you see, e.g. old and new buildings, sidewalks, street lights, new and old stores, traffic, sanitation system, parks, etc.
2. Research and collect information about constructions or other projects. Talk to people who live in the area. This type of information will give you ideas about the kinds of development/ changes that will probably take place.
3. Use the chart to make notes about the information and your ideas.
4. Think of how the area will have changed by 2030 or 2040.
5. Select and print out pictures or draw if possible.
6. Use your notes and pictures to prepare a PowerPoint presentation for your class.

1 Listen and Discuss

1. What is your favorite TV film? Explain why it is your favorite.
2. Which of the following genres do you like best: animation, comedy, or adventure? Why?
3. What's the worst TV film you have ever seen? Explain.

1 NAME THE TV FILM

About the story: This science fiction action-adventure film is about the efforts of a group of people to save the surviving dinosaurs on Isla Nublar, a fictional Central American island in the Pacific. Three years after the Jurassic World theme park was closed down and the island was abandoned by humans, a dormant volcano on the island becomes active, threatening the dinosaurs living there. Claire Dearing, the theme park's former operations manager, and Owen Grady, the park's former velociraptor trainer, set out to rescue the remaining dinosaurs before the volcano erupts and destroys the island. While Owen is looking for Blue, the last surviving velociraptor, he uncovers a conspiracy that could change life on the whole planet

2 NAME THE TV FILM

About the story: This animated film presents the story of a lion cub's journey to adulthood. The cub is the son of a powerful and wise king. But his happy childhood comes to an abrupt end when his evil uncle murders his father and drives him away from the kingdom. The young lion goes into exile in the jungle, where he makes two good friends and lives a carefree life. However, as he gets older, he dreams of his father, who tells him to battle his evil uncle and reclaim his family throne.

3 NAME THE TV FILM

About the story: This action-adventure comedy film is about a small, extremely fast, blue hedgehog called Sonic, and his adventures on Earth. After traveling to Earth from another planet, Sonic spends many lonely years living in secret near the fictional town of Green Hills, Montana, in the United States. One night, he runs at supersonic speed while playing baseball by himself and this causes a power outage in a large part of the country, so the government asks evil genius Dr. Robotnik to investigate. Luckily, Sonic meets and becomes friends with local town sheriff Tom Wachowski and the two team up to stop Dr. Robotnik from capturing Sonic and using his powers to rule the world.

4 NAME THE TV FILM

About the story: This is a documentary about Bruce Lee's life, career, and death. It reveals a side of Lee unknown to the public, along with the better known qualities of the celebrity—the man that the world knew. Lee had been working on a new project at the time of his death, ironically titled Game of Death. Rare camera shots have been included in the documentary according to Lee's own script notes in an attempt to convey his ambitions for the project and his frame of mind toward the end of his life.

5 NAME THE TV FILM

About the story: Based on the real life story of prominent mathematician John Nash, this film portrays Nash's struggle with his delusions caused by a mental condition. Nash starts a seemingly promising academic career and makes a remarkable advancement in "game theory," when he begins having delusions and struggles to maintain control over his mental state. His wife, Alicia, stands by him through years of therapy, and he is eventually able to resume his research and goes on to win the prestigious Nobel Prize.

Answers:

- 1. Jurassic World: Fallen Kingdom.
- 2. The Lion King.
- 3. Sonic the Hedgehog.
- 4. Bruce Lee: A Warrior's Journey.
- 5. A Beautiful Mind.

Quick Check

A. Vocabulary. Complete each sentence with a word from the box.

abrupt	animated	prominent	death

2. Which TV films are set in places that don't exist in real life?
3. In which film does a character have superpowers?
4. Which two TV films are biographical?

2 Pair Work

In pairs, create your own clues for one or two TV films or documentaries you have seen. Read the clues to your class and see if they can guess the film or documentary.

3 Grammar

Both...And, Not Only...But Also, Either...Or, Neither...Nor

Both...and, not only...but also, either...or, and neither...nor are all paired conjunctions. They are used to link two words, phrases, or clauses of the same type. For example, nouns are linked with nouns, adjectives are linked with adjectives, and verbs are linked with verbs.

My favorite film is either Sonic the Hedgehog or The Lion King.
He is not only hardworking, but also intelligent.

When connecting two subjects with both...and, be sure to use a plural verb.

Both my father and his boss were present in the meeting.

When connecting two subjects using either...or, not only...but also, or neither...nor, the choice to use a singular or plural verb depends on the subject that is closer to the verb.

Neither my uncle nor my brothers want to see that documentary.
Neither my brothers nor my uncle wants to see that documentary.

Independent Clauses with And, But, Or, So, and Yet

An independent clause is a group of words that includes a subject and verb. It expresses a complete thought, and can stand alone as a sentence.

I ordered the engine part online.

Two or more independent clauses can be combined with coordinating conjunction words, like and, but, or, so, and yet.

I ordered the engine part online, but now I can't find the confirmation number.

The conference hall wasn't air-conditioned, so I demanded a refund.

I liked the book, yet I hated the film.

Note: When a sentence includes two independent clauses joined by a coordinating conjunction, use a comma before the coordinating conjunction.

A. Complete each sentence with the correct paired conjunction and an idea of your own.

 She arrived with both her brother and her sister.

1. We like neither fast food _____.
2. The university is both prestigious _____.
3. He not only plays basketball well, _____.
4. We're either going to eat pizza _____.
5. I neither watch TV _____.
6. The policeman not only stopped the crime, _____.
7. In the morning, she drinks either coffee _____.
8. Jack has neither called us _____.
9. Bruno has both a sore throat _____.
10. You can either look for a new job _____.

B. Combine each pair of sentences using a paired conjunction.

Neither Jack nor Richard is old enough to vote.

1. The Statue of Liberty is in New York. The Empire State Building is in New York.
2. She broke her leg. She dislocated her shoulder.
3. Bill James didn't succeed in climbing Mount Everest. Charlie Bower didn't succeed in climbing Mount Everest.
4. I'll call you later. I'll email you later.
5. We're not angry. We're not disappointed.
6. Ice is a state of water. Vapor is a state of water.

C. First, match the independent clauses. Then rewrite them as one sentence using a coordinating conjunction and correct punctuation.

💡 You can admit your mistake, or you can just hope no one notices it.

- | | |
|-----------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------|
| 1. You can admit your mistake. c | a. She continues to consider her a friend. |
| 2. I told them I'd come over for dinner. ____ | b. The other lives in Argentina. |
| 3. He's a vegetarian. ____ | c. You can just hope no one notices it. |
| 4. She's lied to her more than once. ____ | d. He continues to miss his home in Brazil. |
| 5. One of their children lives in Japan. ____ | e. He's not going to eat any beef burgers. |
| 6. He's very comfortable in the U.S. ____ | f. I'm really not feeling well. |

D. Write sentences about the animals using both paired conjunctions and coordinating conjunctions.

💡 Both the cheetah and the ostrich are fast runners.

goldfish	deer	salmon	bear	camel	ostrich	hawk
fox	elephant	snake	penguin	turtle	cheetah	tiger

4 Conversation

- Adel: That was such a fantastic basketball game on TV.
- Fahd: You must be joking.
- Adel: Why? Didn't you like it?
- Fahd: I thought it was a terrible game. The whole thing was just awful.
- Adel: What didn't you like about it?
- Fahd: For one thing, the Bulls' key player missed every easy shot. It really bothered me throughout the entire game.
- Adel: Well, you're right about that. But what else didn't you like?
- Fahd: I thought their uniforms were ridiculous. I found the whole idea of the Bulls' players wearing cowhide tops hard to swallow.
- Adel: I don't agree at all. The whole idea is to stand out in the game. The tops are not real cowhide. It's fake cowhide.
- Fahd: I'm not sure they were fake. Think of all the poor animals they took the hides from. They must believe that the poor animals are a dime a dozen. Anyway, by the end of the game, I started to doze off.
- Adel: We seem to have very different tastes in basketball and uniforms. Maybe next time we get together we should just go out to a restaurant.
- Fahd: I couldn't agree more.

About the Conversation

1. What did Adel like about the game?
2. What did Fahd dislike about the players?

Real Talk

just = really, very hard to swallow = not easy to believe a dime a dozen = something so common that it doesn't have much value doze off = fall asleep

8 Reading

Before Reading

Brainstorm a list of elements in a detective story.

The Formula behind Detective Stories on TV

Detective stories have always been a favorite in literature, and now they are one of the most popular genres in TV films and series. There is something appealing about the mystery and intrigue that captivates viewers and keeps them in suspense until the case is finally solved.

But what accounts for the phenomenal success and enduring popularity of detective stories? Is it the charismatic and fearless hero and his uncanny ability to uncover the truth? Is it the action and adventure—the high-speed chases, danger, and exotic settings? Is it the psychological wit and hi-tech gadgets that the detective has at his disposal? Or is it the simple fact that the viewer knows the hero will triumph over the villain in the end?

Clearly, the TV audience enjoys the mystery and non-stop suspense of detective films. However, ironically, there is also predictability to the story that is tremendously appealing. Certain elements and sequences of events appear over and over in detective stories and are eagerly awaited by fans. TV films and series with such predictable elements are known as formula films. The TV audience knows the plot will be puzzling and sometimes have unexpected results. They know the hero will confront dangerous villains. They know there will be complicated steps involved in piecing together all the clues, and they are challenged to try to figure out the mystery before the detective.

The most basic element in the formula of a detective story is the hero—the detective. This is the character the viewer identifies with throughout the film. He is usually a courageous individual with superior intelligence. He is often charming and outgoing, which helps him socialize with others, while, in fact, he is collecting information from witnesses and gathering evidence for his case. Another type of hero is the gruff and serious detective, who rarely smiles, but is very efficient at his job. In contrast, the hero in detective comedies is a naïve and clumsy character who accidentally stumbles across clues to eventually solve the crime.

Of course, the villain also plays a crucial role in the story. On occasion, the villain's identity is a mystery and is only revealed at the end, but more often he is introduced to the TV audience. Just as there are formulaic types of heroes, there are stereotypical villains: cold-blooded, greedy criminals, evil geniuses, and mad scientists. Most villains also have physical or psychological defects that add to the ugliness of their character, such as a scarred face, a missing limb, or a split personality.

The detective is challenged to find the villain by following clues. To assist him, he uses special talents in intellectual reasoning or has help from technological devices. These range from a simple magnifying glass to sophisticated DNA analysis and electronic tracking devices. Some detectives even use high-tech gadgets that are disguised as everyday objects, such as an explosive pen, a laser watch, or a computerized, talking vehicle!

When the hero confronts the villain, there are always scenes of action and danger. These involve high-speed chases on any kind of vehicle imaginable—cars, motorcycles, helicopters, speed boats, skis, submarines, camels, or simply on foot. If the detective is captured, he finds himself in life-threatening situations and must use his skills to escape. He is then even more determined to catch the villain.

One way or another, the detective always accomplishes his mission, much to the satisfaction of the audience. The formula for detective stories is so successful; it is hard to imagine that it will ever be significantly altered. After all, who wants to watch a detective story without action and adventure, or in which the villain wins?

After Reading

Answer true or false. Rewrite the false statements to make them true.

1. ___ Detective stories are only popular on TV.
2. ___ The success of detective stories is due to a combination of elements.
3. ___ Many elements of a detective story are predictable.
4. ___ All detective stories have an intelligent and charming hero.
5. ___ The formula of detective stories is likely to change in the future.

9 Speaking

1. Work in pairs/groups. Compare two TV films or documentaries that you have seen. Think about the characters, setting, plot, story development, special effects, and other features in the TV films; consider the theme, setting, time period, history, special effects, and outcome in the documentaries.
2. Make notes in the appropriate chart. Use your notes to talk about the similarities and differences of the TV films/documentaries that you have compared in class.

Title	TV Film 1: _____	TV Film 2: _____ characters/actors setting plot story development
special effects
other features

Title	TV Documentary 1: _____	TV Documentary 2: _____
theme setting/location time period history special effects outcome

10 Writing

- A. 1. What kind of TV films do you enjoy? Why?
- 2. Are there categories of TV films that you are not interested in or you dislike? Which? Why?
- 3. Can you explain what is meant by “film genres”?
- 4. Read the text and find out.
- What are genres? How are they defined?
 - How easy is it to classify TV films?
 - Are there distinct and permanent categories? Why? Why not?
- 5. What are the distinguishing characteristics of different genres? Underline/highlight words/phrases or sentences that provide the answer.

action	adventure	comedy	drama	animation	epics

Main Genres of TV Films

Film genres are categories of films based on theme, setting, plots/stories, characters, and other specific features such as special effects, computer enhancement, animation, etc. There are major genres and subgenres. For example, adventure and action films are quite well-known and associated with popular heroes such as Superman or the Rambo sequels.

It is not always easy to classify films as they often combine elements of different genres. Kung Fu Panda, for instance, is an animated film which can also be categorized as an action film. This is the reason why some films are listed in different categories or a category that is more popular at a given time.

Film genres evolve through time. Action films featuring martial arts specialists and superhuman heroes used to be very popular over a decade ago. They still exist, but they seem to have lost their initial appeal. If a film includes action and is filmed in tropical settings, is it an action film or an adventure film? Would you say that Toy Story belongs to animation as a genre or comedy? Is it more of one or the other? And if so, which?

Detective films are developed around stories of criminal actions and include elements of mystery and suspense. Dramas, on the other hand, are serious films, portraying realistic life situations, character development, and interaction. They include a number of subcategories, e.g. melodramas, biographies, or “biopics.” Epics are usually costume dramas, historical dramas, or war dramas in extravagant settings with lavish costumes. They are sometimes a more spectacular version of a biopic film, such as The Last Emperor.

Horror films are designed and produced to frighten audiences. They are sometimes combined with science fiction when, for example, Earth is invaded by an alien monster. Science fiction films, on the other hand, are often visionary, with futuristic technology and extraordinary creatures from outer space. One of the most famous examples of this genre is E.T.

War films portray the horror and destruction of war and are often combined with documentary excerpts. They are also paired with other genres depending on the story, e.g. action, adventure, drama, comedy, etc. Finally, Westerns represent one of the oldest genres with easily recognizable plots, elements, and characters, including horses, dusty towns, Indians and cowboys, good and bad guys, a sheriff and deputies, etc. In other words, they follow a common formula which has been modified, developed, expanded, supplemented, and revisited over the years.

If you look up film genres in different sources, you will find that they share some categories but not others. Once again, this is quite natural, given the evolutionary nature of film genres and changing trends in popularity that reflect overall social and financial trends.

- B.
1. Think of a TV film genre that uses a formula (e.g. action, adventure, comedy, Western). Choose a particular TV film in this genre as an example.
 2. Think about the different parts of the formula. Use a diagram to make notes.
 3. Write an expository essay in which you reveal and explain the formula behind the film.

A Coming-of-Age Film

The Lion King is a coming-of-age film. Coming-of-age films focus on a young person's journey to adulthood, often both emotionally and physically. In these kinds of films there is usually a role model who helps teach the main character, and there is usually a test that the character must undergo. The Lion King is a good example of this kind of film because...

Writing Corner

When you write an expository essay:

- choose a specific area of a topic to focus on.
- think about your audience or readers.
- research and collect information from different sources.
- think of examples and comments made by others.
- you can use quotes, exchanges, and arguments from your sources.
- if necessary, you can present the information in three main sections:
 - a. an introduction and thesis statement;
 - b. a longer paragraph or a number of paragraphs presenting the information about different aspects or categories of the main topic;
 - c. a closing paragraph.
- you are free to use different types of text, arguments, and material, including visuals.

11 Form, Meaning and Function

Comparative and Superlative Forms of Adjectives

The Comparative

Use more/less + adjective, or adjective + -er to make the comparative.

Detective stories are more/less popular than stories about space travel.

Goldfish are smaller than clownfish.

Use words such as: a little, slightly, much, a lot, considerably, definitely, and certainly to express how much something differs, or to add emphasis.

Children's TV films are considerably better than they used to be.

Use as+ adjective + as to compare things that are equal or similar.

Dora and the Lost City of Gold is as good as Sonic the Hedgehog.

Use not as + adjective + as to compare things that are different.

The Lion King and Jurassic Park are good TV films but not as good as Star Wars.

Use the + comparative, the + comparative to describe two actions. The second action happens as a result of the first.

The more I hear about the Giza Pyramids, the more I want to know.

The harder he works at speaking English, the better he becomes.

The Superlative

Use the + adjective + -est or the most/least + adjective to make the superlative.

The Nobel prize is the most prestigious award a scientist can win.

The company director agreed that it was the least attractive offer, but he was obliged to take it.

We can use the expression by far to add emphasis.

Pirates of the Caribbean is by far the best TV film of all.

A. Write sentences about the animals using comparative and superlative structures.

camel • cat • cheetah • donkey • eagle • elephant • goldfish • horse • ostrich • snake • tiger • lion

-  1. Both cheetahs and tigers are big cats.
Lions are the biggest of the cats.
The biggest tigers are as big as lions.
Cheetahs are a lot smaller and more slender in comparison.
The cheetah is by far the fastest land animal on Earth.

1. cheetah/tiger/lion
2. camel/donkey/horse/elephant
3. ostrich/eagle
4. bear/snake
5. Your own idea

B. Imagine you are a contestant on a TV Quiz show. Work with a partner. Ask and answer the questions.

- | | |

Words Connected with Space and the Planetary System: Part 2

Look at this information about the planets in our solar system:

Name of Planet	Distance from the Sun (km)	Radius (km)	Number of moons	Geographical Features or Special Facts
Mercury	57,909,227	2,440	None	rocky
Venus	108,209,475	6,052	None	rocky, high mountains, volcanoes, poisonous air
Earth	149,598,262	6,371	1	rocky, inhabited, mountains, volcanoes
Mars	227,943,824	3,390	2	rocky, mountains, volcanoes
Jupiter	778,340,821	69,911	68	cold, rings
Saturn	1,426,666,422	58,232	62	cold, rings
Uranus	2,870,658,186	25,362	27	cold, icy rings
Neptune	4,498,396,441	24,622	14	cold, icy rings

Note: Our Solar System used to be described as a group of nine planets, but scientists now consider Pluto to be a dwarf planet.

Irregular Comparative and Superlative Adjectives

In most cases we make comparative and superlative adjectives by adding -er/-est, or we use more/most or less/least. However, a small number of adjectives are irregular.

well (healthy) – better – the best far (distance) –farther or further – the farthest or the furthest old (people in a family) – older or elder – the oldest or the eldest bad – worse – the worst good –better – the best

- C. Use the chart above to find information about the planets. Choose the correct word to make true facts about our solar system.

Some planets are much bigger and farther away from the sun than others. Jupiter is by far the (1. biggest / hottest) and Mercury is the (2. smallest / coldest) in our solar system. Mars is (3. closer / farther) from the sun than Earth. Mercury is the (4. closest / farthest) planet to the sun. It is so (5. close / far) to the sun that if you stood on the surface of the planet, the sun would appear at least three times (6. larger / smaller) than it does on Earth.

Mercury, Venus, Earth and Mars are all rocky planets, but Earth is the only one that is (7. inhabitable / uninhabitable), which means that people, animals and plants live on it. Venus is only (8. slightly / almost) smaller than Earth and has many high mountains and volcanoes. Venus is so (9. close / far) to the sun that the land is (10. hotter / colder) than boiling water. Mars is a (11. rocky / icy) planet and is known as the Red Planet because of the red color of the planet's surface. Mars is (12. almost / considerably) half the size of Earth.

The four planets (13. farthest / closest) away from the sun are Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune. They are very (14. hot / cold) and (15. green / icy) places. Jupiter has the (16. least / most) number of known moons. Jupiter's four (17. largest / smallest) moons were observed in 1610 by an Italian astronomer called Galileo Galilei. Saturn has the (18. least / most) spectacular ring system of all the planets. There are 7 rings made up of dust, rocks and ice. (19. Most / More) than 40 spacecraft have explored Saturn, but only one has visited Uranus and Neptune. Neptune is the (20. farthest / closest) from the sun and makes a complete orbit around the sun in about 165 Earth years.

12 Project

1. When certain kinds of films such as documentaries are being planned/ designed, a storyboard is created. A storyboard includes representative scenes with notes/comments. See the example below.
2. Think about the most important events and times of a famous figure's life that you can present in a documentary and make notes in the chart.

AGE	Important events and times
0 – 10
11 – 15
16 – 20
Over 20

3. Use the storyboard framework below. Write the script/commentary of the documentary under Comments and what will be happening in the scene under Action.
4. Use a large sheet of paper or cardboard to create a realistic storyboard. Draw and/or use photos or parts of photos and drawings for the scenes. Transfer your script and action notes onto the storyboard. You can write your notes by hand or word process them. Use a font that is easy to read. Present your storyboard in class.

2 Reading

Before Reading

1. Do you think there is life on other planets?
2. If there were life on other planets, how could we find this out?

IS ANYBODY OUT THERE?

Are humans the only intelligent life in the universe? Or, are we just one of many advanced civilizations out there? While people used to assume we were alone in the universe, we now know that the galaxy contains over 100 billion stars. This fact has led many scientists to think it unlikely that we are the only intelligent life form in the universe. Some of these scientists have devoted themselves to searching for other civilizations. This search is commonly referred to as the Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence, or SETI.

Since the SETI program began in 1959, scientists have been scanning the sky for signals sent by another alien civilization. To do this, they used the world's largest radio telescope which is located in Arecibo, Puerto Rico. The Arecibo telescope is 1,000 feet (305 meters) in diameter. This telescope is so large, it is said that it could hold 10 billion bowls of cornflakes! Prior to its partial collapse on December 1, 2020, the telescope collected and sent data to SETI computers 24 hours a day.

Many people don't realize that in addition to searching for radio waves, we humans are sending them out into space as well. This is because all of the radio and television signals that come into our homes also travel into space. We have been constantly and unintentionally leaking radio waves into space for over sixty years now. One day these signals may be detected by an alien civilization. In fact, it is possible that aliens are already listening to Who Wants to Be a Millionaire?, CSI, and The Simpsons!

Although SETI has found some unexplained signals, there have not been any clear, confirmed extraterrestrial signals yet. However, SETI scientists are not at all discouraged. They know that the universe is vast, and searching the entire sky for a distant signal is like searching for a needle in a haystack.

Not only are SETI scientists not discouraged, they are actually more optimistic than ever before. They do feel that in another 50 or 100 years, they will have succeeded in detecting alien signals. What is the reason for this confidence? Previous searches were limited by the shortcomings of available technology. For example, while there are hundreds of billions of stars in our galaxy, fewer than a thousand have been monitored for alien signals. But technology is improving all the time. As technology improves, scientists are going to have a better chance of picking up alien signals. In the next few decades, hundreds of thousands of stars, maybe even millions, will have been monitored.

Arecibo Radio Telescope

Dan Wertheimer, a SETI researcher at the University of California in Berkeley, says, “We’re making incredible progress. The more computing power you have, the better job you can do looking for these signals. Capabilities have been doubling every year.” One reason SETI’s computing power has been increasing is a volunteer program started in 1999 called SETI@home, in which the computers of ordinary people around the world are used to analyze SETI data.

Through the SETI@home program, volunteers download a special SETI screensaver to their home computer. When the computers are not in use and go into screensaver mode, the computers begin to analyze data gathered by the Arecibo radio telescope. The home computers search through the data for any signals that may have been created by an alien civilization. There are currently over 5 million volunteers in 225 countries participating in this program. Wertheimer says, “If you’re the lucky one that finds that distant signal, then you might get the Nobel Prize, but you’ll have to share it with 2 million people around the world who are helping us analyze that data.”

Some people find it hard to believe that perhaps one day we will be communicating with aliens from distant planets. But others feel differently. Eighty-six-year-old Daniel Jackman says, “When I was a young man, if you had told me that one day we were going to send people into space, I would’ve told you that you were crazy. Now I know better. Just because we’re used to certain limitations doesn’t mean we can’t go beyond them.”

We may well learn one day that we are not alone in the universe. In the meantime, when sitting on your couch, watching your favorite TV program, consider that an alien civilization may be listening to it with you!

After Reading

A. Match each word to its synonym.

- | | |
|--------------------------|-----------------|
| 1. _____ diameter | a. accidentally |
| 2. _____ detected | b. width |
| 3. _____ limitations | c. restrictions |
| 4. _____ monitored | d. observed |
| 5. _____ optimistic | e. searched |
| 6. _____ unintentionally | f. hopeful |
| 7. _____ vast | g. enormous |

B. Answer the questions.

1. What is the goal of the SETI program?
2. Why haven’t any signals been picked up from other planets yet?
3. Why are SETI scientists confident that they have a better chance of picking up signals in the future?
4. How do we send signals into space?
5. What is SETI@home?

Discussion

1. Do you think the SETI project will ever be successful? Why or why not?
2. Do you think it is a good idea to try to contact alien civilizations? Why or why not?

3. I don't want to discuss this any _____.

An expository essay is an essay in which the writer explains, describes, or gives information about a subject.

Writing Prompt

Write an expository essay about a common device or technology. Write about the history of the technology, and make predictions about how you think the technology will change in the future. Include grammar points from Units 1–4.

Write Your Essay

1. Decide on the type of device or technology you will write about.
2. Use a chart to organize your ideas. Write your topic at the top. Then write ideas about the past, present, and future of the device or technology.
3. Write a draft of your essay.
4. Have a partner read and comment on your draft. Use your partner's comments and suggestions to revise your essay.

Device/Technology: _____
Past	Present	Future

Developing Your Writing: Prewriting Techniques

Prewriting is an important first step in the writing process. Prewriting helps you explore and gather your ideas before you begin organizing and writing your essay. These are some of the most common types of prewriting techniques:

Freewriting: Freewriting involves taking the time (usually about five minutes) to write down all of the ideas you have about your topic before you begin researching or organizing the topic. When you freewrite, do not worry about using correct spelling, grammar, or punctuation, or even writing in complete sentences.

Brainstorming: Like freewriting, the purpose of brainstorming is to capture all of the ideas you have on a topic before you begin writing about it. However, when you brainstorm you only write words or phrases related to your topic.

Questioning: Ask the journalist's five W's—Who? What? When? Where? Why?—about the topic. List as many questions as you can about the topic. This will help you start thinking about questions to research and answer in your essay.

The Past, Present, and Future of the Telephone

Telephones are something we all take for granted. We are so used to having them that it is hard to imagine that they were only invented a little over 100 years ago. Just think, at the beginning of the twentieth century there were fewer than four million phones in the world. And if you wanted to speak with another person over the phone, you would need an operator to make the connection between you and the other person. Telephone technology has changed a lot over the last 100 years, and I believe in just another ten or twenty years it will have changed radically from what it is today...

- Which advertisements do you think are most effective? Why?

2 Pair Work

Work with a partner to choose a product. Create an advertisement for the product and share it with the class.

3 Grammar

Adverb Clauses

An adverb clause is a dependent clause. It begins with an adverb and is always linked to an independent clause.

Because the shoes were on sale, I bought two pairs.
(adverb clause) (independent clause)

Don't buy that dress unless you really need it.
(independent clause) (adverb clause)

Note: When an adverb clause begins the sentence, use a comma to separate it from the independent clause. When the adverb clause is at the end, do not use a comma.

Because, because of, since, and now that begin adverb clauses that give information about reasons.

They closed the store early, since there were no customers.

Because of must be followed by a noun (or noun phrase).

They went to the mall, because of the sale.

(In order) to and so (that) begin adverb clauses that give information about purpose.

(In order) to must be followed with the base form of the verb.

Advertisements use many techniques in order to convince people to buy products.

Clauses with so (that) usually include a modal.

I left my wallet at home, so that I wouldn't be tempted to buy anything.

If, even if, in case, only if, and unless begin adverb clauses that give information about conditions.

I'll write down my phone number in case you need it.

Use if to show that the condition affects the result. Use even if to show that it does not. Use the present tense with an if-clause, even if it refers to a future time.

We won't go to the picnic if it rains.

We're going to the picnic, even if it rains.

Where, wherever, and everywhere begin adverb clauses that give information about place.

He buys something wherever he goes.

The advertisements were placed everywhere you could imagine.

A. Match the main clauses and adverb clauses to form sentences. Use correct punctuation.

 They patented their new formula so that no one else could use it.

- | | |
|---------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1. They patented their new formula c | a. I feel so much more energetic |
| 2. She can't use that brand of make-up ____ | b. only if I finish my paper tonight |

4 Conversation

Farah: Wow! Look at all those bags! I wouldn't buy any more if I were you. I think you're going to regret spending so much money today. You bought four sweaters, three dresses, and two pairs of shoes.

Amal: Actually, I bought three pairs of shoes. But don't worry. I'm not buying another thing. I don't think I could carry anything else. And anyway, after all this shopping, I'm officially broke.

Farah: Let's go so that you're not tempted to buy anything else. Hey, where are you going?

Amal: Look at this gorgeous sweater!

Farah: Amal! Didn't you just say you weren't going to buy another thing?

Amal: Yeah, but now I'm not so sure. I hardly have any red sweaters, and this one is adorable.

Farah: I thought you were broke. I would just walk away from it if I were you.

Amal: Well, I do have my credit card.

Farah: I don't think using your credit card is a good idea. Think carefully about it before you blow more money on more clothes.

Amal: You're right. I'd better not max out my credit card. OK. I'm going to show some self-control. If I stay here another minute or two, I'll break down and buy it. So quick—let's beat it.

About the Conversation

1. Where are Farah and Amal? How do you know?
2. What is Farah trying to convince Amal not to do? Why?
3. What does Amal change her mind about in the conversation?

Real Talk

broke = out of money blow = waste money max out = spend up to the limit beat it = leave quickly

Your Turn

Role-play with a partner. Imagine that you are about to do something that is enjoyable, but probably isn't a good idea, such as spending a lot of money on clothes, taking a nap when you should be studying, or eating a second helping of dessert. Your partner will try to convince you not to do it, using the phrases for advising against something.

Advising Against Something

Are you sure you want to do that?
I don't think that's a good idea.
I wouldn't do that if I were you.
I'm afraid you're going to regret it if you...
You should think carefully before you...

5 Listening

Listen to the lecture about advertising techniques. Then identify the kind of technique each product uses.

		Advertising Technique
1.	Sparkle Bright toothpaste
2.	Dew Top cola
3.	Indigo jeans
4.	Caremark cards
5.	Safe Home alarm systems

6 Pronunciation

The word to has different pronunciations. Before consonants, to is generally pronounced /tu/, like the first sound in the word tug. Before vowels, to is generally pronounced /tu:/ like the word two. Listen and practice.

1. Good morning and welcome to Advertising 101.
2. You are here today because you want to learn the secrets behind how advertisers sell to consumers.
3. Because viewers admire and want to be like the person, they may want to use the product.
4. The advertiser tries to get the viewer to respond to the commercial with some kind of strong emotion.
5. The advertiser wants the consumer to associate the product with the emotion.

7 Vocabulary Building

A. You will see the following words in the reading on pages 74 and 75. Match the words with their meanings.

- | | |
|-------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------|
| 1. _____ consumer | a. shockingly strange or unexpected |
| 2. _____ exposed | b. design symbol of a business or product |
| 3. _____ logo | c. without planning |

8 Reading

Before Reading

Make a list of all the places you see ads in your everyday life. How many ads do you think you are exposed to in an average day?

ADS EVERYWHERE: Do You “Buy” It?

For most people, it is virtually impossible to go through the day without seeing advertisements. From the time we wake up and flip on the TV or check our email, we are surrounded by advertisements. They are in magazines, on buses, on billboards, online, and on buildings, to name just a few of the places we see them throughout the day. According to a recent study, the average person is exposed to between 400 and 600 advertisements each day. This means that by the time we are 60, we will have been exposed to 9 to 13 million advertisements!

In the past, advertisements were usually designed to reach people in their homes through traditional approaches, like TV commercials and newspaper and magazine ads. However, people's viewing habits have changed dramatically in the last couple of decades. These days, people are less likely to give one form of media their full attention. For example, even if someone is watching TV, they are also often using the Internet at the same time. Advertisers need the consumer's attention in order to promote their products. But because getting this attention is harder than it used to be, advertisers have been forced to find new ways of reaching the consumer.

One unconventional place advertisements are popping up in is doctors' offices. In some doctors' offices, pharmaceutical companies advertise products on everything from boxes of tissues to the paper covering the exam table. Doctors get free products, and the advertisers get the consumers' attention. Similarly, advertisements are becoming more common in schools. “Free” products such as book covers and educational posters are offered by companies so that the company can advertise on these materials. In the U.S., a company called Channel One broadcasts a ten-minute news program followed by two minutes of commercials each day in 350,000 schools. Because the schools show these news programs, the companies give them thousands of dollars worth of much needed audiovisual equipment.

Advertisers have found that one of the best ways to get consumer attention is to place ads in unusual places. So, ads are popping up in all kinds of unexpected places like pizza boxes, grocery carts, air sickness bags on airplanes, and even on pieces of food like bananas and apples. A television network recently imprinted its logo on 35 million eggs. They called the approach “egg-vertisements.”

One of the strangest developments in advertising has been people selling advertising space on themselves! This mini-trend began in 2005 when a man offered his face for advertising to the highest bidder on eBay. A pharmaceutical company won the spot, paying the man $37,375 to place a temporary sticker on his forehead to advertise one of their products. He may have been the first to offer such an unusual exchange, but he was not the last.

Perhaps the sneakiest form of advertising is called buzz marketing. This involves a company hiring people to create excitement about a product. In exchange for free products or money, these people pretend to talk about the product spontaneously in everyday settings to people they meet in their daily lives. Sometimes professional actors are even hired to pose as users of the product. If the technique is done correctly, the consumers do not even know that they were the target of buzz marketing. Lately, buzz marketing has been spreading to chat rooms, Internet forums, and blogs.

Wherever we go, advertisements seem to follow. Unless you're reading this article on a desert island, there's probably an advertisement close by. And there seems to be no limit to the lengths advertisers will go to in order to catch our attention. In the years ahead, we can expect advertisers to come up with even more creative, surprising, and outlandish forms of advertising in their ongoing efforts to grab our attention—and our wallets!

After Reading

1. How many advertisements is the average person exposed to each day?
2. What are traditional advertising approaches?
3. What does the author of the article consider to be one of the strangest developments in advertising?
4. What does the author consider to be the sneakiest form of advertising?

9 Speaking

1. Work in pairs/groups. Think about advertising that is used to address adults, teenagers, and young children in your country. Decide on 2-3 products and/or services for each age group. Which advertisements are more memorable, in your view?
2. Talk about the slogans, images, and methods/techniques used in these advertisements and make notes in the chart. Then use your notes to discuss your ideas in class.

Target group	Product/service 1	Product/service 2	Method/technique

10 Writing

- A. 1. Do you enjoy writing by hand? Why? Why not?
2. Do you think handwriting is a useful skill? Why? Why not?
3. Read the text and find out.
- What does handwriting involve?
 - Why are some people not keen on writing by hand?
 - What can specialists find out about someone through his or her handwriting?
 - Why is word-processing popular?
 - Which types of tests are mentioned? What is the difference between them?
 - What is the writer's viewpoint on the issue? Do you agree or disagree? Why?

Is handwriting obsolete?

Handwriting involves forming letters with a writing implement. Proper handwriting, i.e. cursive writing, normally requires formal training that is still in place in some schools. Naturally, at initial literacy levels young learners are trained to manipulate a writing implement and develop their eye-hand coordination so they can form letters.

As learners get older, however, they are more reluctant to write. One of the reasons mentioned is the fact that most people word-process, making handwriting unnecessary. Even older adults that used to have a distinct handwriting style often claim to have lost the ability to write smoothly and evenly. So is handwriting obsolete? Should we forget about it?

Handwriting has been a very distinct identifying feature. It represents the writer in more ways than one. Graphologists analyze handwriting to determine character traits, gender, personality, and emotional state or to authenticate documents. Allowing it to truly become obsolete would remove an identity marker that has been regarded quite highly in historical and personal terms. Handwritten notes of prominent authors are coveted by collectors, who will often pay exorbitant amounts to possess them.

On the other hand, most of us will invariably use a computer when we write. It is fast and efficient, and it makes editing so much easier. You can delete, copy, paste, and store versions of your work throughout stages of editing for later reference; you can spell-check and search for words or alternative expressions. Compared to all these advantages, handwriting seems so restricting and restricted that most computer literate people limit it to scribbling notes for someone or filling in forms that are not available in electronic form.

Tests, you might argue, require handwriting. Some do and some are computer-based; it is true, however, that a substantial number of pen and paper tests require writing by hand within a set time limit. "Rusty" handwriting is likely to affect the final score.

Overall, there seems to be some resistance to the total and unbroken hegemony of the computer, indicating that people do not want to become totally reliant on it. They are keen to hang on to some of the more tangible aspects of literate life that can be manipulated and accessed without the help of a device, such as reading books or writing by hand.

In view of the above, we would have to consider a more inclusive standpoint that allows us to exploit technological advances, while maintaining the ability to write with a simple implement on a surface for someone to read. Being able to record ideas, information, and messages in a self-sufficient and independent manner allows us to control the action itself and continue being masters of our expression.

4. Read the text again and identify:
- thesis statements
 - supporting statements
5. What are some of the differences between this text and an expository essay?

- B. 1. Decide whether or not you support advertising in schools.
2. Think about reasons why advertising in schools is a good or bad idea. Use an organizer to write down your ideas.
3. Write a letter to your local newspaper about this topic, trying to convince the reader that your view is correct.

Dear Editor,

In response to last week's article about the rights and wrongs of advertising in schools, I am writing to give you my opinion on why I think it is a positive thing.

First of all, having adverts in and around the school gives teachers the opportunity to teach students about the field of marketing and advertising

Moreover, ...

To sum up, ...

Writing Corner

When you write a letter to communicate your opinion and feelings on a controversial topic:

- start with an appropriate greeting: Dear Editor, Dear Sir or Madam, Dear Mr. Jones.
- state clearly the reason why you are writing and give your general opinion on the topic.
- state your reasons for your opinion by giving reasons and/or examples.
- organize your reasons into clear paragraphs. Each paragraph should start with a sentence which gives the main reason (topic sentence). The paragraph should then be developed in such a way that you support the topic sentence with more details and examples.
- use connectors to list your main reasons: Moreover, ...; In addition, ...; Additionally, ...; What's more, ...; Last but not least, ... and so on.
- to express your opinion, uses phrases such as: In my opinion, ...; From my point of view, ...; As far as I'm concerned, ...; I strongly believe that, ...
- ask yourself what objections your readers might have to your ideas and use phrases to express a general opinion such as: Most people think that ...; Everyone knows that ...; Most people support/oppose the idea...
- select features and benefits that you can present to overcome these objections.
- do not forget to write a conclusion carefully, going back to your initial thesis statement and summarizing your facts/arguments. Use phrases such as: To sum up, ...; In conclusion, ...; To conclude, ... and so on.

11 Form, Meaning and Function

Conditional Sentences with Present and Future Forms

You can use conditional sentences with if to talk about causes and results.

Present Facts

Use the simple present tense in both clauses.

Our bottles are recyclable. If you drink Crystal Spring water, not only do you feel more energetic but you help the environment.

Future Facts

Use the simple present in the if-clause and the future with be going to or will in the result clause.

If you drive the BMX-3000, people will notice and admire you.

If you have dull and lifeless hair, Floral Essence shampoo will make it healthy and shiny.

You won't feel your best, if your clothes don't look their best.

May/Might

Use may/might in the result clause to suggest something is possible, but not certain.

If you haven't yet worn Planet Mercury sneakers, you may not be performing to your best ability. Put your feet in them today to see what you can do!

I'd Rather/I'd Prefer

Use I'd rather (= I would rather) to talk about preferences.

A: Would you prefer to go shopping or stay home?

B: I'd rather go shopping.

A: I'd prefer to stay home. I don't want to spend all my money.

A. Complete the sentences about facts. Use the simple present or will in the second clause.

- If you _____ (heat) water to 100°C, it _____ (boil).
- If they _____ (climb) up to 4,000 meters, they _____ (need) oxygen.
- Unless you _____ (stop) spending, you _____ (be) completely broke before the end of the month.

B. Work with a partner. Say what happens, will happen, or might happen in the following situations.

- If children see a lot of toy commercials on TV, _____.
- If there is a sale at my favorite store, _____.
- If I leave my wallet or cell phone at home, _____.
- If you get top marks at school, _____.
- If I see an advertisement on TV, _____.
- Your idea: _____.

C. Work with a partner. Ask and answer. Would you rather buy clothes online or at the mall? Why?

Words Connected with Shopping Habits

Some words connected with different ways of shopping are:

Shopping Mall	Small Stores	Online Shopping
wide range of products	friendly service	convenient discounts	neighborhood	door-to-door delivery
food courts	helpful staff	fast
entertainment	appealing atmosphere	wide range of products
luxury	convenient location	pay by card

Small, neighborhood stores offer a friendly, personal service.

Luxurious shopping malls provide entertainment, food and good discounts on products.

Online shopping is becoming more and more popular as it's convenient, fast and you can pay by credit card.

Conditional Sentences with When and Unless

Use when in place of if to talk about general truths. Use the present tense in both clauses.

When you press the button, the washing machine turns off.

When water reaches 100 °C, it boils.

You can use the word unless in place of if in negative sentences.

Unless I study hard, I won't get top marks.

Unless you exercise, you probably won't lose weight.

Unless you study harder, you will fail the test.

D. Read the advertisements. Work with a partner and persuade him or her to buy the product. Use sentences with when, if and unless

💡 When you brush your teeth with Sparkle toothpaste, your teeth will be cleaner and brighter. If you buy this toothpaste, your teeth will look great. If you don't buy this toothpaste, you might need to visit the dentist. Unless you buy this toothpaste, your teeth will look terrible.

E. Work with a partner. Talk about your preferences and give some reasons. Use conditional sentences in the present or future.

💡 I'd prefer to go the mall. If we go to the mall, we can also have lunch in the restaurant.

1. local store/the mall
2. e-learning/classroom
3. get a job/go to college
4. buy a motorbike/buy a car
5. visit Dubai/Muscat

5 Do You Really Need It?

12 Project

1. Work in pairs/groups. Think about the advertisements that you see, watch, or hear every day. They can be billboards, advertisements in magazines or newspapers, TV commercials, radio advertisements, leaflets, stickers, etc.
2. Choose one that you think is beneficial and helpful to people.
3. Discuss and identify the product or service that is being advertised, the target group, the text/script or slogan that is being used, the image, and the message that the advertisement is trying to get across. Make notes in the chart.
4. Create a new advertisement for the product. Use a different medium. If for example, you have chosen a magazine advertisement, you might want to develop a TV advertisement for the same product or service. Use your notes to help you.
5. If you decide to create a TV advertisement, remember to make a storyboard. If, on the other hand, you have decided to create a radio advertisement with people talking to each other, remember to write a script. Finally, if you decide to design a magazine or billboard advertisement, make sure you prepare a sample with photos, colors, special fonts, etc.
6. Role-play. Take on the roles of advertising teams and clients (company executives of the product or service). Each advertising team has to present their new advertisement to the clients in a convincing manner so they can persuade them to agree to it.

Product/service:	Existing advertisement		New advertisement
The medium	Billboard Magazine Newspaper	Radio TV Other: _____	Billboard Magazine Newspaper	Radio TV Other: _____
The target group
The text/script or slogan
The image/design
The message
Special features/details

6 The Gender Divide

1 Listen and Discuss

1. In what ways do you think men and women behave differently?
2. In what ways do you think their behavior is similar?
3. Do you think there are more similarities or differences?

Do you think you know a lot about men and women?

Answer True or False for these statements.

Then check your answers with the results of gender studies.

1. Women talk more than men.	True	False
2. Women tend to worry more than men.	True	False
3. Men are more truthful than women.	True	False
4. Men are more easily bored than women.	True	False
5. Women have a greater tolerance for pain.	True	False
6. Women live longer than men.	True	False

Sandy: I think women talk much more than men.

Amal: That's just a stereotype. Though I do think women talk more than men about certain things.

Sandy: Like what?

Amal: Women like to talk about their feelings, but men usually don't.

Sandy: Men'd rather talk about sports. Or cars.

Amal: Typical!

1. The common stereotype that women talk more than men is wrong. In fact, recent research shows that there is very little gender difference in how much people speak. Some research suggests that men tend to speak more than women in formal settings, and that women speak more in informal situations. One study revealed that women speak an average of about 16,000 words a day, and men do too.
2. Studies show that women worry more frequently than men. This may be due to the fact that women's brains produce less of a brain chemical called COMT, which controls anxiety. Having less of this chemical can make it harder for a person to stop worrying.
3. Women lie frequently, and men do too. However, research shows that women and men tend to lie about different things. Women are more likely to lie in order to try to not hurt a person's feelings. They are also more likely to lie to try to avoid a conflict. However, you are more likely to be told a lie by a man for a different reason. Men more often lie in order to make themselves seem more impressive.
4. Studies show that men have more restless temperaments than women. For example, women seem to have a capacity to adjust to repetitive tasks, but men don't. They dislike being asked to do such tasks and are less likely to successfully complete them. It is speculated that women do better in these situations because they have a greater ability to keep their thoughts and imagination active, even during tedious activities.

5. Many people assume that since women have babies, and men don't, women probably have a greater ability to deal with pain. However, the research seems to indicate that, due to their body chemistry, women actually have lower tolerance for pain. During recovery after surgery, women tend to experience pain with greater frequency and intensity than men do.
6. Women outlive men all around the world, sometimes by an average of as much as 10 years. For example, in the U.S., the average life expectancy is about 79 for women, but only 72 for men. The gap is largest among people who live to be 100 or older. Worldwide among people 100 or older, women outnumber men 9 to 1.

Answers:

1. False; 2. True; 3. False; 4. False; 5. True; 6. True

Quick Check

A. Vocabulary. Complete each sentence with a word from the box.

anxiety	gender	repetitive	stereotype	temperament
capacity	intensity	restless	tedious

1. The _____ that blond-haired people are not smart is ridiculous.
2. We were bored and _____, so we decided to find something to do.
3. That film is very _____. It shows the same place over and over.
4. I always feel overwhelming _____ the night before a test.
5. The _____ of the thunderstorm made the animals nervous.
6. Some people believe that animals have the _____ to feel the same emotions that humans do.
7. Luisa has a lovely _____. She's always happy and smiling.
8. Finding sources for an essay can be a time-consuming and _____ task.
9. The _____ of an animal often has a specific name; for example, a male horse is a stallion and a female horse is a mare.

B. Comprehension. Answer the questions.

1. In what types of settings do women tend to speak more?
2. What causes women to worry more than men?
3. What things do women tend to lie about? What things do men tend to lie about?
4. What might explain women's ability to deal with repetitive tasks better than men?
5. Which gender has the longer life expectancy? Give an example.

2 Pair Work

Work with a partner to think of another common stereotype about people. Decide whether you think the stereotype is true or false. After class, do research to confirm whether your decision was correct.

3 Grammar

Verbs + Infinitives or Gerunds with Different Meanings

Some verbs can be followed by either a gerund or an infinitive, but the verb + gerund and the verb + infinitive have different meanings. These verbs are remember, forget, regret, stop, and try.

He always remembers to send his grandparents a gift on special holidays. (remember + infinitive = remember to do a task)

He remembers sending gifts last year. (remember + gerund = remember having done something in the past)

She sometimes forgets to call. (forget + infinitive = not remember to do a task)

She sometimes forgets calling. (forget + gerund = not remember having done something in the past)

I regret to tell you that I have a secret. (regret + infinitive = wish it were not necessary to do something)

I regret telling you my secret. (regret + gerund = wish it were possible to undo something done in the past)

We stopped to watch the sunset. (stop + infinitive = stop doing something in order to do something else)

We stopped watching the sunset. (stop + gerund = stop doing something)

I tried to reach them, but they didn't answer the phone. (try + infinitive = make an attempt to do something)

I tried reaching them by email. (try + gerund = try a specific method to reach a goal)

Passive Forms of Infinitives and Gerunds

The passive form of an infinitive is: to + be + past participle.

Everybody wants to be respected by somebody.

The passive form of a gerund is being + past participle.

Being asked to settle an argument can be awkward.

Auxiliary Verbs after But and And

When an addition is made to a statement with but or and, often the main verb is not repeated. Instead, it is replaced with an auxiliary verb.

but + subject + auxiliary

My sister isn't good at remembering special occasions, but my mother is.

John doesn't get frustrated easily, but Sam does.

and + subject + auxiliary + too (for positive sentences) or either (for negative sentences)

He enjoys outdoor activities, and his son does too.

We don't like going for walks in this heat, and he doesn't either.

A. Circle the correct form in each sentence.

1. Did you remember (to shut / shutting) the window before it started raining?
2. He stopped (to play / playing) football after he hurt his knee.
3. If you haven't been able to get an answer from the boss on the phone, maybe you should try (to send / sending) him an email.
4. He'll never forget (to score / scoring) that goal in the last minutes of the game.
5. Don't forget (to email / emailing) me the photos.
6. We regret (to inform / informing) you that your application has been declined.

B. Answer the questions about yourself.

💡 What is something you once did that you have stopped doing?

I have stopped biting my nails when I'm nervous.

1. What is something you remember doing often when you were a child?
2. What is something you forgot to do recently?
3. What is something you tried to do, but were not able to do?
4. What is something you will never forget doing?
5. What is something you try to remember to do each day?
6. What is something you regret doing?

C. Rewrite each sentence as a passive sentence.

💡 The job candidate didn't expect the human resource manager to criticize him so harshly.

The job candidate didn't expect to be criticized so harshly.

1. You need to take out the trash.
2. He expects the manager to promote him soon.
3. I remember my father reading to me when I was a child.
4. He waited for his boss to invite him to sit down.
5. The mechanic needs to repair the car.
6. Many celebrities enjoy having photographers take their picture.

D. Complete each sentence with names of classmates and the appropriate auxiliary verb. When appropriate, use too or either after the auxiliary verb.

💡 Don _____ often volunteers in class, and Alex does too. _____

1. _____ lives close to school, but _____.
2. _____ was in school yesterday, and _____.
3. _____ is wearing blue today, but _____.
4. _____ never comes to class late, and _____.

E. Read about Abdullah and Faris. Then describe the similarities and differences between Abdullah and Faris, using auxiliary verbs after but or and.

FARIS

Likes: comedy shows, Indian food, football, relaxing on the beach

Dislikes: coffee, video games, waking up early, hiking

ABDULLAH

Likes: game shows, Indian food, football, waking up early, hiking, video games

Dislikes: coffee, the beach, comedy shows

- Fahd: I don't know why Google Maps can't find Lakeside Drive. I think we'd better stop and ask directions.
- Faisal: Don't worry. I'm sure I can find it. Let's try going this way.
- Fahd: I think we're lost. Look. There's a gas station. Let's pull over and ask someone.
- Faisal: Oh, all right.
- Attendant: You look lost.
- Fahd: You can say that again. We're looking for Lakeside Drive.
- Attendant: I know this town like the back of my hand, and I can tell you that there's no street by that name. Do you mean Riverside Drive?
- Faisal: Oh, yeah! That must be it. I just got the street name wrong.
- Fahd: Can you tell us how to get there?
- Attendant: It's not far. It's just over on the other side of town. You need to turn left out of here. Then go straight for a couple of miles. Keep going until you see an ice-cream shop. If you pass Town Hall, you've gone too far. Take the first left after the ice-cream shop and you'll be on Riverside Drive.
- Faisal & Fahd: Thanks!
- Fahd: I guess it's a good thing I suggested we stop for directions. We would have been driving in circles for ages.
- Faisal: Don't make a big deal about it. I'm sure I would have figured it out eventually.

Real Talk

You can say that again. = I agree with you completely.
know (something) like the back of my hand = know something very well over = used to emphasize location for ages = for a very long time make a big deal about = make something small seem very important

About the Conversation

1. How do Faisal and Fahd react differently to being lost?
2. Why couldn't they find the street they were looking for?
3. How does each of them feel about having stopped to get directions?

Your Turn

Role-play with a partner. Ask your partner how to get to his or her home (or some other destination) from school. Your partner will give you directions. Use phrases from the box.

Asking for Directions

Am I headed in the right direction?
Can you tell me how to get to...?
I'm looking for...

Giving Directions

Go straight on...until you get to a...
If you see a...you've gone too far.
Keep going until you come to a (crosswalk/set of traffic lights).
Take a left/right after the (first, second, etc.) set of traffic lights.
When you get to...you'll see a...

5 Listening

Listen to the morning news show discussion about the different strategies used by new and experienced drivers. Then answer true or false. If the sentence is false, rewrite it with the correct information.

1. _____ Kevin Shields is the host of the show.
2. _____ The book they are discussing was written a long time ago.
3. _____ New and experienced drivers use different driving strategies.
4. _____ Experienced drivers seem to be better able to deal with difficult situations.
5. _____ Older drivers' reflexes are as fast as younger drivers' reflexes.
6. _____ New drivers tend to get more stressed and frightened when dealing with a dangerous situation.
7. _____ Experienced drivers normally have lower insurance premiums than new drivers.

6 Pronunciation

Tag questions are short questions added to the ends of sentences. If the tag question uses rising intonation, the speaker isn't sure of the statement and is looking for information. If the tag question uses falling intonation, the speaker is sure of the statement and is expecting confirmation.

Listen and repeat. Then check whether the sentence has rising or falling intonation.

	Rising Intonation	Falling Intonation
1. So this means that experienced drivers have better reflexes, doesn't it?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
2. So then it seems neither group has a total advantage in such cases, do they?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
3. That's true, isn't it?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
4. That's a bit unfair for new drivers, isn't it?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
5. So each group is the better driver in their own way, aren't they?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

7 Vocabulary Building

A. You will see these words in the reading on pages 88 and 89. Match the words with their meanings.

B. Check your answers with a partner. If you do not understand the meaning of a word, look it up in a dictionary.

8 Reading

Before Reading

In what ways do you think men and women communicate differently?

Do Men and Women Speak the Same Language?

The difference in the ways that men and women communicate has been the subject of countless books, magazine articles, talk show discussions, and jokes. These differences can sometimes make men and women seem mysterious to each other, and can occasionally make communication difficult and confusing. People often jokingly say that men and women are from different planets or that they are different species. But just what are these communication differences and what is their cause?

One basic reason men and women have such different ways of communicating is that they see the purpose of communication differently. Research shows that women use communication as a way of growing closer to people and establishing intimate relationships. Women tend to use language to share thoughts and feelings, and to be supportive. Meanwhile, men tend to see the goal of communication as accomplishing a task. Men most often use language to persuade, argue, convey facts, and demonstrate knowledge.

Although men do not tend to use communication to achieve closeness, they have their own way of bonding. In one study, 75 percent of the men surveyed said that their most meaningful experiences with friends came not through talking, but through shared activities. In a related study, researchers found that fathers tend to show affection to sons by helping them with tasks and challenges. Javier Morales's experiences certainly support this idea. Says Morales, "My dad and I are really close, but I wouldn't say we talk very much. We spend a lot of time together doing things. We spent all of last Saturday repairing my car, and this week we're going hiking together. My dad and I have a deep bond. Just because we're not talking doesn't mean we're not sharing important time together."

The content of what males and females talk about tends to be different as well. Researcher Deborah Tannen has found that while feminine talk tends to focus on feelings, relationships, and people, masculine talk tends to focus on sports, the economy, and facts.

Women talk to explore problems, but men do not. Instead, men talk to fix problems. This can sometimes cause problems in communication. Janet West, a freshman in college, remembers encountering this issue recently. "I told my brother Derek about a problem I was having with my studies. He immediately came up with possible solutions to the problem. Being told how to fix the problem was kind of frustrating because it wasn't what I was looking for. I asked him to stop trying to fix the problem and try talking with me about it instead. He seemed completely confused and said, 'Why bother talking about a problem unless you're trying to find a solution to it?'"

Another way in which men and women differ is in the way they listen. Research has shown that men tend to place all of their attention on one thing at a time, but women do not. Instead, women commonly divide their attention between a number of things at once and make connections between these different things. Since this comes so easily to women, they are sometimes frustrated when men struggle to do this. For example, a common complaint among women is that when a man is watching television, he often doesn't hear a question asked by the person sitting right beside him. Sakura Kumi has witnessed this many times in her house. Sakura says, "My mother used to get so frustrated trying to get my father's attention while he was watching TV, and I did too. So she got into the habit of standing in front of the TV and saying, 'Hiroshi, I'm about to ask you a question.' It's become sort of a family joke."

Research has shown that these communication differences can be partially explained by the different ways in which the male and female brains are structured and wired. For example, the left side of the brain, where logic and literal thinking are processed, tends to be stronger in men. Meanwhile, women tend to think with the right side, which is where comprehension is processed. The female brain also has more connections between the right and left sides, so their thought process is likely to be more complex.

Research has also shown that the different ways that boys and girls are raised has a significant impact on how they communicate. Girls are raised to recognize and be sensitive to the feelings of others. On the other hand, boys are taught to be more direct and goal-oriented. Being raised in such different ways is bound to create two different styles of communication.

While the differences in the way men and women communicate can sometimes cause confusion, these differences are also what help maintain a balance in communication. It ensures that a variety of topics and viewpoints are explored, feelings are expressed, and problems are discussed and solved. This balance is what makes communication so rich and interesting.

Verbal and non-verbal communication

When people talk about communication, the first thing that comes to mind is words or language. Language is our primary means of communication as human beings, which sets us apart from other species. However, as studies have shown, it is not the only means of communication.

Think about a photograph taken in the center of a town. It provides information about the buildings, stores and services, people and cars, plants, and all kinds of details if you choose to take the time to look at it more carefully. Now try describing the picture and everything you have identified in it to your friend or write about it. How long do you think it's going to take you? Certainly a lot longer than it takes a photo to convey the same amount of information.

Suppose that you have just acquired the latest electronic gadget. Would you choose to tell your friend about it or show it to him or her? Usually, we choose to do the latter, i.e. show it to somebody and point out all the new, amazing features. In other words, pictures and objects can “speak for themselves” more efficiently and effectively than we can through verbal language.

However, there are situations where a different type of interaction is required, when, for example, you run into somebody you have not seen for some time. You probably want to talk about everything that has happened, ask him/her questions, and talk about people you know, and so on. This is definitely a case that requires verbal language.

On a partly different note, you see a friend you have not seen for some time at a distance, e.g. different escalators at the airport leading to different lounges. You have both checked through security and cannot go back; and you certainly don't want to start shouting across the airport building. You want to get his/her cell phone number.

You probably resort to gesturing by holding your hand next to your ear and pretending to talk; you point to the “phone,” point to your friend and use a hand gesture to signal “What?” pointing back to the imaginary phone. Your friend signals each number by holding up the appropriate number of fingers.

In other words, although language is important and allows us to communicate facts, feelings, thoughts, experiences, and practically everything and anything that we are interested in, it is not the only way we communicate with each other. As studies have shown, about 60 percent of human communication is carried out through non-verbal means, e.g. facial expression, gestures, or illustration. Maybe we should keep this in mind when we are “at a loss for words”: our eyes and overall expression can convey what we cannot express through words.

Writing Corner

When you write a comparative/contrastive essay:

- consider the different sides of the issue.
- develop a list of similarities and differences.
- establish your basis for comparison.
- create a thesis for their relative importance, e.g. similarities outweigh differences.
- structure your essay using an alternating or a block structure:
 - a. an alternating structure involves a point by point discussion and can be quite systematic and analytical.
 - b. a block method allows you to discuss each aspect or topic in distinct blocks and then conclude.

11 Form, Meaning and Function

Present Perfect Progressive versus Present Perfect Simple

Use the present perfect progressive to say how long something has been happening.

Use the present perfect simple to say how many things have been done or how many times something has been done.

Present Perfect Progressive

Sandy and Amal have been discussing the differences in behavior between men and women for 2 hours.

How long have you been discussing stereotypes?

Saeed has been driving since early this morning.

How long have you been driving?

Use the present perfect progressive to talk about an annoying action or situation.

I haven't slept at all. My phone has been ringing all night.

Who's been eating the cakes? There is only one left!

Present Perfect Simple

They have decided that women talk about feelings more than men.

How many times have you discussed this issue?

He has driven 400 miles.

How many different models of car have you driven?

Time Expressions with the Present Perfect Progressive: How long, for, since, all day/all week/all month/all year

They've been talking for over an hour. The children are getting bored.

A: Ask and answer questions about the picture. It's been raining for ten minutes. What have the people been doing during this time? Use the present perfect progressive and the present perfect simple.

A: What has the man at the magazine stand been doing during the rain?

B: He's been reading.

A: How many magazines has he read?

B: He's read several magazines.

7 Everyone Makes Mistakes

1 Listen and Discuss

1. How would you define the word mistake?
2. What do you think the following quote means?
“Don’t fear failure so much that you refuse to try new things. The saddest summary of a life contains three descriptions: could have, might have, and should have.” —Louis E. Boone
3. Accepting failure and hardship is often difficult. How do we endure such bad situations?

Mistake: A company rejected the patent for the telephone.

In 1876, the most important communications technology was the telegraph. A wealthy company called Western Union was in control of this technology. The president of the company, William Orton, was offered the patent for an invention called the telephone for $100,000. Orton sent a response to the 29-year-old inventor of the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell. It said, “After careful consideration of your invention...while it is a very interesting novelty, we have come to the conclusion that it has no commercial possibilities...What use could this company make of an electrical toy?” Bell kept the patent and created his own telephone company, which became the largest in the U.S. The patent Bell had offered Western Union eventually became the most valuable patent in history. Orton could have made one of the best deals in business history. Instead, he may have made the worst business mistake in history.

Mistake: The Titanic ignored warnings about icebergs.

On April 14, 1912, the RMS Titanic, the largest and most modern passenger ship of its time, hit an iceberg and sank. This resulted in the deaths of 1,517 people. Yet incredibly, this tragedy could have easily been avoided. On the day the Titanic sank, it had received five warnings from other ships about heavy ice in the area. However, the captain was not worried. In fact, he even increased the speed of the ship so that it could arrive in New York a day earlier than expected. That evening, while the Titanic’s radio operator was sending out personal messages from the passengers, he received a sixth ice warning. This one warned of an iceberg directly in the path of the Titanic. The operator was supposed to give the message to the captain. But busy with his task, he put the message aside. It never reached the captain. If it had, the Titanic tragedy might never have happened.

Mistake: Russia sold Alaskan gold to the U.S.

Alaska had been considered a burden, rather than an asset, by Russia for a long time. It was remote, indefensible, and of little benefit. So, when William Seward, U.S. Secretary of State, began negotiations on his own initiative, he expected to encounter some opposition. However, the outline of the deal was accepted by the cabinet and the agreement was signed in March 1867, transferring Alaska to the United States for a payment of $7.2 million. However, the purchase of a seemingly desolate and mostly frozen land was greeted with criticism by the press and the public. Alaska was referred to as “Seward’s Folly,” “Seward’s Icebox,” or President Johnson’s “polar bear garden,” attitudes that must have changed drastically after the discovery of gold. Russia should have investigated potential resources before selling the land to the U.S. at the price of about 1.7 cents per acre.

Mistake: Coca-Cola tampered with their successful formula.

Coca-Cola® was launched in the 1880s. By 1980, it had been the most popular soft drink in the world for nearly 100 years. However, by that time Coke had more competition, and its sales figures started slipping. In an effort to boost sales, Coca-Cola created a new, improved formula. This new formula was tested in 200,000 taste tests, and the results were clear: most people much preferred the flavor to the original Coke. The Coca-Cola Company decided to stop producing the formula they had been using for 100 years and to replace it with New Coke. This was an enormous marketing mistake. People were outraged that the original Coke was no longer available, and New Coke was a flop. Coca-Cola executives must have been surprised! They had to get rid of New Coke quickly and bring back the original formula.

3 Grammar

Modals in the Past

May Have/Might Have

May/Might have + past participle is used to suggest uncertainty or possibility about the past.

I lost my cell phone. I may have left it at school.

You might have dropped it at the restaurant.

Could Have

Could have + past participle is used in two ways: to talk about the past with uncertainty, or to talk about an option in the past that was not taken.

Do you think I could have left my cell phone at your house?

He could have been a doctor if he hadn't made the mistake of dropping out of school.

Must Have

Must have + past participle is used for drawing conclusions about the past.

I got lost on the way here. I must have taken a wrong turn somewhere.

Should Have

Should have + past participle is used to talk about mistakes made in the past or expectations that have not been met.

You should have apologized for your mistake.

They should have arrived by now.

Was/Were Supposed To

Was/Were supposed to + base verb is used to express that an expected action didn't happen.

The football game was supposed to start at 1:00, but it was postponed because of the rain.

Where were you last night? You were supposed to help me with my essay.

Passive Modals in the Past

Passive modals in the past are used to give opinions about events and situations that happened in the past. The form is: subject + modal + have been + past participle.

The money could have been given to the poor.

The package should have been sent a week ago.

A. Circle the correct modal in the past to complete each sentence.

1. I have a sore throat. I (should have / may have) caught your cold.
2. He (wasn't supposed to / shouldn't have) know about the business deal, but he found out by accident.
3. You have a big smile on your face in all the vacation pictures. You (should have / must have) had a great time.
4. I don't know where she is, but she was very tired. She (should have / may have) gone to bed.
5. I (must have / should have) paid more attention in English class. Now I'm completely confused about the grammar.
6. I (must have / shouldn't have) ordered that new laptop. It was way too expensive.
7. Did you get the package? It (was supposed to / must have) arrive by today.
8. You (may not have / should not have) said that. Now you've hurt your friend's feelings.

B. Complete each sentence with a modal in the past. For some items, more than one modal may be possible.

💡 I should have worn a suit to the interview. I don't think my clothes were formal enough.

1. It's too bad we didn't know you were there. We _____ met up.
2. She _____ study biology in school, but she ended up studying medicine instead.
3. Farah _____ gone to Dubai this summer, but she decided to stay home instead.
4. He _____ have said that. I think they must have misunderstood him.
5. It was such a beautiful day today. We _____ gone to the beach.
6. I'm not sure what we did with the bottles. We _____ put them in the recycling bin.
7. The product _____ been a big success, but instead it was a flop.
8. You were right there when the accident happened. You _____ seen everything.
9. Who knows what _____ happened if the other candidate had won the election.
10. You look refreshed and well-rested. You _____ slept well.

C. Rewrite each sentence as a passive sentence.

💡 The coach should have chosen Abdullah for the football team.

Abdullah should have been chosen for the football team.

1. Someone must have dropped these keys at the meeting.
2. The Mayans may have drunk hot chocolate as far back as 2,600 years ago.
3. A professional photographer must have taken this picture.
4. A computer error may have caused the accident.
5. The police officer could have arrested him for speeding, but he let him go with a warning.
6. The registrar should have given you a course catalog on the first day of school.
7. A squirrel or a rabbit might have eaten the vegetables in our garden.
8. The mechanic was supposed to have fixed our car by now, but it's still broken.

D. Look at the photos. Write at least three sentences about each photo using modals in the past and passive modals in the past.

💡 He must have been caught in the rain. He should have brought an umbrella. He could have stayed dry if he had an umbrella. He may have caught a cold.

8 Reading

Before Reading

Can an accident or mistake ever end up leading to something good?

Happy Accidents

When we make a mistake, often our first instinct is to say, “Oh no!” and to feel regret and maybe even embarrassment at our failure. But mistakes and accidents are not always a bad thing. In fact, they sometimes give rise to extraordinary ideas. In 1492, Christopher Columbus set out to discover a new route to Asia. He did not reach Asia, but this failure resulted in his discovering the New World!

There are many stories of such happy accidents throughout modern history. For example, one of the greatest medical discoveries of the 20th century was antibiotics, a kind of medication used to kill bacteria that cause disease. Since the discovery, antibiotics may have saved millions of lives. Yet, the discovery of the first antibiotic happened by accident.

In 1928, a Scottish scientist named Alexander Fleming was researching a kind of bacteria called staphylococcus. He conducted experiments with the bacteria in dishes. Fleming was brilliant, but he was messy and absent-minded. When he left his laboratory to go on vacation, instead of cleaning up, he left the bacteria in the dishes. When he returned, he noticed that mold had grown in the dishes while he was gone. He could have just thrown the dishes away. Fortunately, instead, he looked at them under a microscope. Fleming found that the area around the mold was free of bacteria. He realized that the dangerous bacteria must have been dissolved by the mold. These dirty dishes led to the discovery of penicillin, the first antibiotic. Today, this life-saving drug is used around the world. Each year there are over 80 million prescriptions written for penicillin in the U.S. alone!

Not all lucky accidents have changed the way we live in dramatic ways. Some fortunate accidents have just made life a little more convenient. But many of these conveniences have become such a part of our everyday lives that we’ve come to take them for granted.

The discovery of Velcro® is one such fortunate accident. One summer day in 1948, a Swiss inventor named George de Mestral went for a hike. When he returned, he was covered in burrs—seed-sacs that cling to clothes. Nature designed burrs to do this in order to spread seeds to new areas. De Mestral became curious about how these burrs attached themselves to clothes and hair. He inspected one of the burrs from his pants under a microscope. He saw that it had countless tiny hooks that clung to the tiny loops in the fabric of his pants. This gave him the idea to design a new kind of fastener. The fastener would be made of two nylon strips, one side with stiff hooks like the burrs and the other side with loops like the fabric of his pants. His invention, Velcro, has since become ubiquitous. It can be found on everything from shoes to wallets to blood pressure cuffs to space shuttles.

Another modern invention we owe to a happy accident is Post-it™ Notes, those small pieces of notepaper that can be stuck and unstuck again and again. In 1970, Spencer Silver was working in a research laboratory, trying to create a strong adhesive. He created a new adhesive that stuck to objects, but it could also easily be lifted off them. Because the adhesive was so weak, Silver considered it a failure. He shouldn't have. A few years later, a co-worker of Silver's was looking in a book. He used scraps of paper to keep his place in the book, but the scraps kept falling out. Remembering Silver's invention, the co-worker put some of the adhesive on the scraps. It was perfect! The scraps stayed in place, but came off easily so they didn't damage the book. Post-it Notes were introduced in 1980, and quickly became an essential office product around the world.

All of these stories show that accidents are not always a bad thing, and that not all mistakes should automatically be discarded. Instead, perhaps we should take a closer look at our accidents and mistakes. They just may reveal the solutions to a problem, or pave the way to an extraordinary new idea.

After Reading

Answer true or false. Rewrite the false statements to make them true.

1. ___ Mistakes sometimes lead to great new discoveries.
2. ___ Antibiotics have been in existence since the 1800s.
3. ___ The idea for Velcro came from nature.
4. ___ Post-it Notes have a strong adhesive.

9 Speaking

10 Writing

- A. 1. Have you ever made a mistake that has turned out for the best? When? Where? Who was involved?
2. Read the text and find out.
- Where did the incident take place?
 - Who was involved?
 - What was the outcome?
 - What impact did it have on the writer?
3. Is there an explicit description of the people involved? How old do you think they are? What kind of people do you think they are? Compare notes with a partner.

I was traveling to London and had just gone through security check at the airport. When I picked up my coat, it felt a bit heavier than usual, but I quickly put it down to fatigue as I had worked through the night in order to complete some work before I left. I checked the time and decided that it was far too early to proceed to the departure gate, so I sauntered about the Duty Free section of the terminal, having a look at displays.

I was examining a computer case when I heard the announcement. Somebody had mistakenly taken a coat that was a lot lighter than his, and requested that the person who might have accidentally taken the wrong coat meet him at the information desk. I did not take any notice at first, but when the announcement was repeated for a third time, I stopped and had a look at the label of the coat I was carrying. I had never seen it before!

When I got closer to the information desk, I saw someone who looked vaguely familiar.

I smiled holding up the coat. He smiled back, pointing to my coat. We exchanged coats and introductions. Surprisingly, we shared the same family name.

We decided to spend the time left before our flights working out possible connections over a cup of coffee. As it turned out, we were both descendants of the same family. We simply happened to be in different places at different times. We found the physical resemblance quite amusing. We could have been brothers or cousins. We have since kept in touch and have become very close friends, or relatives, if you wish.

If I hadn't taken the wrong coat at the security check, I might never have run into my long lost relative. I would not have known of the existence of someone who looked like me and carried the same name. I would have missed the opportunity to encounter an important person in my life.

4. Read the text again and identify which paragraph(s):
- sets the scene
 - reveals the first clue
 - reveals the second clue
 - presents factual outcome
 - presents the writer's thoughts/reflection
5. Is the outcome predictable after the third paragraph? Why? Why not?

- B. 1. Think of a mistake or an accident. It can be something that happened to you, someone you know, or a famous person.
2. Did the mistake/accident work out for the best, or not? Think about how things might have turned out differently if it had not happened. Use a chart to organize your ideas.
3. Write a descriptive account of the event. Write about what happened as a result of the mistake or accident, and speculate on how things might have turned out differently if it had not happened.

What happened?	What might have happened?

The Mistake that Led to My Father Becoming a Doctor

My father had always wanted to become a historian. He used to read history books, follow current affairs consistently, and collect all the data he could from different sources.

At the time, there was no Internet, so reading and collecting data demanded access to books and other published materials, and a lot of determination. He was supposed to pursue a relevant course of study and specialization. He could not have known that his outstanding performance in science and biology would accidentally steer him away from history and secure a place for him in medical school.

Writing Corner

When you write a personal account or narrative:

- think about the people involved in terms of personality, physical characteristics, skills and abilities, behavior, feelings and aspirations:
 - personality
 - physical characteristics
 - skills and abilities
 - behavior
 - feelings and aspirations
- try not to restrict your account to a series of facts. Include details and description which will get your reader visualizing places and people, and speculating, predicting and anticipating what will happen next.

As you might notice in the model text, factual sentences are interspersed with personal thoughts, comments, and feelings.

1. Use two different colors to highlight factual sentences/information and the writer's personal comments, thoughts, and feelings.
2. Is there a regular pattern? Why? Why not?

8 Against the Odds

1 Listen and Discuss

1. Despite difficult or unusual circumstances, things sometimes happen against the odds. People can achieve extraordinary things even when others think it's not possible. What is something you have achieved that you or others thought was impossible?
2. Can you think of situations where different organizations or countries have worked together to find solutions to challenging problems? Tell the class about a situation involving your country or other countries in the world.

Global Leaders Take a Stand Against COVID-19

The Group of Twenty (G20) is an international forum for economic cooperation attended by the largest and the fastest-growing economies in the world. Founded in 1999, the G20 brings together leaders from 19 countries and the European Union to discuss the world's most challenging problems.

In December 2019, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia took over the 2020 G20 presidency. Not long after, the COVID-19 pandemic began to spread across the globe. The scale of the pandemic was so unexpected that most countries were unprepared to deal with it. In response to this emergency, an extraordinary G20 summit was called by King Salman bin Abdulaziz Al Saud to discuss how to deal with the crisis. The G20 leaders met virtually via a video conference on March 26, 2020.

For Saudi Arabia and the rest of the G20 leaders, it was a priority to deal with the pandemic and its effect on global health, societies, and economies. "The unprecedented COVID-19 pandemic is a powerful reminder of our interconnectedness and vulnerabilities," the G20 leaders reported in the statement they issued on COVID-19 after the virtual summit. "The virus respects no borders. Combatting this pandemic calls for a transparent, robust, coordinated, large-scale and science-based global response in the spirit of solidarity. We are strongly committed to presenting a united front against this common threat."

The G20 committed itself to working alongside other major international institutions – such as the World Health Organization (WHO), International Monetary Fund (IMF), World Bank Group (WBG), and United Nations (UN) – to fight the pandemic. The leaders expressed their determination to do everything in their power, both individually and collectively, to achieve the following goals:

Protect people's lives

While pledging to protect all people, the leaders placed an emphasis on protecting those who are most vulnerable. The ways they proposed to achieve this were by sharing information, exchanging data on the disease, sharing materials needed for research and development, and strengthening the world's health systems. They also prioritized manufacturing medical supplies and making them available to regions that needed them the most at affordable prices and as quickly as possible. The need to plan for possible future pandemics and increase research and development funding for vaccines and medicines was not forgotten either.

Safeguard the global economy and trade

The summit's statement outlined measures to minimize the pandemic's economic and social damage, support global growth, and make sure that global markets remain stable. This included injecting over five trillion U.S. dollars into the global economy. The G20 leaders expressed their confidence that their response would “get the global economy back on its feet and set a strong basis for the protection of jobs and the recovery of growth.” Another priority included minimizing disruptions to trade and global supply chains, and working to ensure the flow of important medical supplies, agricultural products, and other goods and services across borders.

Improve global cooperation

After expressing their concern with the risks faced by countries, the leaders pledged to help all countries in need of assistance, and especially the developing and least developed countries that might be less able to cope with the situation. They also invited organizations such as the WHO, IMF, and WBG to cooperate further to support these countries facing health, economic, and social problems as a result of COVID-19. “We are confident that, working closely together, we will overcome this. We will protect human life, restore global economic stability, and lay out solid foundations for strong, sustainable, balanced and inclusive growth,” the G20 leaders concluded.

Quick Check ✓

A. Vocabulary. Complete each sentence with a word from the box.

disruption	priority	summit
pledged	safeguard	vulnerable

1. More laws need to be passed to _____ the planet. I don't think we're doing enough to protect it.
2. The student _____ to follow the school's ethical code of conduct.
3. The leaders of 12 African countries attended the _____ to discuss how to improve trade on the continent.
4. Children are the most _____ members of our society, so we should do everything we can to protect them.
5. You can help me wash the dishes, but that isn't a _____. Studying for your exams is much more important.
6. A huge bird flew into our classroom today. It hopped from desk to desk, knocking over books and pens and causing a huge _____ in class.

B. Comprehension. Answer the questions.

1. Why was the summit held?
2. With which organizations did the G20 leaders say they would cooperate?
3. What action did the G20 countries decide regarding medical supplies?
4. In what ways did the G20 leaders plan to help global trade?
5. Which countries would be the focus of G20 assistance?

3 Grammar

Such...That/So...That

Such and so make the meaning of an adjective or adverb stronger. Such...that and so...that are used to show cause and effect.

such + adjective + noun + that

It was such a strange experience to see my old friend again that I was speechless.

Jake is such a determined person that he always manages to succeed.

so + adjective or adverb + that

Finding my keys on the beach was so unlikely that I was shocked when I spotted them.

so + many/few + plural count noun + that

We discovered so many similarities between our lives that it almost frightened us.

So few people were accepted into the school that it's amazing we both got in.

so + much/little + noncount noun + that

I have so much homework that I won't be able to go out tonight.

He had so little training that no one thought he would be accepted to the energy company.

Note: That is frequently left out in casual speech.

The book was so popular (that) it sold out within a week.

Reducing Adverb Clauses

An adverb clause can be reduced to a participle phrase when the subject of the adverb clause and the subject of the main clause are the same. To do this, drop the subject in the adverb clause, and follow it with a gerund.

After we met online, we discovered that we live in the same town.

After meeting online, we discovered that we live in the same town.

I ran into him on the street while I was calling him on my cell phone.

I ran into him on the street while calling him on my cell phone.

A. Complete each sentence with such (a/an), so, so much, so many, so little, or so few.

1. My grandfather drives _____ slowly that other drivers get annoyed.
2. I got _____ sleep last night that I feel exhausted today.
3. He has _____ big family that he has cousins he hasn't even met.
4. They are _____ good friends that they are more like brothers.
5. The restaurant was _____ crowded that we couldn't get a seat.
6. There are _____ rooms left in the hotel that we'll have to take whatever is available.
7. There are _____ good courses this year that I can't decide which ones to take.
8. That TV has _____ large screen that it feels like you are almost part of the story.
9. There are _____ shoppers in the store today that it looks empty.
10. There are _____ good TV programs on these days that I hardly watch TV at all.

B. Match the sentences. Then use these ideas to write one sentence with so...that or such...that.

💡 I'm having such a good time that I don't want to go home.

- | | |

4 Conversation

- Ahmed: Fahd? Fahd?
Fahd: Yes? Hey, aren't you...?
Ahmed: Ahmed! Abdullah's brother. From Jeddah. From back home.
Fahd: I knew you looked familiar, but I couldn't place your face. What are you doing here?
Ahmed: I'm going to school here.
Fahd: No way! That's incredible. Abdullah never mentioned that you were going to college in Beirut.
Ahmed: I didn't know either until a couple of months ago. I applied, but I was put on the waiting list. It was looking iffy there for a while, but I got a break in July. A space opened up. I was so happy that I was on cloud nine for weeks.
Fahd: I can't get over this. What are the chances? I hope we'll see each other around campus. Though, I don't know if we'll run into each other that often. I'll be spending most of my time on the north campus. That's where most of my classes will be.
Ahmed: Why? What are you studying?
Fahd: Pre-law.
Ahmed: No way! I'm studying pre-law, too!
Fahd: OK. Now you're freaking me out.
Ahmed: This is amazing. What dorm are you in? Wait. Don't tell me. I bet you're in Fares Hall.
Fahd: No. Habib Hall.
Ahmed: Whew. I'm almost glad. I don't think I could have handled another coincidence.

About the Conversation

1. How do Ahmed and Fahd know each other?
2. What unexpected coincidences are revealed during their conversation?
3. How does Fahd feel about the coincidences?

Real Talk

- iffy = uncertain
- break = significant opportunity
- on cloud nine = extremely happy
- freak (someone) out = to shock or disorient someone

Your Turn

Role-play with a partner. Think of a situation in which two people might be surprised by a coincidence, for example: two people finding out they have the same name, or two friends who run into each other at the mall and find out that they've just bought the exact same item. Role-play the conversation, using phrases for expressing surprise.

Expressing Surprise

- How about that!
- I can't believe this!
- I can't get over this.
- I'm speechless.

- No way!
- That's incredible/amazing!
- This is hard to believe.
- What are the chances?

5 Listening

Listen to the story about identical twins who were separated at birth. Then list the similarities between the twins.

How are Alicia and Jenna alike?

Sometimes consonant sounds are left out in casual speech. For example, when a word with a final t is followed by a word that begins with another consonant sound, the t is often left out. Listen and practice.

1. They are identical twins who, at birth, were adopted by different t families.
2. The first meeting was emotional.
3. I thought t my heart t was going to thump out of my chest.
4. I just dropped the phone.
5. The strangest t thing of all is that t we even have the same recurring dream.

7 Vocabulary Building

A. You will see the following words in the reading on pages 116 and 117. Match the words with their meanings.

- | | |
|------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. _____ detectable | a. remaining whole and unharmed |
| 2. _____ disoriented | b. imagining things that are not real |
| 3. _____ exhilarating | c. very thin and tired |

Before Reading

Think of a story you've heard about a person who survived a dangerous or difficult situation. Tell the class about it.

Survival

Against the Odds

Beating the odds is always a great feeling. Just ask anyone who has been accepted to a selective college, or unexpectedly won an athletic event. But beating the odds is never quite as exhilarating an experience as when the odds are against your survival.

Tami Oldham Ashcraft knows this feeling. At the age of 23, while she was sailing the South Pacific, Ashcraft was caught in a violent hurricane. The 50-foot (15-meter) waves overturned her boat. Ashcraft, who was below deck, was knocked unconscious. When she awoke 27 hours later, the boat had turned right side up again, but the storm had been so violent that the sails were destroyed, the motor was dead, and the radio was lost. Only the rudder, which steers the ship, was intact. Ashcraft was badly injured and disoriented.

Tami Oldham Ashcraft knows this feeling. At the Determined to survive, Ashcraft created a sail from scraps of material and charted a path to Hawaii, which was 1,500 miles (2,400 kilometers) away. Traveling only two miles an hour, Ashcraft reached her destination 41 days later. Having lost 40 pounds (18 kilograms) during her ordeal, Ashcraft was thin and haggard when she arrived. However, she was happy and grateful to have beaten the odds. Ashcraft, who still sails, eventually told her tale of survival in a book called Red Sky in Mourning.

Another such tale of survival against the odds can be told by Eric Le Marque, a hockey player who played with the French national Olympic team during the 1994 Olympics. One day in February 2004, Le Marque set out for a day of snowboarding in California's Sierra Nevada Mountains. But by the end of the day, Le Marque found himself in a life-or-death situation.

While looking for a good place to snowboard, Le Marque lost his way and ended up in the wilderness at the back of the mountain. Le Marque, who had expected to just be out for a couple of hours, had no food, very few supplies, and his cell phone battery was dead. All he had was a seemingly useless pocket radio. Once he realized he was lost, he decided to keep moving. Unfortunately, he chose the wrong direction and, over the next few days, moved farther and farther away from safety and rescue. Knowing that eating snow lowers body temperature, Le Marque ate only tree bark and pine seeds.

After a few days Le Marque had an idea that may have saved his life. He turned the pocket radio into a kind of compass. He noticed that whenever he pointed the radio in a certain direction, the reception for a local radio station grew stronger. Using this radio reception as a guide, Le Marque switched direction and started walking towards safety and, ultimately, rescue.

For days, Le Marque struggled through hunger, freezing temperatures, and 12-foot (4-meter) deep snow. By the eighth day, Le Marque was so weak and his legs were so frostbitten that he could no longer walk or even stand. He was in such bad condition that he began hallucinating that his situation was just a video game. He recalls thinking, "The game is over. Let's reset it. I give up." Le Marque was at the point of exhaustion and death when he was found by rescuers in a helicopter. Although he lost his legs to frostbite, Le Marque's survival experience left him with more of an appetite for life than ever before. After being fitted with artificial limbs, he vowed to go snowboarding again. Only in the future, he plans to be much better prepared.

Occasionally, some owe their survival not to struggle, but to nature. Take the startling case of Mitsutaka Uchikoshi. One ice-cold October day in 2006, Uchikoshi had been with a group on a mountain in western Japan. After wandering off into a field on his own, Uchikoshi tripped, hit his head, and was knocked unconscious. As Uchikoshi remembers,

“I was in a field, and I felt very comfortable. That’s my last memory.” He remained unconscious in almost-freezing temperatures without food or water for more than three weeks.

When he was found in the freezing field 24 days after his fall, he did not seem to be breathing and had no detectable pulse. His body temperature was nearly 30 degrees below normal, and his organs had nearly shut down. Doctors assumed he was dead. Yet something incredible happened while he was at Kobe City General Hospital: He woke up! Even more incredibly, Uchikoshi, who was treated for severe hypothermia and blood loss, made a full recovery. Doctors believe that Uchikoshi’s body went into a state similar to hibernation. In hibernation, the body temperature of an animal is lowered and its breathing and heart rate slow down. Hibernation reduces the need for food and protects animals from damage to the brain and other organs.

Stories like these remind us that even when we are in a situation that seems impossible, we should never give up hope. After all, there is always a chance that you will succeed—against the odds!

After Reading

Answer the questions.

1. How did Ashcraft beat the odds?
2. What condition did Ashcraft return in?
3. How did Le Marque end up in such a dangerous situation?
4. What were two decisions Le Marque made that helped him survive?
5. How did Uchikoshi end up unconscious in an ice field?
6. How was the state Uchikoshi ended up in similar to hibernation?

9 Speaking

1. Work in pairs/groups. Think about emergency situations that are life-threatening, such as being stranded in the desert, getting caught in a storm, being trapped in a cave in freezing weather, or being buried under the ruins of a building after an earthquake. Talk about survival stories that you have read or heard about.
2. What qualities and attitudes can help a person beat the odds in a survival situation? Do you think some people are better able to survive than others? Why? Why not?
3. Use the situations in the chart below or add your own. Some notes have been made for you. Add your own ideas and talk about them in class. Compare ideas with other pairs/groups.

	Survival situation	Helpful attitudes	Helpful actions
 1	trapped in a building after an earthquake	have a strong will or determination to live	defeat negative thoughts and fears; do not panic

10 Writing

- A. 1. What makes the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia a strong and wealthy nation?
2. How can it become an even stronger global economy?
3. Read the text and find out.
- Are some of your ideas included in the text?
 - Is there new information? What is it about?
 - How are the following defined in the text?
 - a vibrant society
 - a thriving economy
 - an ambitious nation

رؤية VISION 2030 المملكة العربية السعودية KINGDOM OF SAUDI ARABIA

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is blessed with an abundance of untapped, natural resources and growth opportunities. Its real wealth, however, lies in the abilities and potential of the nation's society. Saudi Arabia is an exceptional nation due to its Islamic faith, national identity, culture and heritage.

A vibrant society will be the foundation of Saudi Arabia's 2030 vision. A society whose members enjoy a fulfilling and secure life in an attractive and sustainable environment, and are empowered by social and health care systems that ensure their physical, psychological, and social well-being.

The Saudi society is defined by its adherence to Islamic values and its family orientation. It is essential, therefore, to support and empower families so that they can develop their children's talents and character, and have an active role in their education.

The Saudi nation cherishes the honor bestowed upon the Kingdom to welcome and serve an increasing number of pilgrims and visitors every year. The expansion of the Two Holy Mosques and the upgrading of services and facilities had helped to cater for 15 million visitors from its development until 2020. These improvements will continue to ensure that all pilgrims are well looked after when they visit.

Culture and entertainment are an integral part of a fulfilling life. To this effect, projects will be launched to establish libraries, galleries, and museums and provide different types of entertainment.

A thriving economy offers equal opportunities for all citizens through an updated, high quality educational system aligned with the employment needs of a dynamic market. Access to economic and employment opportunities will be available for entrepreneurs, small and large enterprises. The Kingdom's diversified economy and streamlined business services will attract new talent and investments. Saudi Arabia's strategic position will make it the logistical hub connecting Europe, Africa, and Asia.

Investment capabilities will be maximized through the ongoing privatization of state owned assets and agencies. New sectors will enrich national economy. Telecommunications and information technology, including high-speed broadband, will be developed in and around cities and rural areas.

An effective, transparent, responsible, accountable, enabling, and high-performing government is a fundamental prerequisite for an ambitious nation. In view of this, all the necessary steps will be taken to ensure that relevant services and regulations are in place to foster the ongoing growth and development of the private and non-profit sectors. Our goals and commitments include programs that will contribute to the effective restructuring of government agencies, fiscal management, regulations, and performance management programs.*

Cities of the Future

I can visualize different versions of cities in the future but they all share one essential characteristic. They are protected by a bio-dome, built to make the most of light and renewable energy and prevent the damaging effects of radiation.

As a city expands, new adjacent domes are constructed around the initial mega dome. A satellite view of the city would show it as a number of "bubbles" in the shape of a flower, with or without a stem, or a string of bubbles in a geometrical shape, and so on...

Strict building regulations will prevent arbitrary constructions and determine the type of materials to be used...

Writing Corner

When you write about your vision:

- close your eyes and visualize, i.e. create imaginary mental pictures.
- hold the image in your memory and make notes (write key words, e.g. adjectives, nouns, etc. that describe the image).
- address your readers directly.
- think about what they might know or have seen in images, films, science fiction, documentaries, and other sources.
- use vivid descriptions and similes.
- be imaginative and creative.
- use a thesaurus or dictionary to help you.
- draw a picture.

Edit the following examples to make them more reader-friendly and imaginative.

1. Residential districts are constructed according to a set of pre-approved plans and are required to use sustainable technologies.

2. The domes function as filters of urban biospheres with thriving indoor and outdoor vegetation in all available spaces.

11 Form, Meaning and Function

Past Progressive

Use the past progressive (be + present participle) to describe a long action that is interrupted by a short action.

As Figlock was walking down a Chicago Street, a baby fell from a fourth-story window. A year later, while he was passing by that same building, the same baby fell out of the same window and landed on Mr. Figlock.

Use the past progressive when we describe what was happening at a specific time in the past.

Q: What were you doing at three o'clock today? A: I was driving home from work.

Use the past progressive when we talk about a temporary state or action.

Q: Have you always lived in Riyadh? A: No. A few years ago, I was living in Dubai.

Q: What were you doing in Dubai? A: I was studying for my degree.

Use the past progressive with always to describe a repeated or annoying action.

My old car was always breaking down so I bought a new one.

Use the past progressive to describe two actions that were happening at the same time.

On June 6, 1980, Edwin Robinson was out walking and looking for his pet chicken during a thunderstorm when he was struck by lightning.

Was/Were Going To and Was/Were About To

Use was/were going to/about to + base form to refer to actions that were intended but probably didn't happen.

I was going to study Engineering, but my father advised me otherwise.

They were just about to leave when the phone rang.

- A. Complete the news report using the verbs in parentheses. Use the passive and active simple past, the past progressive tense and was/were about to.

The last thing 17-year-old Ricardo Gordon remembers _____ (1. be) that a storm _____ (2. be about to) come, and he _____ (3. rush) to get inside. Next thing he _____ (4. know), he _____ (5. lie) in a hospital bed. Here is what _____ (6. happen).

Ricardo _____ (7. listen) to the live broadcast of the football game when lightning _____ (8. hit) him. As a result, his hair and ears _____ (9. burn), and he _____ (10. have) dark spots all over his body. The wounds on his body _____ (11. follow) the wire of his smartphone, from his ears down to his hip, where he _____ (12. carry) the device. The electric current _____ (13. travel) from his smartphone to his headphones. Ricardo is lucky to be alive!

- B. Work with a partner. Look at the newspaper headlines and imagine the story. Tell the story.

British Burglar Says "Sorry" with Flowers

Paper Boy Steals Truck to Speed Up Deliveries

Criminals with Big Plans, Small Car

Past Perfect Tense

Use the past perfect tense (had + past participle) to indicate an action that happened before another action in the past

When Edwin Robinson was struck by lightning he had been blind and deaf for almost 10 years.

Past Perfect Progressive and Past Simple Tense

We use the past perfect progressive when the activity was in progress at the time another activity or event happened in the past.

King Umberto of Italy had been climbing into his carriage when he was assassinated.

C. Complete the sentences using the verbs in parentheses. Use the simple past and the past perfect forms.

1. Ahmed _____ (cook) his favorite meal when the pan _____ (catch) fire.
2. By the time we _____ (arrive) at the picnic, the rain _____ (stop).
3. Dinosaurs _____ (be) extinct for millions of years before the first humans _____ (appear).
4. I _____ (never, travel) outside my country until I _____ (go) to Disney World last summer.
5. We wanted to get a picture of the meteorite, but when we _____ (arrive), the police _____ (already, take) it away.

D. Read the article from a small-village newspaper about a local amateur car repairer. Complete the article with the correct form of the verbs. For some answers, both the simple past and the past perfect forms are possible.

Hobbyist Engine Repairer Forgets Important Detail

HILLCREST, Texas—John Wilkinson, an amateur car mechanic, _____ (1. attempt) to fix his car's engine after it started to make strange noises.

Wilkinson _____ (2. spend) weeks planning every detail of the repair. He _____ (3. buy) all the extra tools he required, and _____ (4. take) the engine off his car.

Wilkinson _____ (5. feel) confident that he _____ (6. plan) all the delicate work completely and correctly. The repair itself _____ (7. go) off without a hitch. The problems began when Wilkinson _____ (8. try) to test the engine after three days of work in his garage.

Wilkinson _____ (9. decide) to run the engine after he put everything back in place. He _____ (10. leave) the engine running for a long time to test it. He then _____ (11. try) to drive the car to check that all was working perfectly but the engine suddenly stopped. Wilkinson was very worried that something had gone wrong with the engine, but he then _____ (12. discover) that he _____ (13. make) an incredibly foolish mistake. He _____ (14. think) so much about repairing and checking the engine, that he _____ (15. forget) to fill the gas tank before starting the test drive!

12 Project

1. Work in pairs/groups. Research and collect information about real survival stories.
2. Use a real story or create your own. Think about:
 - the setting (where the story took place)
 - the people/person involved
 - the circumstances
 - the survivor's attitude
 - the survivor's actions and frame of mind
 - how the survivor managed to save himself or was rescued
3. Make notes in the chart and use them to organize and finalize your story.
4. Make a comic strip or a storyboard with your story.
5. Share the work among members of your group. If you make a comic strip decide on:
 - what will go in each frame
 - whether you will use captions to narrate the story
 - whether you will use speech bubbles and thought bubbles to show what each person is thinking or saying
 - what you will write in the captions
 - what you will write in the bubbles
6. Display your comic strip in class and act it out.

2. Do you text or call people you know? What kind of language do you use in each case?

The impact of a changing world on human language and communication

Recent research on the impact of online communication across cultures in Europe has revealed some very interesting findings.

Although, social networking and online communication has become the norm among young people nowadays, the formation of lasting friendships among peers appears to require face-to-face communication.

The project involved communication with partner schools in different countries. According to project participants, online communication and information exchange was effective for a period of time and undoubtedly provided the input and information needed. However, when it came to the formation of long-term friendships, they strongly felt that face-to-face communication was a key requirement; as was mobility, in other words travel to different countries.

The way one of the participants put it, “It’s different to find out about each other’s culture through reading, talking about it and exchanging pictures or videos, and different to actually experience it in person. It’s the day-to-day things that tell you more about people and their mindset.” These conclusions were reached after participants visited the countries where partner schools were located. As funding was limited, not all project participants were able to join.

All interviewees appreciated the accessible and affordable opportunities offered through technology and online communication but stressed the need for communication beyond cyberspace. Interestingly, young people nowadays take cyberspace for granted and consider more conventional, real world experiences to be more creative and rewarding. Overall, the conclusion reached pointed out that although technology “connects” people, lasting friendships require face-to-face contact to make initial connections more meaningful. This was further confirmed by the diminishing interest and involvement of the participants that had not been able to travel.

As expected, English was used as the common medium of communication. Project participants admitted to having been intimidated and reluctant to initiate conversation due to their language “inadequacies.” They soon found out that none of their peers from other countries were perfect either, but were only too willing to utilize all available resources to speak. So they quickly revised their views on language competence and stopped being over-concerned with potential “errors.”

The task at hand required them to communicate with people that they had previously communicated with through email and video conferencing, under more controlled circumstances with teacher support, and time to check and edit their language. Face-to-face communication had to be spontaneous and genuine, so they were required to do their best, to listen, understand, and ask for clarification or repetition, use gestures or point to things if they could not recall words and so on. More importantly, their peers from other countries routinely resorted to the same strategies in conversation.

On occasion, when lost for words, their interlocutors would say: “text me”; this they could do without difficulty, using abbreviated language. They would then use the text message, as a basis to clarify meaning. Abbreviated language, this special kind of electronic shorthand, which often confuses older adults, is accessible to young people. In fact, it is the electronic variety of English as an international medium, and an identifying marker of generations that are natives to technology.

The context and means of communication do have an immediate impact on the type of language used. The need for speedy and highly economical messaging has fostered the development and evolution of “texting” language. Abbreviated language is regarded as a type of slang, categorizing it as a substandard variety of language. On the other hand, some analysts attest to the fact that it indicates high intelligence and speed of processing that should not be overlooked.

According to Professor Crystal, “text-speak”, the combination of vowel-free abbreviations and acronyms, “has definitely been overhyped” and does not qualify as a new language.

When these issues were addressed in a focus group with high school students who had participated in the multicultural project, they were ready with clear and highly articulate answers. They agreed that context and circumstances impose the need for changes in communication and therefore the type of language used. They were pleased to be able to use abbreviated language in texting and messaging effectively and efficiently. However, they pointed out that they would very much like to develop their language and communication skills further in order to be able to operate in a different range of contexts. As one of the interviewees put it, “It wouldn’t be a good idea to use abbreviated language in term papers when I get to university!”

PHOBIAS: NOTHING TO FEAR

John Dickson was walking down the street with his friend Len when a cute, friendly, little squirrel ran over to them. Len knelt down and gave it a nut, but John froze and backed away in terror. Although the squirrel was clearly not a threat, John felt so terrified that his heart began pounding. He broke out in a cold sweat, and he felt like he was about to faint. Why did John have such an extreme reaction to such a harmless animal? John has a phobia of animals.

A phobia is an intense, irrational fear of a specific situation, activity, or thing that, in actuality, doesn't pose any true danger. People with phobias have a feeling of uncontrollable anxiety when they are exposed to the source of their phobia. This psychological reaction causes many physical symptoms. Some symptoms include shaking, rapid heartbeat, difficulty breathing, sweating, chest pains, dizziness, and a feeling of overwhelming anxiety. When a person has such physical reactions to something they fear, they are said to be having a panic attack.

People with phobias feel such great distress when they encounter the thing they fear that they go out of their way to avoid such an encounter. People with phobias often know that their fears are irrational, but feel completely unable to control their fears. Sometimes a phobia has only a minimal impact on a sufferer's life. For example, Janet Acra has a paralyzing fear of spiders (arachnophobia). However, as long as she avoids going into woody or grassy areas, she is generally able to avoid seeing them. Some phobias, however, can prevent sufferers from participating in normal, everyday activities. These kinds of phobias can have a devastating impact on the sufferer's life. For example, after being in a car accident, George Ramirez developed ochophobia, a fear of riding in vehicles. After that, the only way George could get from one place to another was to walk. And, since his college was 20 miles (32 kilometers) away—too far to walk—George dropped out.

There are hundreds of different kinds of phobias, but only a handful are very common. One of these phobias is the fear of heights (acrophobia). People with this fear are unable to look out the window of a tall building without feeling a panic attack coming on. Another common phobia is the fear of being in confined spaces (claustrophobia). People with claustrophobia commonly feel trapped when they are in small, enclosed places like elevators, tunnels, or closets. On the other hand, people who suffer from agoraphobia fear being in large, wide-open spaces, or places where leaving would be difficult. Agoraphobics generally avoid places like shopping malls, stadiums, and other crowded places. Some people develop such intense agoraphobia that they are not able to leave their home for years.

In addition to the more common phobias, there are dozens of unusual, little-known phobias, such as the fear of clowns (coulrophobia), fear of taking a bath or shower (ablutophobia), and fear of trees (dendrophobia). In fact, there is even a fear of phobias (phobophobia)!

Although no one knows for sure how phobias develop, some researchers believe that phobias are passed from parents to children in one of two ways: either by inheriting the gene for a phobia, or by observing a parent's phobic reaction to something and learning to react in the same way. Another possibility is that phobias are a reaction to something frightening a person may have previously experienced. For example, John Dickson could have developed his fear of animals (zoophobia) when, as a child, he saw an animal bite another child.

However, there are treatments that can help people with phobias. While some people take medication to alleviate their phobias, many others go to counseling where they learn techniques to overcome their phobias permanently. For example, learning simple relaxation exercises can help people feel more in control when confronted with feared objects and situations. People can also be taught to overcome their fear through gradual exposure to it. For example, a person with a fear of heights might be encouraged to imagine being in a tall building. Once capable of doing this without having a panic attack, the person might be brought into the ground floor of a tall building. After becoming comfortable there, the person would be brought to the second floor. Eventually, the phobic person would reach the top floor of the building and the end of their fear.

There is a Japanese proverb that says, "Fear is only as deep as the imagination allows." People who have learned to overcome phobias understand how true this is.

Tools for Writing: Run-on Sentences

A run-on sentence is a sentence with two or more independent clauses that are incorrectly placed together without any punctuation or a coordinating conjunction.

Incorrect: You look in the cafeteria I'll look in the auditorium.

Run-on sentences can be avoided by using a period to separate the clauses into two separate sentences, or by adding a coordinating conjunction after a comma.

Correct: You look in the cafeteria. I'll look in the auditorium.

Correct: You look in the cafeteria, and I'll look in the auditorium.

Correct each run-on sentence in two different ways.

1. The weather has been great it has been warm.
2. She can't make it she has other plans.
3. He's tired he doesn't want to stay out late.
4. I understood the lesson I can help you.

Developing Your Writing: Outlining an Essay

Writers use outlines to help them organize their thoughts before they begin writing. Outlines show the order in which topics will be introduced. They also include categories and subcategories to show the relationship between the different parts of the essay. Outlines are usually arranged from general points to more specific points. Outlines are also usually arranged by a system of numbers and letters, as in the example below.

- I. Introduction
 - A. There are numerous tales about animals in American culture.
 - B. These tales often teach an important lesson/moral.
- II. Body
 - A. First tale: The Tortoise and the Hare
 1. origins of the tale
 2. significance/moral of the tale
 - B. Second tale: The Lion and the Mouse
 1. origins of the tale
 2. significance/moral of the tale
- III. Conclusion

Animal Tales in American Culture

American culture has a rich assortment of animal tales that are passed on from generation to generation. Most of these tales originated centuries ago, but are still told to children today. Each tale has a moral—an important lesson to be learned...

Rocking Chairs ...where?

Usually, people expect to see them on front porches, in living rooms, bedrooms, and cozy places where one is likely to have the time to relax. One of the last places where you'd expect to see rocking chairs is a busy airport, right? Wrong! Rocking chairs have caught on as a special touch in about 40 airports in the US. The trend started in 1997 at an international airport that was hosting a photography exhibit called Porch Sitting. There were photos of porches with rocking chairs, with actual rocking chairs placed in front of the photos as props. When the exhibit was over, and the rocking chairs were being removed, people started protesting. So the airport manager was quick to respond. He kept the chairs and ordered more. From then on, rocking chairs spread as a trend at more airports.

Is Europa similar to Earth?

A re-processed, high resolution, photo of Jupiter's moon Europa was released in 2014, showing the largest proportion of the satellite's surface. Scientists claim that there is water underneath Europa's icy shell that could host life, under the right conditions. This has provided an additional incentive to push forward with the exploration of this amazingly colorful moon. A new study, also suggests that there are big plates of ice sliding over and under each other within Europa's shell. This effectively means that the Earth is not the only solar system body that possesses plate tectonics, as was formerly believed!*

Did you know that?

Safety glass, which is widely used in windshields, safety goggles, and more, was invented by accident over a century ago. In the early 1900s, a French scientist accidentally knocked a glass flask off his desk. The flask fell to the floor but only cracked instead of shattering into pieces. Having inspected the broken flask, he realized that it had contained plastic cellulose nitrate, which had coated the glass and prevented it from shattering upon impact.

And did you know that?

The first synthetic dye was accidentally created in 1856, by William Perkin, an 18-year-old chemist. He was carrying out an experiment in search of a cure for malaria when it all went very wrong resulting in a murky mess in the petri dish. Upon closer examination, William noticed a brilliant color radiating from the petri dish. It was the beginning of synthetic dyes that would change the world of fashion and manufacturing forever. *

Would you gossip about a friend?

Gossip and rumors can destroy a young person's self-confidence and affect their self-esteem. It can also lead to serious conditions such as depression, anxiety and eating disorders. Betraying the trust of a friend by talking behind their back reflects very badly on the person gossiping. People instantly assume that if one is capable of gossiping about a friend, then he/she is capable of doing it about anyone and keep their distance. Talking about a friend with negative intent does not make one stand out or help him/her become more popular. It is the surest way of isolating oneself and gradually losing one's friends altogether.

3 Conversation

Listen and practice reading Part 1 of the conversation in pairs. Then underline examples of deductions about the past and the present.

Adnan: Hey, listen to this. It's about a man who survived a plane crash.

Omar: There can't be too many people who've lived to talk about a crash!

Adnan: No, probably not. Apparently, the plane had crashed and burst into flames about 2-4 km from the end of the runway. According to this article, three passengers survived the impact but two of them died in hospital a few hours later.

Omar: He must have been the only survivor then!

Adnan: Correct! He was thrown off the plane, strapped to his seat and landed upright on the street!

Omar: You must be kidding! He can't have landed upright on the street! Do you believe it?

Adnan: That's what the article says. Here's a picture of the man now. He was only 17 when it happened. It happened in January 1985. You can look it up!

Omar: I'll do that! Is there more?

Listen to Part 2 of the conversation in pairs and complete the blanks with must have or can't have.

Adnan: Here's another story of a man who beat the odds!

Omar: Not another plane crash!

Adnan: No, this happened in Sweden. The man was trapped inside his car, for two months.

Omar: Two months? Why didn't he try to get out?

Adnan: He couldn't. His car was snowed over. He must have got snowed in on his way to the next town.

Omar: He _____ stayed alive for two months in the cold. What did he eat?

Adnan: According to the interview, he ate snow and whatever snacks he had.

Omar: But that _____ been enough for two months. He _____ been confused. It _____ been less than two months.

Adnan: Yes, well the rescuers felt the same way. They couldn't believe he'd been there that long but scientists confirmed that he _____ gone into hibernation. They also said that an "igloo effect" _____ been created by the insulation of the car, so he was able to survive!

Your Turn

Role-play a conversation like the one above with a partner.

4 Speaking

1. Read about people who realized their dreams against all odds. What do you think motivates some people to persevere and make the most of their lives?

Brian is a triple amputee who lost his legs and his right arm in an explosion. Three years later, with three prosthetic limbs, he enrolled in one of the most competitive schools of architecture in the U.S. and was due to graduate in 2014. He didn't think he should settle for anything less since his head had not been injured and his brain could function as well as it did before!

Mark has been working as a janitor at a prestigious university for two decades. He has worked from early afternoon till 11:00 at night mopping floors and emptying garbage cans and then stayed up after midnight studying for his classes. He signed up for one or two classes per semester and managed to graduate with honors in 2012, at age 52. He is not planning to give up his job, as it offers an irresistible benefit, namely free tuition. Instead, he is planning to study for his post-graduate degree next!

Martha earned two college degrees while living in an iron lung. She was paralyzed by polio at the age of 11 in 1948 and was confined in a metal tube, 23 hours a day. But she never gave up. She kept reading and attending classes without fail through her custom-built intercom system. This is what she said in a documentary about her life: "Something happens to all of us. Mine is more visible than yours, but you have to deal with your things, too. None of us are exempt from things that would make us extraordinary people if the world knew the story."

2. Work in pairs. Discuss and make notes.
 - A. What motivated Brian and Mark to carry on and pursue their dreams in learning?
 - B. How do you think Brian's life might have developed, if he hadn't been as determined?
 - C. How do you think Mark's life might have developed, if he hadn't taken advantage of the employee benefit that had been available to him?
 - D. How do you think Martha's life might have developed, if she had given up?
3. Now use your notes to present and compare ideas in class.
4. Do you know or have you heard of other stories of courage and perseverance? Talk about them in class.
5. Try to find more amazing stories like the ones above and make notes. Present them in class.

9 Beauty Is Only Skin Deep

1 Listen and Discuss

1. What does the expression Beauty is only skin deep mean?
2. Which do you think is more important: beauty or intelligence? Why?

The Hairbrush

Hairbrushes have been around for thousands of years. However, you may be surprised to learn that until recently they were only used by the wealthy and privileged. The upper-class ancient Egyptians used hairbrushes made of animal hair, porcupine quills, shells, and bone for combing and to remove lice and other pests that got tangled in their hair. Brushes were manufactured for the first time in 1777 by an English company. The bristles came from wild animals and were stitched into the brush by hand. It is not surprising that these brushes were quite expensive. It wasn't until the beginning of the 20th century that brushes began to be manufactured by machine and to be produced with cheaper, synthetic materials, like nylon bristles. With these developments, brushes became extremely common.

Lipstick

Ancient Egyptian women made lipstick from a red dye extracted from seaweed and the poisonous element iodine. It was eventually discovered that this early form of lipstick made women very sick. Cleopatra had a safer, although not very appealing, recipe for lipstick: It was made from ants and beetles. The ants were used as the base, and crushed carmine beetles for their deep red color. In 1884, the first modern lipstick was introduced in Paris. It was a solid stick made of castor oil, beeswax, and animal fat. By the 1940s, the use of lipstick by famous wealthy women had led to its widespread popularity. During this period, rotating lipstick in a tube was invented. Today, the average woman owns eight lipsticks!

Deodorant

The ancient Egyptians worked hard to hide body odor. They put perfume in their baths and applied great quantities of it to their underarms. They tried using many odd items like incense and porridge as deodorant. The ancient Greeks were also afraid that they might give off an odor. Like the Egyptians, they bathed constantly and wore a lot of perfume. The Romans took this obsession a step further: They soaked their clothes in perfume, and even put it on their horses and household pets. The first trademarked deodorant, a paste called Mum, didn't appear until 1888. In the mid-1950s, the ballpoint pen inspired the first roll-on deodorant. Today deodorants are a multi-billion dollar industry and are as common as toothpaste in most homes.

Nail Polish

Nail polish can be traced back to around 3,000 B.C.E in both China and Egypt. Chinese nail polish was a mixture of beeswax, gelatin, egg whites, and a gum from a special tree. Nail color represented social class. During the Chou Dynasty, around 600 B.C.E, the royal colors were gold and silver, so these were the colors worn by royalty and the upper class. Lower-ranking women were only allowed to wear pale colors. If they wore royal colors, they could be put to death. Ancient Egyptian men and women of high social rank stained their nails with red henna. Military commanders in Egypt and early Rome felt that it was important to be well-groomed before going into battle. It is strange, but true, that they spent hours before a battle having their hair curled and their nails painted.

Modern nail polish was invented in the 1920s. Its formula is very similar to the formula for car varnish.

Sophie: I'd like to speak with a manager.

Anne: I'm the manager. How can I help you?

Sophie: Look at my hair!

Anne: It's lovely.

Sophie: I'm not going to beat around the bush. I am very upset with this haircut. It's by far the worst haircut I've ever gotten. The hairstylist didn't listen to me at all. This is not the style I asked for. I'm fit to be tied.

Anne: I'm sorry you didn't get what you were expecting. But I have to tell you, I saw you when you walked in. I did a double take when I saw you after the haircut. I think this style really suits you. It's a dramatic improvement.

Sophie: But it's too short and it has all these layers! I look ridiculous.

Anne: Not at all! You just aren't used to it. Trust me. It brings out your eyes, and it makes you look more sophisticated.

Sophie: You're just trying to make me feel better.

Anne: No, I'm being entirely honest. You look elegant and sophisticated.

Sophie: I have a wedding to go to this weekend, and I wanted to look my best.

Anne: Perfect! You're going to blow them away with your new style.

Sophie: You really think so?

Anne: Absolutely. I'll tell you what: See what happens at the wedding. If your family and friends don't like it, come back next week, and we'll give you any haircut you want on the house.

Sophie: Well, OK. I guess that's fair.

About the Conversation

1. What was Sophie's complaint?
2. How did Anne respond?
3. How did Sophie's attitude change by the end of the conversation? Why?

8 Reading

www.iem.edu.sa

Before Reading

1. After reading the quote, discuss how beauty is defined in Islam.
2. Describe the features that you notice when you first meet someone.

Beauty in Islam is a broad aesthetic and moral concept that includes multiple spiritual, intuitive, physical and material dimensions. It involves feelings and practices related to taste, art, ornamentation, splendor, and beautiful manners. It covers both the individual as well as the community and form as well as content.

Changing Concepts of Beauty in History

Most societies place great value on beauty whether in art and architecture, fashion and appearance, or design and advertising. Throughout history, elegance and beauty have been the subjects of admiration and fascination. In modern times, we have competitions to find the most beautiful person or magazines to tell us about trends in fashion and design, and a billion-dollar cosmetics industry built around looking and feeling beautiful. Yet despite the importance placed on beauty, one question remains: What is beauty?

The ancient Greeks thought that proportion was the key to beauty. The Greeks believed that they had discovered the mathematical formula that represented perfect beauty, which was based on proportions in nature. According to this formula, for example, the ideal face was two-thirds as wide as it was high. Modern research has proven that the basic concept of the Greeks' formula, if not the formula itself, was correct: Beauty does seem to relate to proportion and balance. When related to beauty, these qualities are called symmetry. A perfectly symmetrical face, just like a symmetrical flower, would have a left side that is identical to its right side. Research has shown that the more symmetrical an object or a face is, the more beautiful it is believed to be.

You might assume that this response to symmetry is something we learn. However, research has shown that the human appreciation for symmetry is instinctive. It has been found that babies will spend more time staring at pictures of symmetrical objects than they will at photos of asymmetrical objects. Not only is this response instinctive, but it does not appear to vary from one culture to another. In a study conducted at the University of Louisville, Kentucky, participants from thirteen different countries were shown pictures of a number of different people. All the participants rated the attractiveness of the people in the same way. They all gave the highest ratings to the people with the most symmetrical faces.

While it is true that people across all cultures tend to admire symmetrical features, standards of beauty do vary from one culture to another and from one time period to another. For example, each of the following was considered beautiful at a certain time and place, but would not be considered so today:

- During the Elizabethan era in England, women thought that high foreheads were elegant. So, they plucked inches of their front hair to achieve this look.
- Also during the Elizabethan era, women brushed egg whites over their faces in order to have a glazed look.
- In ancient China, the belief that it was elegant for women to have tiny feet led to foot binding.
- From the 14th to 19th centuries in Europe, women would bind their waists. The binding was sometimes so tight that often women could not breathe properly and sometimes fainted.

Another example of how the concept of beauty and fashion changes with time is the way attitudes toward weight have changed through the ages. In Europe between 1500 and 1900, a plump figure was considered very attractive. Famine was widespread, so plump figures represented health and wealth. During that period, it was common for people to pad themselves in order to look heavier.

In the 1900s, fears of food shortages started to diminish, and with it, so did the chubby figure. A new ideal began to emerge: Thin was in. Of course, this trend has continued to today. Because there is an overwhelming amount of fattening food available in most developed countries, it is now considered more attractive and healthy to be thin.

Today, fashion and beauty products are usually associated with women. However, this, too, is the result of a change that took place over time. In fact, the male form was the original standard of beauty in Western culture. The muscular and fit male athlete was the ideal of elegance. For hundreds of years, make-up was associated with both women and men. Men in ancient Greece, Egypt, and Rome wore make-up on their faces and nails. Roman men even had some bizarre beauty practices of their own, such as the habit of bathing in crocodile water to improve their skin. Men's grooming and make-up went in and out of style a number of times through history, before becoming very unfashionable during the industrial age of the early 1800s. However, there are signs that masculine concern for appearance is making a return, as more men are joining gyms and opting to use skin care products than ever before.

The standards for beauty and fashion have changed frequently throughout history and will, no doubt, continue to do so. However, one thing unlikely to ever change is people's fascination with beauty.

After Reading

Answer the questions.

1. How did the ancient Greeks view beauty? What did they base their formula on?
2. What is symmetry? How does it relate to beauty?
3. What has research shown?
4. Give an example of something considered beautiful at a certain time and place in history.
5. How have attitudes toward body weight changed over time?

9 Speaking

1. Think about and compare inner and outer beauty. Work in pairs/groups.
2. Make notes of your ideas in the chart. Then use your notes to present and discuss your ideas in class.

10 Writing

- A. 1. How important is wealth, in your view? What can it buy? Make a list.
2. Are there things that “money cannot buy”? What are they?
3. Why do you think most people are interested in earning enough money for their families? What kind of expenses do they need to cover?
4. Read the text and find out.
 - What is the writer’s view on the issue?
 - What arguments does he use to support his view?
 - What kind of examples does he use?
5. Do you agree or disagree with the writer? Why? Why not?

The importance of wealth

Although a lot of people say that money is not everything, I think wealth brings far more benefits than problems. It is common knowledge that people who are well off have easier lives. They don’t have to worry about living expenses, household bills, school tuition, medical bills, and a lot more.

Consider a person who has three children. He is educated and holds a reasonable job with a reasonable salary. However, one of his children develops a condition that requires ongoing care and costly medication, while the other two are planning to study law and medicine. They expect to eventually go abroad in order to complete their postgraduate studies and specializations. His wife, who used to teach, can no longer work as she has a problem with her eyes. How is he going to manage?

It is obvious that this otherwise happy person with a happy family is faced with a predicament. He has to decide whether he can support everyone’s plans and dreams or prioritize things in a way that will allow for partial satisfaction. In other words, should he encourage his two healthy children to go ahead and study but not expect to specialize abroad; or should he reduce medical expenses by moving his sick child to a cheaper facility? On the other hand, they are all his children, and he doesn’t want to discriminate against any of them. He wishes he could find a way to fund everything and not displease anyone. In addition, his wife is going to need surgery soon.

I think the situation above demonstrates the importance of money as a means of providing and catering for a family’s needs in a satisfactory manner. None of the problems that worry the father day and night and have changed his mood and personality would exist, if he had the funds. Naturally, wealth cannot buy happiness if there is none to be had. On the other hand, it can help sustain it in cases like the one described.

So, regardless of how materialistic this might sound, I believe that money is important. What I would like to say to those who claim that health is more important is that, although this might be true, it is equally true that having money can preserve a sense of well-being and health more effectively than not.

6. Read the text again and answer the questions.
 - How many paragraphs are used? What is the theme of each paragraph?
 - Identify the thesis statement and supporting argument.
 - What does the writer use to support his view?
 - a. Examples
 - b. Questions to the reader
 - c. Opposing views and comments

- B. 1. Write a persuasive essay to answer the question: Is beauty important?
- 2. Think of reasons why beauty is or is not important, and write them in a chart. Use your chart to help you decide what viewpoint you will take in your essay.
- 3. Write your essay.

Beauty is important because...	Beauty is not important because...

The Importance of Beauty
Although some say that being beautiful has its drawbacks, I think beauty brings far more benefits than problems. When I say 'beautiful', I mean healthy, well-groomed, and attractive. It is obvious that looking good on the outside also makes one feel good on the inside...

Writing Corner

When you write a persuasive essay:

- Think about opposing views and arguments.
- Consider your viewpoint.
- Use arguments that support your view.
- Use arguments that weaken the opposing view.
- Address your reader in as friendly a manner as possible.
- Address opposing views as if you can hear the reader's thoughts.
- Do not patronize your reader and do not be aggressive.
- Reflect on the things that put you off and lead you to stop reading something, and avoid such things when you write.

1. What do you think the effect is going to be if a writer is patronizing or aggressive? Why?

2. How do you react if you get the impression that the writer is not very considerate or fair with the reader?

12 Project

1. Work in pairs/groups. Research 2 or 3 cosmetic products, such as a shampoo, conditioner, skin cream, lotion, etc., and collect information about their:
 - ingredients
 - testing
 - purpose
 - promotion
2. Study the promotional material you have discovered, e.g. leaflet, prospectus, website, poster, etc., and find out what the product claims to do. For example, a shampoo might claim to remove dandruff miraculously after a few uses. Does it?
3. Find out if the claim is true or not. Ask people and search for information on the Internet.
4. Use the chart to make notes. Then use your notes to design and prepare a poster presentation. Remember to use photos or illustrations.
5. Try to find out which products the product in question is competing against in the market. Collect information about them.
6. Share parts of your presentation within your group. Present in class. Allow 5 minutes for questions and answers after each presentation.

10 They Said, We Said

“The one who spreads gossip will not enter paradise.”

—Prophet Mohammed (Peace be upon him.)

1 Listen and Discuss

1. What is gossip?
2. Do rumors circulate quickly? Why or why not?
3. Do you think gossiping is wrong? Why or why not?

4 Benjamin Franklin once said, “To find out people’s faults, praise them to their friends.”

5 Bertrand Russell said, “No one gossips about other people’s secret virtues.”

1 Will Rogers said that the only time people disliked gossip was when the gossip was about them.

2 To quote George Bernard Shaw, “The things most people want to know about are usually none of their business.”

3 There’s a Spanish proverb that says: Whoever gossips to you will gossip about you.

7 Eleanor Roosevelt said, “Great minds discuss ideas, average minds discuss events, and small minds discuss people.”

6 Someone once said that trying to squash a rumor was like trying to unring a bell.

8 Oscar Wilde said that there was only one thing in the world worse than being talked about, and that was not being talked about.

9 “If everyone knew what others said about him, there would not be four friends in the world.” A French mathematician named Blaise Pascal said that.

The Gossip Café

11 Someone once said that a gossip is one who talks to you about others; a bore is one who talks to you about himself; and a brilliant conversationalist is one who talks to you about yourself.

10 In an interview I saw recently, a celebrity asked if it was possible for a famous person to live without hearing rumors about himself.

12 I read an interview with a famous celebrity. He said that he thought that the hardest part about being a teenager wasn't dealing with the gossip in the scandal magazines, but dealing with the criticism, ridicule, and gossip of other teenagers.

Quick Check ✓

A. Vocabulary. Match each word to its definition.

- | | |
|--------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. _____ brilliant | a. pointing out bad points about something or someone |
| 2. _____ circulate | b. making fun of |
| 3. _____ criticism | c. say complimentary things |
| 4. _____ praise | d. move around |
| 5. _____ ridicule | e. gossip that follows an embarrassing event |
| 6. _____ rumor | f. morally good characteristics |
| 7. _____ scandal | g. information that comes from gossip rather than a reliable source |
| 8. _____ virtues | h. exceptional |

B. Comprehension. Answer the questions.

- Who doesn't like being the subject of gossip? Who does?
- What are some of the frustrations celebrities have expressed about gossip?
- Explain the meaning of the Spanish proverb in your own words.
- Which quote do you most strongly agree with? Why?
- Do you disagree with any of the quotes? If so, which one and why?

2 Pair Work

Play a game of “telephone” with your class. Work with your partner to think of a rumor to spread about a famous person. Whisper the rumor to the person next to you. That person whispers it to someone else. Continue to pass the message around the classroom, trying to keep the exact wording. The last person says the rumor out loud. How close is it to the original rumor?

3 Grammar

Noun Clauses as Reported Speech versus Quoted Speech

Quoted speech repeats the exact words that someone said. A comma follows the verb in the main clause, and the quoted speech is placed inside quotation marks.

Reported speech uses a noun clause to paraphrase what someone said. It is not necessary to repeat the exact words, and quotation marks are not used.

Quoted Speech	Reported Speech
My mother said, "Gossiping is a bad habit."	My mother said (that) gossiping was a bad habit.
He said, "Mark cheated on the test."	He said (that) Mark had cheated on the test.

Rules and Exceptions to the Sequence of Tenses

In reported speech, if the reporting verb in the main clause is in the past tense, the tense of the verb in the noun clause generally moves back one tense.

Quoted Speech	Reported Speech
They said, "He likes gossip."	They said (that) he liked gossip.
They said, "He is gossiping ."	They said (that) he was gossiping .
They said, "He was gossiping all day."	They said (that) he had been gossiping all day.

However, there are some exceptions to the rule of the sequence of tenses:

- If the reporting verb is in the present tense, present perfect, or future, the noun clause verb does not change tense.
She says (that) gossiping is mean.
- If the noun clause states a fact or general truth, the present tense can (but doesn't have to) be retained.
The psychologist said that it is (or was) human nature to enjoy hearing about scandal.
- When the action that the reported speech refers to has not happened yet, either will or would can be used.
Our teacher said that the mid-term exam will (or would) be given next week.
- The modals should, might, should have, could have, and must have do not change form in reported speech.
"Tim should keep his mouth closed." → He said that Tim should keep his mouth closed.
- An imperative is changed to an infinitive, and tell is used as the reporting verb.
"Don't spread that rumor." → My friend told me not to spread that rumor.

Noun Clauses Beginning with Whether or If

To report yes/no questions, whether or if is used to introduce the noun clause. Ask (not say or tell) is used as the reporting verb.

Jane asked, "Is the rumor true?" → Jane asked her friend if the rumor was true.

He asked, "Are they spreading rumors?" → He asked whether they were spreading rumors.

- A. Write sentences that quote the speaker's exact words. Use said along with correct punctuation and capitalization.

 Professor Jin: There will be no written exams. Professor Jin said, "There will be no written exams."

- Rebecca: They should mind their own business.
- Albert: Can I have the check, please?
- Me: He deserves praise for all of his accomplishments.
- You: I promise that I won't tell your secret.
- Mark Twain: The rumors of my death have been greatly exaggerated.

B. Change the quoted speech to reported speech.

💡 Taro said, "Albert and I are going to form a writers' group."
Taro said that he and Albert were going to form a writers' group.

1. Mrs. Jackson said, "I have taught at this school for 15 years."
2. He said, "My cell phone isn't working."
3. The teacher asked John, "Why are you late?"
4. My brother said, "I think I'm going to grow a beard."
5. They said, "We don't want to go out tonight."
6. My sister promised, "I'll tell you my secret later."
7. Peter said, "There's a brilliant lecturer speaking tonight."
8. We said, "We'll help them move into their new apartment."
9. The waiter said, "There will be a 20-minute wait for a table."
10. Pedro said, "I was watching TV when the earthquake began."

C. Circle the correct verb to complete each sentence. If both verbs are possible, circle both.

1. They said that they (might / might have) join us later.
2. She says that she (likes / liked) her classes.
3. The weatherman said that there (will / would) be a storm tonight.
4. He said that criticism (is / was) hurtful.
5. My aunt said that I (should / should have) call her this week.
6. The teacher said that a full moon (appears / appeared) once a month.
7. He said that he (has been / had been) to both London and Paris.
8. He asked his friends not (call / to call) him at work.
9. He said that he (will / would) try to come to the meeting.
10. Her friend warned that she (will / would) get in trouble.

D. Change each sentence to reported speech with if or whether.

💡 My friend asked me, "Will you buy a laptop soon?"
My friend asked me if I would buy a laptop soon.
My friend asked me whether I would buy a laptop soon.

1. They asked him, "Is the rumor true?"
2. My sister asked me, "Are you going to tell me your secret?"
3. The waiter asked the customer, "Do you want milk for your coffee?"
4. I asked him, "Did you vote in the last election?"
5. They asked us, "Do you need directions?"
6. She asked her sister, "Can you get some groceries from the supermarket?"

E. Write 6 to 8 more lines of dialogue for the phone conversation.
Then change each line of dialogue to reported speech.

💡 Saeed: I heard that Ahmed and his wife are flying to Jeddah this week.
Saeed said he heard that Ahmed and his wife were flying to Jeddah this week.

Faisal: I thought Ahmed didn't like flying.
Faisal said that he thought Ahmed didn't like flying.

4 Conversation

- Anna: Hello.
- Farah: Anna, I'm so glad I found you. You'll never believe what I just heard. Ella and Susan had a huge argument and split up.
- Anna: Again? That's a real on again, off again friendship!
- Farah: Yes, but this time I hear it's for good.
- Anna: What happened?
- Farah: Rumor has it that Ella told Susan she was tired of her talking about herself and her problems and never wanting to listen to her. But the real reason was that she was really upset because she found out that Susan had been talking about her behind her back.
- Anna: But she hadn't, had she?
- Farah: No. But Stacy told Ella that she had heard Susan talking about her.
- Anna: I thought Stacy was supposed to be Susan's friend. What a backstabber! Why would she bad-mouth Susan like that?
- Farah: Isn't it obvious? She said it because she wants to become Ella's friend. But that'll never happen because we'll set things right!
- Anna: We will? How are we going to do that?
- Farah: We're going to talk to Ella and tell her that Stacy was lying. And we'll do it in front of Stacy.
- Anna: Oh, no. I don't want to do that. You're better at this sort of thing. I hate confrontation.
- Farah: But we need to confront Stacy with this. If we don't, she'll do it again. And it's not right for Ella and Susan to fall out over a lie. They'd have gotten over that other issue about listening to each other but not this. Would you forgive me if you found out I had talked about you behind your back?
- Anna: Absolutely not. Have you?
- Farah: Anna! This is not about us. It's about Ella and Susan; they've been friends since kindergarten.
- Anna: Well, so have we. OK, OK, Let's do it!
- Farah: Great! I'll call you back later with more details.

About the Conversation

1. What news does Farah give Anna?
2. Why is Anna surprised at Stacy?
3. What is Anna's response to Farah's suggestion?

Your Turn

Role-play with a partner. Make up some gossip to tell your partner. Discuss the gossip, using the phrases for telling a secret and promising to keep a secret.

Real Talk

- split up = stopped being friends

Telling a Secret

- Can you keep a secret?
- Please don't tell anyone I told you this, but...
- You'll never believe what I heard.
- You're not going to believe this, but...

Promising to Keep a Secret

- I promise I won't tell anyone.
- I won't say a word about it.
- My lips are sealed.
- You can trust me.

5 Listening

Listen to a rumor as it is spread from student to student at a high school. Then complete the chart.

		Rumor	Truth
1.	What were Matt and Jake doing?
2.	Why did Ryan think they had gotten into serious trouble?
3.	What was their father doing at the scene of the accident?

6 Pronunciation

Questions usually serve one of two purposes:

1. To find out information that you don't already know. This kind of question usually ends with falling intonation.
2. To confirm that information you believe to be true is correct. This kind of question usually ends with rising intonation.

Listen and practice.

1. What do you think is going to happen?
2. What's going on?
3. Isn't that a bit harsh?
4. What are you talking about?
5. Didn't all that happen?

B. Check your answers with a partner. If you do not understand the meaning of a word, look it up in a dictionary.

8 Reading

Before Reading

Why do you think people gossip?

While acknowledging that gossiping is part of human nature and social interaction, Islam emphasizes the ethical aspect and consequences of gossiping. Truth and fairness are important values that should regulate or shape our judgment of others. In addition, gossiping should not be used to harm, hurt or demonize others. Therefore, gossiping should be minimal, truthful, and ethical.

Psst. Pass It On. (Why We Gossip)

Almost everyone has indulged in gossiping about other people at some time. Gossiping seems to be part of human nature. Gossip is spread in classrooms, in offices, at restaurants, in hallways, on the street, over the phone, and on the Internet. No one is immune to gossiping or being gossiped about. But just why is it that people gossip?

There are many reasons people gossip. Some people gossip because it makes them feel like they are part of a group. The people spreading the gossip feel like they are in on a secret and that they are accepted by the people listening to the gossip. By excluding the person they are gossiping about, the gossipers feel included.

David Jardel has experienced this first hand. David recalls, "When I first graduated from college, I was hired along with a few other graduates to be an assistant at a news station. It was a really competitive job, and at first, it was difficult to make friends. We worked long hours and weren't paid very much. We were all really struggling. Or at least that's what I thought. But one day I overheard one of the other assistants, Rick, on the phone with his father. He asked his father if he could send more money to cover his rent. He also asked him whether he could increase the limit on the credit card he had given him. I got the feeling from the conversation that his parents were basically supporting him. I ended up gossiping about it to the other assistants. I knew I was wrong to do it, but at the time, I couldn't resist. We all had a good laugh about it, and it helped us bond as a group. But there was a price to be paid for that, and Rick paid it. We used to tease him quite a bit. For example, if we were ordering a pizza, we would say, "Oh Rick, wouldn't you prefer to have a nice meal at a restaurant and charge it to your daddy?" We meant it in good fun, but looking back, I can see how it might have seemed malicious to Rick. He ended up quitting. I've always felt bad about the part I played in his decision to leave."

Other common causes of gossip are insecurity and a need to feel superior. When you spread rumors about someone, it reduces that person's status in other people's eyes. Judging other people negatively can make insecure people feel better about themselves, at least temporarily. Jim Lyle recalls having been guilty of this himself: "When I had been at my first job for about a year, I was hoping for a promotion. Instead, they hired a new guy for the job that I had wanted. About six months later, a friend who worked in human resources told me that the new guy had been given a really bad performance review. My friend said that if his performance didn't improve, he would be in danger of being fired. I knew that this was confidential information, but each time I was having a conversation with someone in the office, I somehow found myself gossiping about it." Gossiping also made Jim feel powerful, important, and like the center of attention—at least for the few minutes it took to divulge the gossip. However, Jim adds, "His performance improved, and he's very good at his job now. Also, I've gotten to know him, and he's really a nice person. Now I'm always worried someone will tell him that I used to gossip about him!"

Interestingly though, the number one reason most young people gossip is not insecurity or a need for attention or acceptance. According to polls, most young people say they gossip out of boredom. Some people feel that when there is no conflict or drama in their social circle, life is too dull. For them, spreading rumors shakes things up and makes life more interesting. In essence, for many people gossip is a form of entertainment. Cindy LaMott, a 19-year-old student at a community college admits to being a big gossip. Explains Cindy, "The truth is too boring. Gossip is fun. Though, I don't know whether I'd feel that way if the gossip was about me!"

However, for all its potential to do harm, gossip is not always a negative thing. Some gossip is harmless talk that is part of how people communicate and stay connected with each other. When people gossip about minor things, gossip can strengthen bonds between people and within a community. The issue isn't so much with gossip itself, but with the content of the gossip. Gossip becomes a problem when it is derogatory and hurtful.

So the next time you hear a piece of gossip and feel the urge to pass it on, stop for a moment. Ask yourself whether the gossip will do harm to the person being gossiped about. If you think it might, it's a good time to keep your mouth closed!

After Reading

Answer true or false. Rewrite the false statements to make them true.

1. ___ It is human nature to gossip.
2. ___ Disappointment and anger are common causes of gossip.
3. ___ Gossiping is usually an effective way of gaining acceptance into a group.
4. ___ Gossip usually reduces the status of the person being gossiped about.
5. ___ The number one reason most young people gossip is a need to feel superior.

"The one who spreads gossip will not enter paradise."

—Prophet Mohammed
(Peace be upon him.)

"The Prophet (peace be upon him) told us 'Backbiting is to say something about someone that they wouldn't like to be said about them; if the bad thing you said about them is true then you have backbited, and if it is false then you have slandered them'."

—(Narrated by Imam Muslim)

9 Speaking

If you heard harmful gossip about someone you knew, would you do anything to stop it? Why? Why not?

1. Work in pairs/groups. Think about the harm that can be done through spreading rumors and how you can stop them.
2. Use the chart to make notes. Then use your notes to discuss and compare ideas in class.

Examples of rumors	1. _____	2. _____	3. _____
Consequences/harm
The way you would react upon being told the rumor
The way you would stop it
The reason you would not stop it

10 Writing

- A. 1. Read the title. Do you think gossip is boring? Why? Why not?
 2. What do you talk about when you are with your friends?
 3. Read the text and find out.
- What is the writer's viewpoint? Why?
 - How does she react when someone starts gossiping?
 - Is she in favor or against minding one's own business?

Why gossip is boring

I hate gossip. I find it boring and destructive. Yet, so much in the media, in publications, and on the Web is based on gossip. A lot of people have become so heavily conditioned to it that they fail to recognize it as gossip. They regard it as news; information for public consumption.

I met an older friend that I had not seen for some time. She proceeded to tell me all the “news” about people I knew, and people that I had never heard of. None of it was harmful on its own but it was infinitely boring and awkward. I honestly felt I was wasting my time and hers for no obvious reason. I also became very reluctant to share any of my “news” because I felt that it would very likely become public property.

At some point, she realized that I was not engaged in the conversation and attributed my attitude to my obsession with work. So, she started lecturing me on the negative effects of not having some normal time off. She then told me about someone else who carried on like me—someone I knew—and how sick she had gotten through overwork that she had to be hospitalized for about four months. I started feeling physically sick.

What right does anyone have to upset someone to such an extent that they become sick? Why is it, that disaster draws so much attention? Why doesn't anyone tell stories or spread rumors about good days, successful endeavors, and happy people? Imminent calamity seems to sell a lot better than a happy development.

The trend has established itself quite well. Most news items are about threats, criminal behavior, destruction, bankruptcy, war... etc. The more dismal the news is, the larger the audience, the higher the ratings, and the more successful the program is.

“Mind your own business” is considered rude and aggressive. If you dare utter these words, you are summarily dismissed as a selfish, insensitive, and ungrateful. Somehow making others' business our own has become the norm rather than the exception. But I would still say it and take the risk in order to preserve some peace of mind and do my duty in a small way: reminding those who care to be reminded that we all have a right to privacy without being considered peculiar.

4. Read the text again and identify the main idea. Choose the best summary of the main idea from the list:
- a. The writer gives her reasons why gossip is rude and unhelpful.
 - b. The writer gives her reasons why gossip is not boring and helpful.
 - c. The writer gives her reasons why gossip is harmful and upsetting.

- B. 1. Read the article on pages 158 and 159 again and identify the main reasons given by the writer on why gossip is an unhealthy and/or harmful practice.
2. Make notes on each main idea in the chart below. Then re-write each main point using your own words. Don't introduce anything new, paraphrase only the ideas given in the article.
3. Write a summary of the article. Use linking words and include an introduction.

Main Idea	Paraphrase

Writing Corner

When you write a summary:

- You should first identify the main ideas by underlining them in the article and taking notes.
- You must use your own words and paraphrase the main ideas.
- Do not include examples.
- Do not introduce any new ideas of your own.
- Use appropriate linkers to connect your main points.
- Don't plagiarize. Remember to cite your source. Refer to page 203 and read about plagiarism and correct citation.

11 Form, Meaning and Function

Words Connected to Parts of The Body

Look at the picture of the candidate running for mayor and say which parts of the body you can see.

1. What languages do you speak?
2. Do you think English is a difficult language? Explain.
3. Why do you study English?

Fascinating Language Facts

1 The most widely spoken language in the world is Mandarin. There are 885 million people in China who speak it. English is the second most widely spoken language.

2 There are more people in China who speak English than there are in the United States.

3 There are 13 languages that 100 million people or more speak. These languages are Mandarin, English, Hindi, Spanish, Russian, Arabic, Bengali, Portuguese, Malay-Indonesian, French, Japanese, German, and Urdu.

福 祿 壽 禧
Good Fortune Prosperity Longevity Auspiciousness

4 There are about 7,000 languages spoken in the world today. However, about 2,000 of these languages have fewer than 1,000 speakers.

5 The language which has the world's largest alphabet is Cambodian. It has 74 letters. The language with the shortest alphabet is Rotokas, used in the Solomon Islands. It has only 11 letters.

6 It is believed that nearly half of the estimated 7,000 languages currently spoken in the world will have become extinct by 2050.

7 Some of the languages that people speak in Africa include a clicking sound. These languages sound different from and are not related to any other known language. It is believed that the click languages may be the earliest human languages. These languages can only be spoken properly by those who acquire the language in childhood.

8 Arabic has influenced many languages. Many words in English have been borrowed directly or indirectly from Arabic. 3 Grammar

Adjective Clauses and Relative Pronouns

An adjective clause is a dependent clause that describes or gives information about the noun that comes before it.

I know a person who speaks three languages.
The language that he/she speaks at home is Spanish.

Relative pronouns relate clauses to nouns in adjective clauses. Use the relative pronoun who for people, and which and that for things.

Note: The relative pronoun that can also be used when talking about people in general. However, when a particular person is being referred to, who is preferred.

She is the kind of person that is always there for her friends.
The tutor who helps me with my English is very kind.

Relative Pronouns as Subjects of Adjective Clauses

Relative pronouns can be the subject of an adjective clause. Relative pronouns that are followed by a verb are subject pronouns. Subject pronouns must always be included.

I am someone who loves doing crossword puzzles.
Words that have many meanings can be confusing.

Relative Pronouns as Objects of Adjective Clauses

Relative pronouns can also be the object of an adjective clause. Relative pronouns that are followed by a noun or pronoun are object pronouns. Object pronouns can be omitted.

Spanish is a language (that) many people find easy to learn.
There are many words (which) James mispronounces.

Note: Whom is considered more correct than who when used as the object of an adjective clause. However, whom is very formal. In casual speech, either who is used or the relative pronoun is simply left out.

The teacher (who[m]) I like best is my language professor.

A. Match the sentence halves. Rewrite the sentence, using a relative pronoun to join the two halves.

 A photographer is someone who takes photographs.

- | | |
|--------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1. h A photographer is someone who | a. have the same meaning. |
| 2. ____ A fashion designer is someone ____ | b. lets you read books on a screen. |
| 3. ____ A flag is something ____ | c. tests a student's knowledge. |
| 4. ____ A linguist is someone ____ | d. gives the meanings of words. |
| 5. ____ A hammer is something ____ | e. is a symbol of a nation. |
| 6. ____ An exam is something ____ | f. doesn't eat meat. |
| 7. ____ An electronic reader is something ____ | g. creates clothing. |
| 8. ____ A vegetarian is someone ____ | h. takes photographs. |
| 9. ____ Synonyms are two words ____ | i. is used to put nails in a wall. |
| 10. ____ A dictionary is something ____ | j. studies languages. |

B. Decide whether the relative pronoun can be omitted in each sentence. If it can, rewrite the sentence without it. If it cannot, write no change.

Jason: This restaurant is jam packed.

Badr: I know. I had to elbow my way through the crowd just to get to the buffet table for some munchies.

Jason: And the people's voices are way too loud.

Badr: I'm sorry, I didn't catch that. What did you say?

Jason: I said the people's voices are way too loud! Hey, did you see that guy in the blue suit? He seems to be familiar.

Badr: Oh, yeah, he's the captain of the football team.

Jason: What's his name?

Badr: Ian Ford.

Jason: Sorry you're bored, but I was asking you the name of that guy.

Badr: No, I said his name is Ian Ford!

Jason: Oh, sorry. The people's voices are ridiculously loud. So, what's he like?

Badr: He's OK. The only thing he's interested in is sports. I find him a bit boring.

Jason: Pardon? You found him snoring?

Badr: Oh, forget it. This is crazy.

Jason: Trying to talk over this noise is too difficult.

Badr: Yeah, I can't deal with it anymore. Do you want to leave?

Jason: What do you want to tell Steve?

Badr: No, I said let's leave. We can get a bite at the diner on the corner.

Jason: Yeah. Let's go.

8 Reading

Before Reading

What do you think an invented language is?
Do you think such a language could be successful?

INVENTED LANGUAGES

Every language has its flaws and limitations. Some people have been so frustrated with the imperfections of existing languages that they have actually tried to create better languages themselves! There have been more than 500 attempts at creating such languages. Each of these invented languages, complete with a vocabulary and grammar of its own, has had a specific goal. For example, some language inventors have wanted to invent a simple and easy-to-learn language, some have wanted to create a gender-neutral language, and some have wanted to make language more mathematical or scientific. While none of these invented languages has ever become widely spoken, there are a couple that have been learned and spoken by a surprisingly large number of people.

The invented language that has the most speakers is Esperanto. This language was created in 1887 by Ludvik Zamenhof, a Polish doctor. Zamenhof lived in an area populated by four different ethnic groups that spoke many different languages. There were a great number of problems between these groups. Zamenhof felt that the language difference between the groups was the root of the problems. This gave him the idea of creating a language that would not belong to any one country or culture, but instead, would belong equally to all people. The hope was that a neutral second language would break down language barriers and build a sense of equality and brotherhood between nations. The language which he created to fulfill this dream was called Esperanto, which means hope in the Esperanto language.

Because Zamenhof's goal was clearly a humanitarian one, he was not interested in making any money from Esperanto. He published a guide to speaking Esperanto, and gave up all rights of ownership to the guide. This way the guide could be freely circulated to all people interested in learning the language.

Zamenhof wanted as many people as possible to learn Esperanto, so he made the language extremely simple, with no irregularities or exceptions to the basic rules. For example, in Esperanto all nouns end with an -o. All nouns can be made plural by simply adding a -j. So the word for friend is amiko, and the plural is amikoj. All adjectives end with an -a. To create the opposite meaning, a speaker simply adds mal- to the beginning of the word. So, for example, the word for big is granda, and the word for small is malgranda. The rules for verbs are equally simple, with no irregular verbs and no conjugation.

For all Zamenhof's good intentions, Esperanto never became the unifying international language he had hoped it would become. People were not eager to spend time learning a new language which so few other people spoke. However, Esperanto has survived to this day and is spoken by at least 100,000 people around the world.

The second most successful invented language is called Klingon. Other than the fact that it is also an invented language, it shares almost no similarities with Esperanto. Klingon, which was invented over 25 years ago, was not created with the noble intention of promoting the peaceful coexistence of people from different cultures. Instead, it is a trademarked invention of a major television studio. It was created in 1984 by a linguist named Marc Okrand for use in the Star Trek series. The characters who speak this language are the Klingon, a fictitious race of people from outer space.

The Klingon Dictionary, which is copyrighted by the television studio, has sold more than 300,000 copies, and has made quite a bit of money. Unlike Esperanto, Klingon is an extremely complicated language with complex grammar, making it an immensely difficult language to learn. As a result, it is estimated that only a few thousand people can speak Klingon.

with any fluency. Yet interestingly, Okrand intentionally made Klingon difficult to learn. His goal for Klingon was almost the opposite of Zamenhof's goal for Esperanto. Okrand did not want many people to be able to speak Klingon fluently. On the contrary, Klingon was designed to be an exclusive language that could only be spoken by the most committed Star Trek fans.

The vast majority of invented languages have disappeared almost as soon as they were created. While the most successful invented languages, like Esperanto and Klingon, have caught the imagination of a community of people, these languages are spoken more as a novelty than as a practical, everyday language. The fact that no invented language has ever become widely spoken seems to tell us something: It is only languages that evolve naturally and slowly over time that have the power to spread, to continue, and to become part of our identity.

After Reading

Answer the questions.

1. What are some reasons people have created invented languages?
2. How did where Zamenhof lived inspire him to create Esperanto?
3. If bela means beautiful in Esperanto, what is the word for ugly?
4. Why didn't Esperanto become an international second language?
5. What is Klingon, and why was it invented?
6. How are Esperanto and Klingon alike? How are they different?

9 Speaking

1. Work in pairs/groups. Think about the languages that you, your family, and relatives can speak and make notes in the chart.
2. Decide which language(s) you prefer and why. Think about the people who use it, the reason it is used, how easy or difficult it is, etc.
3. Which language would you like to learn well? Say why you want to learn it. Compare answers. Which is the most popular language in your class?

10 Writing

- A. 1. Why do so many people learn English? What are some of the main purposes?
 2. How important is it to have a “good accent” in English? Please define “good accent.”
 3. How easy is it for you to understand different speakers of English? Justify your answer.
 4. Read the text and find out.
- How important is an accent according to the writer?
 - What should a learner develop to enhance understanding of spoken language?
 - Why do native speakers of English attend courses in English for international communication?
 - Why are features of intercultural communication important?
 - Do you agree with the writer’s views? Why? Why not?

English as an International Language

In language learning, most people believe that a native speaker-like accent is an asset that can be used to impress people. The question, however, is which variety of English? The language spoken by people in the North of England is different from the variety spoken by people in the South; and this only touches upon the two ends of the continuum. There is a multitude of regional varieties within. So, maybe, the first thing to consider is the reason why we learn the language and what we intend to do with it.

Is it important for a learner of English to imitate one or more varieties when speaking? No, not necessarily, although people who learn the language in its natural setting tend to adopt regional features in terms of pronunciation, vocabulary, and grammar. What is more useful is developing the ability to understand different speakers, including speakers of other languages as a primary need.

As more and more people use English as a common medium to communicate with people from other countries, they affect the language and develop their own variety in terms of accent, vocabulary, and other features. So much so, that special language courses are offered for native speakers who need to conduct business with people in different countries! So, for a change, native speakers have to attend courses that will familiarize them with new varieties of their language and help them develop the skills required to understand the people they communicate with. Naturally, intercultural communication and its requirements are a very important part of such courses and a prerequisite for successful communication with members of different cultures.

English as an international medium of communication is an evolving variety that is affected by the speakers of the language, whether they happen to be native or non-native. Therefore, our idea of a good user of the language has to be modified to accommodate characteristics that make one an effective communicator across cultures, over and above acquiring a prestigious native speaker accent and structurally accurate use of the language. If culture-specific variations will eventually be looked upon as varieties of the international medium remains to be seen. The fact, however, is that English is no longer the property of the English-speaking countries but of the whole world, and as such, it will inevitably reflect the culture and norms of different people.

- B. 1. Compare your first language with English. How is it similar? How is it different? Compare things like the pronunciation, grammar, and expressiveness of the languages. Make notes on your ideas in your notebook.
- 2. Read the email below and answer the questions:
- Who is writing? Why are they writing?
 - How do they start the email? How do they end the email?
 - Are there any interesting features typical of an email to a friend? What are they?

- 3. Write an email to an international e-pal and explain how your language is similar or different to English.

Writing Corner

When you write an email to a friend:

- greet and sign your letter in an informal manner, e.g. Hi/Hello/Dear + first name and Best/Best wishes/See you soon/Take care + your first name.
- write as if you were speaking to him/her, i.e. use contracted forms, emoticons, or abbreviations.

When you want to compare two or more entities:

- identify different aspects/components of the entities that you are comparing, e.g. language: spoken vs. written language, varieties and speakers, appropriateness (i.e. formal or informal language); vocabulary: words, phrases, expressions, idioms, etc.
- if you are not sure, look up the topic or entities that you are required to compare and find out which parts they consist of; then choose the parts/aspects that you want to focus on.
- think of examples and consider similarities and differences, e.g. with language; think of a situation and consider what people might want to convey to each other and what kind of language they would use, for example: Two students are talking about a football game they watched the previous evening. They are running over incidents in the game and arguing whether the referee was right or wrong in different cases. Each student supports a different team.

11 Form, Meaning and Function

Future with Will or Be Going To Use will or be going to to make predictions about the future.

Questions (?)

Will people speak Arabic?

Are we going to learn Chinese at school?

Answers (Opinions)

I guess so. / I don't think so.

I think so. / I hope so. / I hope not.

Will versus Be Going To Use will to make an on-the-spot offer, request or decision. Use be going to to express a plan that is already made or decided.

Ali is going to have his work professionally translated, but I can't afford it. I'll translate it using machine translation software on the Internet.

Future Progressive

Use the future progressive (will + be + present participle) for continuous actions in the future.

Or use be going to + be + present participle.

Affirmative (+)

Free machine translation services on the Internet are going to get better and better. By 2030, most people around the world will be translating foreign languages through machines. They will no longer be learning the lingua franca (the common global language) to communicate in business and trade.

Questions (?)

Will you be working on the weekend?

Are they going to be taking the test, too?

Short Answers (+)

Yes, I will.

Yes, they are.

Short Answers (-)

No, I won't.

No, they aren't.

A. Complete the predictions about the future with the correct form of the verb. More than one answer is possible.

- In the next couple of years, speech recognition applications _____ (translate) foreign languages at business meetings in real time.
- Someday soon, we _____ (use) our smartphones to translate printed text by using the camera function.
- Cars _____ on gasoline. They will run on electricity. (not run)

Amazing Lost Treasures

Moctezuma's Treasure

Moctezuma II was an Aztec emperor who ruled from 1502 to 1520. This was a time when the Aztecs controlled most of what is now Mexico and Central America. In 1520, the notorious Spanish invader Hernán Cortés kidnapped and killed Moctezuma. Cortés and his men then collected all of Moctezuma's dazzling treasures and tried to escape with them. But the Aztecs, who refused to surrender, caught up with the Spanish and fought them. Cortés and a few of his men escaped empty-handed, but eventually returned to take revenge and to attempt to steal the treasure again. However, the Aztecs hid the treasure somewhere around Lake Texcoco, and Cortés never found it.

One of Mexico's former presidents actually drained Lake Texcoco in an attempt to find the treasure, but he failed to find any trace of it. Today it is believed that Moctezuma's treasure is hidden somewhere near Mexico City, but no one knows exactly where.

Tutankhamun's Treasure

King Tutankhamun of Egypt, the boy pharaoh, succeeded his father to the throne when he was barely 9 or 10 years old. He died in his late teens. According to speculation, he was either assassinated or died of infection after an accident.

Tutankhamun's tomb, in the Valley of the Kings in Egypt, is the best preserved royal tomb ever discovered. Theodore M. Davis, an American businessman, was the first person to find clues that led to the discovery of the tomb. Howard Carter, an Egyptologist, confirmed, upon examining the clues, that the tomb lay inside the Valley of the Kings, the royal necropolis of the time.

Carter persuaded his friend Carnarvon to finance his search for the tomb. They had nearly given up when they finally noticed some steps buried under an ancient hut, leading to the sealed door of the tomb. They dug an opening that allowed entry to the tomb, where they found the most amazing artifacts: gold masks and furniture, stunning jewelry, exquisite paintings and inlaid boxes, and other objects of astonishing beauty and craftsmanship. It took Carter many years of his life to study and record all the findings. Everything was photographed and itemized. King Tut's treasure toured the world for the first time in the 70s. The second tour began in 2004.

The Amber Room

The Amber Room was a 180-square-foot (17-square-meter) room, whose four walls were made of six tons of amber, decorated with jewels. The room, which was constructed by Prussian King Friedrich Wilhelm the First, took over eight years to build. It was completed in 1716, at which time it was given to Tsar Peter the Great of the Russian Empire as a gift.

During World War 2, the Nazis found the invaluable room, tore it down, packed it in hundreds of crates, and took it to a destination that has never been discovered. One theory is that it was loaded onto a passenger ship that was sunk by a Soviet submarine. Another possible destination was the Ore Mountains in Germany, where the Amber Room may have been buried in salt mines. The most popular theory, however, is that the Amber Room was hidden in a lost, underground shelter somewhere in the city of Königsberg, Germany. The beautiful room has been called the eighth wonder of the world, and historians estimate that its value today would be around $142 million. The search for the Amber Room continues to this day.

2. What did one of Mexico's former presidents do in an effort to find Moctezuma's treasure?
3. Who was Tutankhamun?
4. What is so special about King Tutankhamun's tomb?
5. What is special about the Amber Room?
6. What are three theories about the location of the Amber Room?

2 Pair Work

Conduct an interview with a partner. One of you will be Moctezuma, Tutankhamun, or Peter the Great, and the other will be a reporter. Discuss the treasure each person is associated with. For example: What did the treasure contain? What do you think happened to the treasure? Will the treasure ever be found? Why or why not?

3 Grammar

Using Where and When in Adjective Clauses

Where is used to modify a place in an adjective clause. Where cannot be omitted.

Last year I visited the city where Moctezuma's treasure is said to be buried.

There are alternatives to using where in an adjective clause. Where can be replaced by:

1. preposition + which

Last year I visited the city in which Moctezuma's treasure is said to be buried.

2. that/which + preposition

Last year I visited the city that Moctezuma's treasure is said to be buried in.

When is used to modify a noun or time in an adjective clause. When can be omitted.

Last Monday was the day (when) I found a SAR 100 bill on the street.

There are alternatives to using when in an adjective clause. When can be replaced by:

1. that (that can also be omitted)

Last Monday was the day (that) I found a SAR 100 bill on the street.

2. preposition + which

Last Monday was the day on which I found a SAR 100 bill on the street.

Using Whose in Adjective Clauses

Whose is the possessive form of who. It can stand for his, her, its, and their, and is always used before a noun.

Whose cannot be omitted.

There are people whose lives are spent looking for ancient objects.

Whose can be either the subject or the object of an adjective clause.

Tutankhamun was a pharaoh. His story is the most interesting to me.

Tutankhamun was the pharaoh whose story is the most interesting to me.

The man was very happy. I found his wallet.

The man whose wallet I found was very happy. (Whose is the subject.)

Note: Don't confuse whose with who's, which is the contraction for who is or who has.

The woman who's coming over tonight lost her watch.

She is the woman who's lost her watch.

She is the woman whose watch disappeared.

4 Conversation

Abdullah: Hey, Mohammed. How was your day?

Mohammed: Leave me alone.

Abdullah: What's eating you?

Mohammed: Sorry. I'm just really aggravated. I lost the watch that my parents got me for my graduation. I'm really down in the dumps. I loved that watch. And, of course, my parents are going to hit the roof when they find out. If only I'd been more careful with it.

Abdullah: What a shame. Do you know where you left it?

Mohammed: If I knew where I left it, then it wouldn't be lost!

Abdullah: OK. OK. Don't get bent out of shape. When did you realize it was gone?

Mohammed: When I got to work this morning. I looked all over the office and here at home. It seems to have vanished into thin air.

Abdullah: And when's the last time you remember seeing it?

Mohammed: I was running late this morning. I remember taking the watch off my nightstand and looking at it right before I went into the bathroom to shave.

Abdullah: Did you put it on after you looked at it?

Mohammed: No. I didn't want it to get wet, so I put it on top of the medicine cabinet. Hold on. Let me take a look... Here it is! Abdullah, you're a genius!

Abdullah: I keep trying to tell you that!

About the Conversation

8 Reading

Before Reading

Where are some places that people might find valuable items? Have you ever looked for treasures in these places? If so, what have you found?

LOOK WHAT I FOUND!

We are accustomed to hearing announcements of important discoveries made by experts. For example, no one was surprised that it was an archaeologist who discovered Tutankhamun's tomb or an astronomer who spotted Neptune. But every once in a while, the most astonishing discoveries are made by ordinary people.

Take, for example, the story of the Philadelphia man who, in 1989, made a historic discovery in a flea market. The man, whose identity was never made known, bought an old painting at the flea market for $4. He did not like the painting, but bought it because he liked the frame. When he got the painting home and took it out of the frame, he was surprised to discover a folded-up document wedged between the painting and the backing of the frame. The document appeared to be an old copy of the American Declaration of Independence. Taking a friend's advice, the man took the document to a professional appraiser where he received incredible news. The document was one of the original copies from the first printing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776. There were only 24 other such copies known to be in existence. The man put this incredibly rare document up for sale and found a buyer for $2.42 million!

Teri Horton had a similar experience in 1987. Horton was looking through a thrift shop one day when she came across a painting that she thought was one of the ugliest things she had ever seen. She decided to buy it for a friend as a joke gift. She bargained the $8 price of the painting down to $5 and dragged the huge painting to her friend's home. However, the friend refused to take the painting because she thought it was too big and ugly. Horton took the painting home and organized a garage sale where she hoped to get rid of it.

A local art teacher happened to be passing by and saw the painting. She told Horton that the painting looked like it had been painted by Jackson Pollock, a famous 20th century painter whose paintings sell for millions of dollars. Horton had the painting evaluated by experts, many of whom agreed with the art teacher. Since then, Horton has devoted herself to proving that her painting is authentic. She has gained many supporters along the way, including a powerful art dealer. She has had numerous offers to buy the painting, including one for $9 million, but has refused each one. Horton is confident that eventually the art world will accept the painting as an authentic Pollock. If and when this happens, the painting could be worth over $50 million!

Perhaps the single most historic discovery made by a non-expert in recent years was made by an unemployed British man named Terry Herbert. Herbert is an amateur treasure hunter who searched fields and back lots with his metal detector for over 18 years. In all those years, Herbert had never found anything of significant value. But it is a good thing he was so persistent. In September of 2009, while using his metal detector on the land of a friend's farm, the detector started beeping wildly. Herbert started digging and soon discovered that he had struck gold—literally: He had stumbled upon the largest Anglo-Saxon treasure ever found. The treasure consisted of 11 pounds of gold and 5 pounds of silver in the form of over 1,500 ornaments, swords, and other weapons. Experts believe this find will give us a much greater understanding of the Anglo-Saxons, the rulers of England from the 5th century until 1106. They also believe that this discovery will be considered one of the most important discoveries in British archaeological history.

A portion of the Anglo-Saxon treasure found

The treasure, the value of which will be determined by a committee of experts, will be sold to a museum. The money from this sale will be split evenly between Herbert and the friend who owns the field where Herbert made the discovery. Herbert says that this experience has been “more fun than winning a prize.”

So the next time you pass a garage sale or thrift store, or are clearing out “junk” from your attic, take a careful look. Who knows what unimagined treasures you may discover!

After Reading

Answer true or false. Rewrite the false statements to be true.

1. ____ An original copy of the American Declaration of Independence was once bought for $4.
2. ____ Jackson Pollock was a famous 19th century painter.
3. ____ Teri Horton owns a painting that may be an original Jackson Pollock.
4. ____ The Anglo-Saxons ruled England in the 1600s.
5. ____ The largest Anglo-Saxon treasure ever found was found with an ordinary metal detector.
6. ____ The Anglo-Saxon treasure found by Herbert consisted entirely of jewels.

Had I really lost it?

I had just gotten back from a business trip in China. I had been working very hard for a week, trying to make the most of my time there; I had meetings every day, wrote proposals and reports, discussed options with my associates, and so on. In other words, I was exhausted!

I had had a long but comfortable flight, during which I had been unable to relax because I kept thinking of the backlog waiting for me at work. All kinds of pending issues surged into my mind and started swirling about. I tried to push them back, but with little success. When we landed, I made up my mind to drive to the office first, deal with any urgent matters, and then go home.

I headed for the carousel to wait for my luggage. I just followed the crowd and stood by with a trolley, waiting for my suitcase to appear. People kept on picking up their luggage and walking away, and I kept on waiting and getting more and more stressed. Eventually, the carousel stopped. I was told that there was no more luggage. I could not believe it! I had even packed a new laptop in my suitcase to avoid carrying it. I rushed to the information desk, all worked up, ready for a fight! The person in charge was used to dealing with upset passengers, so he explained what the procedure was and offered to take me to the service that dealt with lost items, where I would have to fill out a form with all my details. He assured me that, in most cases, the luggage was eventually recovered. On the way, we walked past another carousel with some suitcases lined up alongside it. I caught a glimpse of a familiar sticker through the corner of my eye. When I stopped to check, I realized that I had found my suitcase. I had been waiting at the wrong carousel!

- 7. Read the personal narrative again and identify:
- statements that provide factual information about what the writer and other people did
 - statements that provide access to the narrator's thoughts and feelings
 - sections that convey slower motion and faster motion, and how this is achieved

- B. 1. Write a personal narrative about something important that you have lost and/or found.
2. Before you begin writing, use a chart to outline the events of the story in the order that they happened.
3. Write your personal narrative describing what happened. Gives as many details as you can about the experience.

How Did You Lose That?

The story I am about to tell is an embarrassing one. It happened in 2019, which I will always remember as the year when I lost my laptop. That's right. I lost my 17-inch laptop. It was not stolen. I lost it.

My story begins at a large university library where I had gone to study and do some research. I used my membership card to get in and had to wait for almost an hour for a spot to become vacant at one of the tables where I could plug in my laptop. I was so excited about my new membership and just being there, that I left everything on the table and walked away towards the journals section. When I tried to get back to the table, where I'd left my laptop, I could not find it. I had forgotten the number next to the outlet...

Writing Corner

When you write a personal narrative:

- use devices that can make your story more vivid.
 - include parts where you are thinking aloud and revealing your thoughts or predicament.
 - address direct questions to the reader, such as: Who would think of such a thing?
 - vary the pace of your story depending on the events and the feelings/mood involved.
 - notice that you don't need to state everything explicitly; some developments or thoughts are naturally understood by the reader.
1. Identify all the acts and/or thoughts that are implied and understood by the reader in the last lines of the model essay and write them.
I stopped walking toward the service desk where I was going to fill out a form for my lost luggage. I walked toward the suitcases that... _____

 2. What is the effect on the reader when everything is stated or even restated explicitly?

2 Reading

Before Reading

1. What are some things in the natural world that might have been difficult for people to understand before the development of science and technology?
2. Do you think everything in the natural world can now be explained with science and technology?

It's a Mystery

Before the development of science and technology, man viewed the natural world as mysterious and sometimes frightening. People were confounded by questions such as What is thunder? How are mountains formed? What causes sickness? Then, with the development of science, man started to find the answers to such questions. Now that we live in an age of advanced scientific knowledge, it sometimes seems we have unlocked all the mysteries of nature. Yet every so often, nature presents us with unexplained phenomena for which there are still no rational, scientific explanations.

One such phenomenon that has been reported around the globe since ancient times is strange rainfall. From such diverse points on the globe as the U.S., Europe, and India, people have periodically reported such things as fish, frogs, and snakes suddenly falling from the sky. In one case, in July of 1901, a sudden heavy rain of frogs and toads fell on the city of Minneapolis, Minnesota. A reporter who covered the event wrote: “When the storm was at its highest, there appeared from the sky a huge green mass. Then followed a peculiar sound, unlike that of rain or hail. When the storm lessened, people found a variety of frogs ‘three inches deep and covering an area of more than four blocks...so thick in some places [that] travel was impossible.’”

Some people believe these events are caused by tornadoes that occur over bodies of water. The theory is that the tornadoes, whose force sucks up animals into the clouds, are also responsible for carrying the animals until they are dropped back onto land. However, this explanation has never been proven. It also does not explain why many of these rainfalls consist of only one species, and why many of them consist of species that are not native to the area where they fall, but to an area many hundreds of miles away.

Perhaps the rainfall that has most confounded scientists is a heavy red rain that fell sporadically on Kerala, India over a two-month period in 2001. According to locals who experienced the rains, there was a flash of light and a boom so loud that it shook the houses in town. And then the rain began. The Kerala rain was studied by scientists around the world. It became famous in 2006 when Godfrey Louis, a professor at Mahatma Gandhi University in Kerala, made some astonishing claims about the rain. Louis said that the rain appeared to be composed of living, biological cells. However, he said that there was no evidence of DNA in the cells. As all cells on earth contain DNA, Louis concluded that the colored particles were living cells from a life form on another planet, carried to this planet by a meteorite. However, not all scientists agree with Louis, and the origin of the red rain of Kerala is still generally considered to be a mystery.

Another natural phenomenon that science has yet to explain is ball lightning. Ball lightning is the term for rare balls of light, usually at least as big as a doorknob and sometimes as big as a football, that float through the air during thunderstorms. These balls have no smell and no heat. They usually vanish soundlessly or explode with a loud pop when they come across something electrical, like a computer or TV. Although these strange electrical occurrences are not common, there have been occasional reports of ball lightning for centuries.

One widely-reported case of ball lightning occurred in January of 1984 in a Russian passenger plane. A Russian newspaper reported that the ball lightning "...flew above the heads of the stunned passengers. In the tail section of the airliner, it divided into two glowing crescents that then joined together again and left the plane almost noiselessly." Although the ball lightning left two holes in the plane, it has often been reported to pass through solid objects without leaving a mark. Because ball lightning occurs so rarely and unexpectedly, scientists have not been able to study this phenomenon, and it remains a great mystery.

In this age of advanced scientific knowledge, it may seem surprising that there are occurrences in the natural world for which we have no explanation. But perhaps it is a good thing that we have not unlocked all of the mysteries of the natural world. Such mysteries help us maintain a healthy respect, curiosity, and awe of the natural world.

After Reading

A. Match the words with their meanings.

- | | |
|----------------------|------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. ____ confounded | a. logical |
| 2. ____ rational | b. strange |
| 3. ____ mass | c. having no pattern or order in time |
| 4. ____ peculiar | d. confused |
| 5. ____ species | e. type |
| 6. ____ sporadically | f. an amount of matter with no specific shape |
| 7. ____ meteorite | g. amazement |
| 8. ____ awe | h. rock or metal that has fallen to Earth from outer space |

B. Answer the questions.

1. What are some of the mysterious things that have fallen from the sky?
2. What does Godfrey Louis believe about the red rain of Kerala and why?
3. What is ball lightning?
4. Describe the ball lightning that occurred on a Russian airplane.

Discussion

1. Would you like science to discover a reason for the mysteries described in the reading? Why or why not?
2. Do you think people had more respect for the natural world before science unlocked so many of its mysteries? Explain.
3. What are some other mysteries for which there are no known explanations?

Correct the use of the in these sentences.

- The Arizona is a state in southwest of the United States.
- Egypt is on the continent of the Africa.
- Nile River helped the Egypt become one of the most powerful nations of the Africa and Middle East.

Writing Prompt

Research and write an essay about an unexplained mystery. Include grammar points from Units 9–12.

Write Your Essay

1. Choose a mystery to research and write about. Use an idea from the box or an idea of your own.

Big Foot	Stonehenge	The Loch Ness Monster
Chupacabras	The Bermuda Triangle	The Lost City of Atlantis
Crop Circles	The Green Sahara	The Taos Hum

2. Use a chart to organize your ideas. Write what you already know about the mystery in the K (Know) column. Write what you want to learn in the W (Want to Learn) column. Research these questions in your library or on the Internet. Then write what you've learned in the L (Learned) column.

K	W	L

3. Write a draft of your essay, working carefully to construct an effective conclusion.
4. Have a partner read and comment on your draft. Use your partner's comments and suggestions to revise your essay.

Developing Your Writing: Writing Effective Conclusions

An effective conclusion usually refers back to the topic sentence in the essay's introduction, gives an essay a sense of completeness, and gives the reader something to think about. It is common to conclude an essay with one or more of the following techniques:

- asking the reader a thought-provoking question
- using a quotation
- calling for some kind of action
- evoking an image
- echoing an image or idea from the introduction

It seems there is much we may never know about Stonehenge. For all the years that scientists have studied this prehistoric monument, we still do not know who built it or how it was built. We do not know whether it was used as a scientific observatory, as a place where people were buried, or as a place to which people came for ancient ceremonies. However, one thing is clear: Stonehenge reveals the amazing mathematical sophistication and engineering knowledge of its builders. How did these builders have such complex mathematical understanding thousands of years before the Egyptians arrived at the principles of modern mathematics? This is, perhaps, the greatest mystery of Stonehenge and will be speculated about for many years to come.

Tools for Writing: Sentence Fragments

A sentence fragment is a dependent clause that is incorrectly treated as a complete sentence.

Incorrect: Because he's so intelligent.

Sentence fragments can often be fixed by either adding the fragment to an independent clause, or by removing the introductory word from the fragment.

Correct: I like listening to his lectures because he's so intelligent.

Correct: He's so intelligent.

Correct these sentence fragments.

1. After the news report was over.
2. If I go shopping.
3. Unless the weather is nice.
4. Because we eat too much fast food.

Writing Prompt

Write an informational essay about a psychological condition or disorder. Include grammar points from Units 9–12 where possible.

Write Your Essay

1. Decide what condition you want to write about. Some possible subjects include stuttering, insomnia, dyslexia, anxiety, attention deficit disorder, and eating disorders.
2. Research the disorder to answer the following questions: What is this disorder? What causes it? What are the symptoms? What are some example cases? How is the disorder treated?
3. Use a chart to record information and organize your ideas.
4. Write a draft of your essay. Be sure to avoid plagiarism. Paraphrase and cite sources when necessary.
5. Have a partner read and comment on your draft. Use your partner's comments and suggestions to revise your essay.

Disorder: _____
Definition Causes
Symptoms
Example cases
Treatment

Developing Your Writing: Avoiding Plagiarism

Plagiarizing means copying ideas and words from another writer without giving credit to the writer. When you gather information for your essays, be careful to note any information you take directly from another source. When using this information, avoid plagiarism by doing the following things:

Quote exact words: Place exact words from another source in quotation marks. This clearly indicates that the words in quotations are not your own.

Paraphrase: Summarize and put ideas from another source into your own words.

Whether you use exact quotes or paraphrase, be sure to give credit to the original source after the quote or paraphrase. Then include a list of your sources at the end of your essay.

Stuttering

Faris has carefully researched and written his assignment. Now he has to present it in front of his class, but he doesn't want to. He is afraid that he will embarrass himself in front of his classmates. In fact, he is so scared of embarrassing himself that he would rather accept a failing grade for the assignment than take the risk.

Faris is a stutterer. Stuttering is a common speech disorder that affects a little less than one percent of the population. People who stutter repeat or prolong sounds and words, which disrupts the normal flow of speech. (NIDOCDC, 2009)

Forming Business Partners in the Information Age

In the past, people used to meet their business partners in person at schools, universities, or work. Today, more and more people are turning to technology to find a good partner. We interviewed Adnan who met his partner Greg online.

Interviewer: So, exactly how did you go about finding Greg, your partner?

Adnan: We found each other's résumé on ePartner.

Interviewer: Can you tell us a little about ePartner. How does it work?

Adnan: It is based on the principle that people should be matched on key personality characteristics.

Interviewer: So how do you know if your personality has the same key characteristics as someone else's?

Adnan: Well, everyone who signs up for ePartner has to take an online personality and aptitude test. After you finish the questionnaire, you get a list of likely matches.

Interviewer: And did you match? I mean did you hit it off with your partner right away?

Adnan: Actually, he didn't respond until a month later. But we've been partners for two years now, and we haven't had a single argument. We don't agree on everything, but we talk about things and always work out a solution that satisfies both of us.

Getting Funding for a New Business

In the past people used to save and start a business when they had enough cash. These days, people can put together a business plan, copyright it, and search for sponsors through the Internet.

Interviewer: So can you explain to us exactly what sponsoring is?

Greg: Sure. There are networks that accept proposals for new businesses and include them in their data bank. Your proposal can then be seen by potential sponsors or investors.

Interviewer: So, is it similar to social networking online.

Greg: I suppose you could say that. But this one is business networking, and the concept is closer to ePartnering in the sense that you eventually get to meet sponsors in person.

Interviewer: I see...and about how many sponsors can you meet and how quickly?

Greg: If you want, you can meet up to five or six potential sponsors a day.

Interviewer: Wow! Five sponsors a day! That's a lot. Interesting. Thanks for sharing with us, Greg, and good luck to you with your new business!

true In the past, people often met their business partners through common organizations.

1. _____ Adnan and Greg share some common personality characteristics.
2. _____ Adnan and his partner never disagree.
3. _____ When you try to get funding online you don't get to meet sponsors.
4. _____ You can meet up to six sponsors a day.

- J Read the text and answer the questions. Then complete the questionnaire at the end of the text with your own ideas.

Partnering with Friends and Relatives

Some people avoid setting up business partnerships with friends or family members. They feel that there cannot be clear boundaries between friendship and work, and things can go very wrong if you disagree with your friend and business partner.

Others feel that friends make the best business partners because there is a real relationship, as well as a sense of loyalty and willingness to share. According to yet another view, friends are great potential partners but not relatives.

I think it comes down to who the people are and what their qualities are. I also feel that self-confidence is invariably a determining factor. People who are aware of their strengths and weaknesses and are confident about their abilities and potential make good business partners. On the other hand, people who are meek and always take a back seat sometimes tend to be unpredictable and might take advantage of their partner when given a chance. But even then, you cannot really say that this is always the case. So it all depends on the individual.

An aspect of friendship that might affect a working relationship has to do with the fact that friends tend to do what they like rather than what they can do best; they feel that they have license to indulge and do exactly that, because they are working with friends. This can lead to bad and destructive business decisions. So it's advisable to discuss responsibilities beforehand, agree on details, and put everything down on paper.

One thing is certain; if you plan to be the leader of the business, what you need to find out is if your friends respect you as much as you respect them.

Here are some questions you could ask yourself before setting up a partnership:

- A. Does my friend really listen to me when I talk?
- B. When I have a good idea, does my friend reject it or does he/she contribute to its development?
- C. Can I confide in my friend and trust him/her not to tell others our business ideas.
- D. Does my friend come to me for advice?
- E. Has my friend been by my side when I've needed help or support?
- F. Has my friend accepted my help and support when it was offered?
- G. _____
- H. _____
- I. _____
- J. _____

1. Why are some people against setting up partnerships with friends and relatives?
2. Why are friends considered potentially good business partners?
3. What qualities are important in a working relationship according to the writer?
4. What should you do if you are heading the business?
5. Now, read the text again and add your own questions from G to J.

Presenter: As more and more people (1. set up / are setting up) businesses together these days, we interviewed two friends who (2. are trying / try) to make a go of it. We (3. are waiting / wait) for our first pair to arrive now. Ah! There (4. are they / they are)! Let's welcome Ali and Faisal... So tell us about your experience of working together. You (5. are / are being) web designers, aren't you? How (6. things go / are things going)? (7. Is the business / The business is) working out as planned?

Ali: Well, it (8. is / is being) actually easier than we thought it might be. First of all, let me explain, we (9. have / are having) a software program that (10. assists / is assisting) our customers to build their own websites. Let me show you an example on the screen... Here (11. you go / are going)! This (12. is / is being) our website.

Presenter: Wow! The site certainly (13. seems / is seeming) fantastic! (14. Are you believing / Do you believe) that's all due to your partnership?

Faisal: Oh, yes. It really (15. helps / is helping) to have two pairs of eyes on the screen, and two pairs of hands to share the load.

Presenter: What about the downsides? Any problems, so far?

Ali: To be frank, nothing serious. Naturally, we (16. have / are having) our differences of opinion occasionally. That's normal when two people (17. spend / spending) so much time together.

Presenter: Anything specific?

Faisal: The only thing that bugs me is that Ali (18. is constantly interrupting / constantly interrupts) me while I (19. am speaking / speak) with clients online.

Ali: And our chatline (20. opens / is opening) at 8 a.m., but Faisal never (21. arrives / is arriving) at work on time.

Presenter: So in general, (22. do you have / are you having) any advice for others who (23. are thinking / think) about starting a joint venture?

Faisal: Sure. It (24. appears / is appearing) to be an easy solution, but it (25. requires / is requiring) a great deal of trust and understanding.

Ali: Right! But if you've got that, it (26. is / is being) definitely better than going it alone.

H READING

Three students from different parts of the world were asked about their goals and dreams. Read about each student. Then complete the chart below.

Ali, 17, Saudi Arabia

My goal is to go to the United States to study to become a doctor. I am in my third year of high school in Jeddah right now. I study very hard so that I can get excellent grades in school. If I want to study in the U.S., I will need to speak English. I study English at school, and while I'm at home I read books and watch documentaries in English, too. I am going to apply for a scholarship program so that I can go to a university in the U.S. for a bachelor's degree. While I'm studying in the U.S., I will visit different medical schools to meet some of the professors. I will need to get top grades so that I can get accepted into a program. After I get my degree, I can become a medical doctor in orthopedics.

Yusef, 15, Somalia

My dream is to play on the Somali National Basketball Team. Right now I am the best basketball player in my school. We don't have a lot of money, so the court is just made of dirt. I'm used to playing on the dirt court with no shoes. I have a job watching a man's sheep for him. I save all the money I make. When I have enough, I will buy a pair of basketball shoes. Then I will travel to Mogadishu, the capital of Somalia. I will try out for a traveling team called the Somali Youth Basketball League. If I play well on that team, I can get a scholarship to play basketball at a university. This will hopefully lead to a position on the national basketball team.

Eun, 13, Korea

My goal is to become a world-famous football player. I have been playing football since I was three years old. I used to watch my older brothers play in the street with their friends, and then I would try to imitate them with my small plastic ball. Now I have training sessions three times a week. I am fortunate to have one of the best football coaches in Seoul as my instructor. I practice and run for at least three hours every day. My friends think I'm crazy, but I tell them this is the only way to become world-famous. I also play basketball with my cousin. When I am 14, I will try to join the Seoul Junior Football League. This will help me improve my skills and get a scholarship to the National Sports Academy. After that, I will try out for the national football team and participate in international championship games.

Write each student's goal and the steps the student will take to achieve that goal.

When I was five, I wanted to be a (1) _____. I had watched the fire department put out a (2) _____ fire in a store, and I was very impressed; I wanted nothing else for about a year or so. That was when I was given my red fire engine and a firefighter's costume and tools. Fortunately, all the fires I (3) _____ were make-believe!

Between the ages of six and eight, I kept changing my dream for the future from becoming a firefighter, to becoming a farmer, then a pilot, then a firefighter again, and so on. But when I was nine, I became really (4) _____ with the idea of becoming an astronaut and a space scientist. I had seen some (5) _____ photos of stars and astronauts in a capsule in a colorful children's encyclopedia and could think of nothing else. For the next few years, I collected newspaper and magazine clippings, photos, spaceship replicas, and all kinds of other mementos and souvenirs that I could (6) _____.

So, when I finally decided to study (7) _____ at the age of 17, my family and friends were really surprised. They had all thought that if not space, at least the sky would (8) _____, and I would probably become a pilot or flight mechanic, or some other related profession. This change was quite unexpected and not altogether (9) _____. They tried to find out if my (10) _____ had been prompted by discouraging or unkind comments, if I had lost my confidence, or if anyone had scared me off. It took some time to convince them that I had actually (11) _____ on my own, and that industrial design was what I had been researching and finding out about for at least two years.

I am now a successful designer, and I have managed to earn some (12) _____ for innovative ideas and designs. I am committed to my work and get a lot of satisfaction out of it. One of the reasons I like it so much is that I can keep on learning, observing, developing new ideas, and discovering new materials. This, naturally, means that I can keep on setting new goals and challenges for the rest of my life; my most recent goal!

Extraordinary Visions of the Future

One of the famous people in history who had a great vision of the future was Leonardo da Vinci. Leonardo described and sketched ideas for many modern inventions hundreds of years ahead of their time. Very few of these were ever built and tested during his lifetime. Several of his notes suggest that he wished to organize and publish his ideas; unfortunately, he died before he could achieve this important goal. After his death, many of his notebooks were hidden or lost, although there are still records of some of his most extraordinary inventions. Here are four examples:

Parachutes for skydiving

The first reported successful parachute jump was made from the top of a tower in France in 1783. Leonardo da Vinci had sketched a design for a parachute in 1485. He included notes around his sketch about the size requirements of a parachute that would allow a person to fall safely from a great height.

Helicopter

The first helicopter that could carry a person was designed and flown by Paul Cornu in 1907. Leonardo da Vinci was fascinated by flying machines. One of the sketches of his flying machines resembles a helicopter in its operating principles. It has a rotating airscrew. According to Leonardo's notes, this helicopter was meant to fly rapidly by unwinding a wound-up string attached to the airscrew.

Aircraft landing gear

The first airplane with retractable landing gear was built in 1933. Landing gear enables the plane to move faster, avoiding resistance from the flow of air around the plane. Leonardo da Vinci had imagined the need for retractable landing gear more than five hundred years ago. A couple of his sketches of flying machines show this equipment.

Scuba diving equipment

Jacques-Yves Cousteau and Émile Gagnan invented the compressed air tank in 1943. Centuries before, Leonardo had made some sketches which show men in diving suits with long hoses coming out of them and leading to the surface. There is also one sketch that looks as if one of the divers has something like a gas tank attached to his chest.

true Leonardo da Vinci lived about 500 years ago.

1. _____ Leonardo published a book with his ideas for inventions.
2. _____ Some of Leonardo's notebooks were lost.
3. _____ The first parachute was used in Italy.
4. _____ Leonardo flew the first helicopter.
5. _____ The first airplane landing gear was used in 1907.
6. _____ The compressed air tank is used in scuba diving.

The World of Manga

Manga are comics that were created in Japan in the late 19th century. Japanese people use the word to refer to cartoons, comics, or animation. Among English speakers, however, it is used to refer to Japanese comics along with the word anime, for animated cartoons. The comics cover a wide range of genres such as action, adventure, science fiction, mystery, thrillers, drama, sports and games, and so on. They are normally printed in black and white, although some are printed in full color. Many manga stories are translated into other languages, mainly English.

The stories are often published in large manga magazines. Each story is presented in a single episode that continues in the next issue. Successful stories may also be republished in hardback or paperback books. Popular manga series are sometimes animated after the story has been completed or as it develops in single episodes. Some manga comics are based on animated or live-action films.

Modern manga follows two broad trends. One trend focuses on events between 1945 and 1952 and incorporates cultural influences from American cartoons, TV films, images, and themes. The other trend stresses Japanese culture and art. Manga artists such as Osamu Tezuka created heroes that became popular in Japan and elsewhere in the world around the same period. Tezuka created Astro Boy, who is still a very popular, well-known character. The science fiction series is set in a futuristic world where robots co-exist with humans. Tezuka's visually dynamic style simulated slow and fast motion as well as details along the lines of cinematography.

The influence of manga on international comics has grown considerably over the last three decades. Manga has become an important part of the Japanese publishing industry and gained a significant readership in the U.S., Canada, Europe, and the Middle East. Artistic styles and characters of both genders have evolved to satisfy a wider range of genres, including realistic representations of life or fiction.

Homework – What is it for?

Then again, there were students who obviously had lots of help from parents or teachers at home and always brought their immaculately written homework but could not perform in class. They often had similar grades to the student I mentioned earlier.

Thinking back, I realize that it all had to do with the amount of homework, and the way it was set by the teacher. When the teacher took the time to explain what we had to do and even allowed us to produce examples and ask questions, I was more willing to do it when I went home. When, on the other hand, homework was set in a hurry, I went home feeling confused, not certain about what was required, dreaming up a number of excuses to avoid doing it.

Finally, homework does not need to be tedious. It can be interesting and challenging and foster learning as much or as little as any activity in and out of class. It is the learning and content that needs to be focused on over and beyond the amount and presentation. At least that's what I think...

I can appreciate the fact that homework needs to be set to help learners consolidate what they have done in class, but is it more important than anything else that someone does as a student? I quickly realized that if I wanted to be on good terms with teachers, I had to do my homework and stuck to that throughout my school years. However, I couldn't help thinking about the difference it made when homework was set in a way that encouraged us to think, search and find information, or express ourselves in a creative manner. I also remembered how appreciative we all were when homework did not require endless pages of writing for no obvious reason.

I have often wondered about the purpose of homework while I was at school. I sometimes felt that homework was set to keep us busy or keep us in line. I also thought it was a kind of test or form of punishment. Then again, there were times that I enjoyed it!

A lot of people think that students who do their homework learn and the rest don't. I remember a classmate of mine who was a really fast learner and was always interested in finding out about things, but she was dismal with homework. She would do part of it, or none at all, or do the wrong thing. As a result, her marks did not reflect her real abilities, but instead showed her inability to do homework.

Global Marketing Mishaps

Brand names and slogans are extremely compact communication tools. They represent a great deal of information, and evoke memories, feelings, and expectations, which in turn influence buyers' decisions. A brand name is the heart of any product, and a slogan creates a direct and perhaps unconscious association with a product. This is why companies have to be very careful about the brand names and slogans they choose for their products, and extra careful when these products are offered in the international market.

A name for a product can be perfect in one language and catastrophic in another. There are many stories about advertising and marketing blunders involving words that just did not translate or had a different meaning. For example, General Motors had to rename its car, the Chevy Nova, in Spanish-speaking countries because Nova can be understood as no va which means "It doesn't go." No automobile company would ever want that!

But English translation mistakes aren't limited to Spain and Latin America. When Pepsi translated their slogan "Come alive with the Pepsi generation" into Chinese, it was incorrectly translated as "Pepsi brings your ancestors back from the dead." And Kentucky Fried Chicken's slogan "Finger-Lickin' Good" was translated into Chinese as "Eat Your Fingers Off."

These stories serve as cautionary tales for advertising students and/or professionals. It's always advisable to check what your slogan or brand name means and implies in the countries where the product will be sold, or you could end up making your brand a laughing stock.

Answer true or false.

1. _____ Brand names and slogans translate easily from one language to another.
2. _____ Brand names and slogans can influence buyers' decisions.
3. _____ Nova was a good name for a car in Spanish.
4. _____ There have been blunders in advertising when translating English into Chinese as well as Spanish.
5. _____ It pays to do research when translating advertising slogans from one language to another.

Write definitions for these words and phrases from the text.

6. evoke: _____
7. catastrophic: _____
8. blunders: _____
9. cautionary tales: _____
10. a laughing stock: _____

Read the article and answer the questions.

The Environmental Divide

Concern for the environment has been a controversial issue from the start. When companies and industries were monitored and assessed to determine the amount of waste that they disposed of and the impact of that waste on the environment three decades ago, there were a lot of skeptics who regarded it as a ploy to promote a new industry, that of waste management.

In actual fact, a number of organizations with foresight jumped in to secure a piece of the waste management market. Bonuses and tax deductions were offered as an incentive for industries to upgrade their production procedures and equipment, in favor of environmentally friendly alternatives or at least alternatives that reduced harm to the environment.

Scientists had been setting out alarms and advising people to reduce the levels of waste accumulated on Earth as they could foresee future consequences. Yet, few responded.

Environmentalists attempted to prevent some of the destruction of natural habitat that would impact the lives of humans and other living organisms on Earth, but they were initially greeted with suspicion and on occasion with outright contempt.

The controversy continues uninterrupted. Even today, with all the belated discussions and summits to control global warming, people are divided on the issue. There are those that attribute most environmental changes to the natural evolutionary process of our planet and quote the ice age or the extinction of the dinosaurs as evidence of the changes that take place irrespective of humans and human intervention.

At the other end, stand those who regard Earth as their home and would like to maintain it as best they can by removing all toxic and destructive factors. They are the ones who refer to the destruction of the rain forests as one of the major crimes committed and substantiate it convincingly through the climatic changes, the depletion of oxygen, and holes in the ozone layer.

To this day, there does not seem to be a uniform standpoint on the issue despite attempts by international organizations to mobilize countries and individuals in a uniform effort to preserve the environment.

1. What are the two opposing views on the environment?

2. Who are these views represented by?

3. What is one of the main arguments used by those opposed to the environmentalist view?

4. What do environmentalists juxtapose as an argument?

5. What is your view on this issue? Please give reasons.

I READING

Read the advice column from a newspaper. Then answer true or false.

Dear Advisor,

I've been having a lot of problems in my math class, and I don't know what to do. Every day we check our homework and I usually only get half of it right. It's so depressing that I usually just throw away my assignments after class. I also failed the last two tests. I think my teacher hates me. He has tried to get me to stay after school so he can go over the homework with me, but I always tell him I'm too busy. He probably just wants to tell me that I'm not good at math, and I already know that! My father is an engineer and he's really good at math. He expects me to do really well in all my classes, but especially math. He doesn't know that I'm failing. We have our final exam next week, and I am not ready for it at all. I am probably going to fail it, too. How will I ever tell my dad?

Sincerely,

Math Problem Student

Dear Math Problem Student,

I'm sorry to hear about all of the problems you have been having in your math class. I think that you need to start learning from your mistakes and applying that learning to future situations, such as the final exam you have next week. You should not throw away your old homework and exams because they can help you study for future exams.

The first thing you should do is carefully look through all of your old exams. You said you get about half of the questions right. That's great. First, look at those questions. Put them into categories by question type. What did you do correctly? Then look at the questions you missed. Put them into categories, too. Are there some areas that you are having more problems with than others? Study those areas. What can you do differently on the next test?

You should accept your teacher's offer to go over the homework with you. I'm sure he doesn't just want to tell you that you aren't good at math. He probably wants to help you understand the questions that you are having trouble with. I also think it's time for you to talk to your dad and tell him you're having problems in your math class. Maybe he can help you study at home, especially since he's good at math. Most parents will be more supportive if they can see that you are trying hard and taking the work seriously.

Remember that if it wasn't for mistakes, we would never have to learn anything.

Good luck on the final exam!

Clive: Is that Brian on the cover of that scientific journal?
Keith: Yeah, it is! You haven't seen it yet?
Clive: No! It totally (1) _____! How did he get on the cover?
Keith: Actually, it was a (2) _____. He was at a New Inventors' Convention and got seated next to one of the board members who is a kind of talent scout, you know, looking for promising young scientists and inventors. Anyway, he'd attended Brian's poster presentation at a school competition last year and thought he had a lot of potential, so he asked him if he wanted to write an article and have his photo taken for the journal.
Clive: (3) _____! What are the (4) _____ of that?
Keith: I know! It's amazing!
Clive: He must be (5) _____! That's so exciting!
Keith: I know! And the best part is that he has been a subscriber for as long as he can remember and had been dreaming of his face on the cover, but didn't think it would ever happen.
Clive: And this board member wanted Brian's photo on the cover?
Keith: Well, at first it was (6) _____, but he definitely wanted the article and a small photo of him to use with the article. But then, they decided to put him on the cover!
Clive: That's great! I'm going to call him to congratulate him!

Read the text. Then answer the questions below.

Déjà vu

The term déjà vu comes from French and literally means already seen. It's a feeling that people have of previously experiencing something that they couldn't have experienced before, a feeling of an overwhelming sense of familiarity with an unknown place or experience. We have all had the experience of déjà vu at one time or another. For example, when we meet people for the first time and feel that we have already met, or we have a strong sense of recollection of having said something or done something when we are actually saying or doing it for the first time. Even when we travel to faraway places for the first time, we may have the feeling that we have already been there, sometimes wearing exactly the same clothes and being with the same people.

The déjà vu experience is very common. The percentage of the world's population that reports having experienced it is as high as 70 percent. The high rate of the occurrence has triggered great interest in this phenomenon.

There are many different theories from psychoanalysis and psychiatry that try to explain déjà vu. Some experts believe déjà vu to be the expression of a simple fantasy or wanting to fulfill a wish. Others have offered a more scientific explanation, claiming it to be a mismatching in the brain that causes it to mistake the present for the past.

A phenomenon that is the direct opposite of déjà vu, jamais vu, a French term meaning "never seen before," also occurs frequently. This is explained as a disorder in memory that creates the illusion that what should actually be very familiar is being encountered for the first time.

Much research is already being done into déjà vu, but more needs to be done before it can be considered as something other than a mysterious phenomenon.

What are two theories mentioned in the text that have been offered to explain déjà vu?

2. _____

It was  such a sunny day in June; an ideal day to spend on the beach. As it was a day off work, we decided to set out early in order to beat the traffic. As it turned out, we should not have bothered. There were (1) _____ cars on the road that the bumper to bumper, snake-line traffic was hardly moving.

Having only had an apple for breakfast, I started feeling (2) _____ hungry that I had trouble focusing on the road. I kept hoping that someone would suggest that we stop and have some of the sandwiches we had packed. Eventually, someone started handing out sandwiches. My relief was short-lived; the sandwiches were (3) _____ warm and soggy they were almost inedible. When I reached for a bottle of water that we had packed in the icebox, it was almost as warm as the sandwiches. Our trip to the beach was turning into (4) _____ a disaster; we all looked hot and miserable. Things did not change much as we went on, very slowly!

We tried to turn into a side road to get out of the traffic and got trapped between a bus and a truck. It was (5) _____ close; we could not see anything but cars all around. We reached the beach almost three hours later. There were (6) _____ spots left to sit that we realized we would have to stand if we wanted to stick together.

We had wanted to spend a day on the beach (7) _____ that we had gotten up at the crack of dawn, prepared and packed food, loaded the car with all kinds of stuff, and put up with three hours on the road. We marched back to the car without saying a word. The drive home was uneventful. Getting back to an air-conditioned home was (8) _____ a relief. We all gathered in the living room, glasses of ice-cold fruit juice in our hands. We were (9) _____ pleased with ourselves. We felt that we had beaten the odds, having gotten to the beach and back in one piece! And it had taken (10) _____ time to give it all up and come back. Imagining the mass return of the crowds later was too painful to dwell on!

Some friends of mine live in Alaska. They told me this story. My friends were really surprised last Tuesday afternoon. They were playing football after school when a moose walked across the football field! They stopped and stared. My friends were going to follow the moose when the moose suddenly stopped. It stared at them and then it walked across the park! Some adults and children were picking up litter. They, too, stopped and stared. They followed the moose. When the moose crossed the street, some children were sitting in a school bus. They got out and followed the moose. Then the moose walked in front of a police car. The police officer was talking on his phone when he saw the moose. He was going to call the station for backup when the moose started moving again and walked to the bakery. It stood there and sniffed the air. Everyone thought the moose was hungry and wanted some bread. The entire town stopped and was watching the moose. People asked: "What can we do to help the moose? We need to get it back to the forest." Someone had an idea! Soon after, the moose was walking out of town following the bread truck!

Answer the questions.

1. What were the writer's friends going to do when they saw the moose?

I READING

Read the article about anorexia and bulimia.

Anorexia and Bulimia

People are usually careful about what they eat and concerned about keeping fit. Everyone wants to stay healthy and feel good. Controlling your weight is an important part of keeping healthy, since being overweight increases the risk of high blood pressure, high cholesterol, and diabetes. However, an exaggerated preoccupation with weight control can lead to an eating disorder. An eating disorder is an abnormal relationship with food that can result in dieting compulsively or overeating. Two of the most serious eating disorders are anorexia nervosa and bulimia.

The symptoms of anorexia nervosa are severe food restriction and excessive weight loss due to body image distortion and an obsessive fear of gaining weight. People who have anorexia nervosa continue to voluntarily starve themselves and exercise excessively even after reaching below ideal weight, believing they are still much too fat. In some cases, anorexics, or people who suffer from anorexia nervosa, can actually starve to death. Bulimia, another serious eating disorder, often begins with a very strict diet that leaves the dieter feeling starved, depressed, and deprived. These dieters develop very strong cravings which lead them to eat enormous amounts of high-calorie foods. To prevent weight gain from these binges, the dieter induces vomiting.

Most eating disorder victims are young women aged twelve to thirty, although both men and women of all ages can be affected. There is no clear single cause for eating disorders, though current research attributes it to factors such as genetics or family history; psychological factors, such as a tendency towards depression or obsessive-compulsive behaviors; and social and environmental factors, such as Western society's concept of beauty and the media. In fact, people who are involved in professions that have a high social pressure to be thin have been found to be at higher risk for developing an eating disorder at some point during their career.

Throughout the years, there have been many famous people who have suffered from both anorexia nervosa and bulimia. Some women actually died from complications due to their eating disorders. Others were able to get help before their illnesses consumed them, and now speak out about their own battles to encourage people who suffer from similar afflictions to get help before it's too late. Since both anorexia nervosa and bulimia are considered psychiatric illnesses, people with eating disorders usually need professional help to overcome their distorted body perception and compulsive behaviors. Family therapy is often helpful if the victim is young.

Read the newspaper editorial. Then answer true or false.

Letter to the Editor

Daniel Waterman gives his opinion about tabloid newspapers.

Dear Editor,

I enjoyed reading the article you featured last week about tabloid newspapers. I firmly believe tabloid newspapers these days go too far. One of the things people hold most dear is their privacy. The right to keep what only concerns you to yourself is fundamental. The rest of the world has no right to know things, such as who your friends are, how much money you make and how you spend it, what you do in your free time, or who you had an argument with.

Tabloids print stories like these about celebrities all the time. Do we have the right to know these things about them? Should celebrities' lives be completely exposed just because they are famous? Is it somehow OK because tabloids can make a lot of money selling these stories? The answer is a definitive no. How would you feel if a picture of you and a friend having an argument was taken without your consent and then printed for the whole world to see and judge your actions? I doubt you would enjoy that very much. You might even think about suing the paper. I believe that's what celebrities should do—sue tabloids that invade their privacy.

Ruling on these cases is no easy task, though. The problem is knowing when someone's privacy is being invaded and when it isn't, especially when some celebrities seem to chase publicity, not avoid it. One way of making that decision is to think in terms of what readers have the right to know. I have the right to know what directly affects me and the community I live in. I don't need to know, nor do I have the right to know, where some people traveled or which person has an eating disorder. That's none of my business.

It's not that I think tabloids should stop being published altogether, but some changes must be made. What I do think needs to be done is two-fold: First, tabloid publishers and editors need to take responsibility for what they sell. They should make sure that what they print is, in fact, true and that it really concerns their readers, or be prepared to suffer the consequences. Second, I truly believe that we, the public, need to be more discriminating. We must stop buying tabloid trash out of respect for our fellow human beings' right to privacy.

1. _____ Daniel believes people don't care much about their privacy.
2. _____ Ruling on when someone's privacy has been invaded is easy to do.
3. _____ Not all celebrities have the same attitude towards publicity.
4. _____ Daniel thinks he doesn't have the right to know what is happening in his community.
5. _____ Daniel thinks the public as a whole should be more discerning.
6. _____ Daniel thinks tabloids should no longer be published.

I READING

Read the article. Then choose the correct answers below.

English as a Lingua Franca

Many people believe the world is in need of a lingua franca, or a language which people can use to communicate around the world. In recent years, English has rapidly taken on this role, as it has become one of the most widely spoken languages in the world. Over 300 million people speak English as their native language. There are at least 300 million more who use English as their second or third language and another 100 million who have learned it as a foreign language.

English is listed as the official or co-official language in over 45 countries. It is also spoken extensively in other countries where it has no official status. The countries where the majority of people speak English as a native language are Antigua, Australia, the Bahamas, Barbados, Belize, Bermuda, Canada, Dominica, Grenada, Guyana, Ireland, Jamaica, New Zealand, St. Christopher and Nevis, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, South Africa, Trinidad and Tobago, the United Kingdom, and the United States.

Interestingly, despite the fact that the United States has one of the largest English-speaking populations in the world, it doesn't have English as its official language. In fact, there has been a heated debate over this issue. Whereas many people think that the United States should have an official language which unites its people, many oppose the idea, arguing that having one official language would go against the First Amendment of the American Constitution which guarantees freedom of speech.

English is recognized worldwide as the international language of communication. People in China, for example, study English not only to communicate with people living in English-speaking countries, but also to be able to talk to speakers of other languages, such as Portuguese, Spanish, Korean, etc., and vice versa.

English is also the language of science, aviation, computing, diplomacy, and tourism. A pilot from anywhere in the world must be able to speak English in order to communicate with international control towers. Additionally, any computer professional must at least be able to understand written English to operate any kind of computer hardware and software.

Over the last fifty years, the English language has indeed become the world's lingua franca, or in other words, the language that is accepted by the world population as its international vehicle for communication.

1. A lingua franca is _____.
 - a. a language
 - b. a country
 - c. a culture
2. According to the article, there are more than _____ million people worldwide that speak English.

N Read the extract about Machine Translation technology (MT). Make some predictions of your own based on the information. Use future progressive, will or going to in your answers.

The speech recognition application ‘Skype Translator,’ is a piece of compatible software which is able to translate video conversations into 70 different languages in real time! This technology heralds a new era of international communication and makes the need to learn the lingua franca—or the common international language— a thing of the past. By the end of this year, our prediction is that everyone across the globe will no longer be learning foreign languages; they will be using MT (Machine Translation) instead.

Apart from speech recognition software, another cutting edge piece of software up for grabs is the visual translation app. This is an application which enables you to see the world in your own language—literally! By downloading the app to your smartphone, you simply point the camera at the printed text you want translated into your own language, such as a menu, and the video camera will instantly translate it! It’s true that such a translation can be unreliable and sometimes a bit strange, but in as little as two years, we predict that the visual translation app will have been picked up by computer giants, developed and merged with wearable technology. If this happens, everyone will soon be able to purchase affordable eyewear that will be able to instantly and effectively translate whatever it is that you are looking at.

With such translation technology just around the corner, can you imagine the possibilities that exist for the future? Language learning, education, work and travel will be completely revolutionized ...

Machine Translation technology will enable everyone to communicate with each other without having to know another foreign language.

Fatima: Oh, (2) _____! That would make me mad, too! Did she retrace her steps? She should really look everywhere she can think of.

Maya: She was looking for over an hour, and she couldn't find it anywhere. It's like it (3) _____. We can't think of anywhere else to look.

Fatima: That's so disappointing! She must be feeling (4) _____.

Maya: It's just (5) _____ at her. She feels like she should remember where it is, but just can't find it. It's really irritating her.

Fatima: Well, that's too bad. And her parents are probably going to (6) _____ when she asks them to buy her a new one.

Maya: That's true! That'll probably make her feel even worse!

The Mysterious Explosion at Tunguska

In the early morning of June 30, 1908, an extremely bright object zoomed through the atmosphere above Siberia. Passengers on a train saw the flaming object—like a tower of fire—fly above them at an incredible speed. It was possibly flying at about one and a half kilometers per second, and it caused a sonic boom that shook the train, the tracks, and everything in the nearby surroundings.

Almost 565 kilometers to the north, people felt the ground shake violently as they saw what appeared to be the sun flying across the sky. The temperature became unbearably hot. They heard sounds like thunder, though there were no visible clouds. About 240 kilometers farther north, in the Tunguska valley in Siberia, the object exploded about eight kilometers above the ground setting fire to the forest and destroying trees, animals, and everything else around it. The blast was heard 1,207 kilometers away. Halfway around the world, seismographs registered the explosion as if it were a massive earthquake.

Later that day, a black rain began to fall in the Tunguska valley. In the following days, people all over Europe began reporting that the sky had a strange luminosity at night, and it was even possible to read or to take pictures without flash at four in the morning. The sunset had unusual colors.

It wasn't until almost 20 years later that someone decided to investigate. The area was sparsely populated and difficult to access, and the political situation at the time was complicated. It wasn't until February of 1927 that the first daring expedition arrived in the area. Mineralogist Leonid Kulik went to look for the strange object which had impacted Siberia. He had read newspaper accounts of the explosion, and he speculated that it must have been caused by a meteorite.

When he finally reached the site of the mysterious explosion, Kulik was amazed. Twenty years later the signs of devastation were still very clear. There were large areas of forest where everything had been destroyed and where new trees were beginning to grow again. He saw evidence of giant trees broken as if they had been matchsticks. It is estimated that the explosion knocked down around 80 million trees in an area ranging over 1,940 square kilometers.

Later studies by geochemists found dust that was of extraterrestrial origin, but there was no evidence of a crater—meaning that it exploded in the air. Scientists have calculated that the force of the explosion was the equivalent of three to five megatons of TNT. This is a greater force than an atomic bomb! If the explosion had occurred over a city, it could have caused tremendous damage, but in the forest, the only victims were trees and animals.

Scientists have speculated that the explosion was caused by a comet exploding over Earth, or perhaps a meteorite or an asteroid. Whatever the truth may be, over 100 years later people still continue to write and comment about it on Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, and other social media.

- _____ The article is about a mysterious event that happened in 1908.
- _____ People heard the explosion 565 kilometers away.
- _____ The explosion occurred in the air.
- _____ An expedition was sent to investigate shortly after the explosion.

The History of Airbags

Highly unconventional tests and hundreds of crashes were carried out to help gain knowledge that could make the device safe. One of their primary concerns was stopping the airbag from deploying unintentionally—a horror scenario that would fuel further resistance and, more importantly, put people at risk. Yet more test cars were used in varied conditions and circumstances for years before the airbag was launched. Initially, cars were fitted with a front-passenger airbag in the late 1980s. A driver's airbag was introduced as a standard feature in 1992. Finally, the sidebag was added in 1995.

Over the years, airbags, as many other automotive features, have become a lot more sophisticated and deploy electronic systems that regulate the degree to which bags are inflated, depending on the severity of the impact. In addition, the function of bags can be adjusted to the size of the passenger, making them even more appealing to families with children. In other words, airbags seem to be following the trend alongside other devices and machines and are becoming personalized to suit individual requirements.

The invention had been patented as early as 1953, but ignored, the main reason being that the technology required did not yet exist. Automotive engineers rose to the challenge and started their explosive experiments in an attempt to overcome technical hurdles.

The windowbag was the next milestone in the airbag history, achieved in 1998. This bag inflates across the side windows in the event of a side impact and forms a large curtain that protects the heads of both the front and the rear occupants.

As in all such cases, the airbag became the subject of ongoing dispute at the start. When a fatal accident involving an airbag occurred in the USA in 1974, it fuelled more opposition and caused many to desert the project. The German mechanics were not put off the idea. They were determined to overcome hitches and demonstrate the potential of the airbag as a life-saving device; so they went ahead and developed it aiming at a global market.

A large area was cordoned off with engineers crouching behind thick walls, when there was a loud bang and shreds of fabric and plastic flew everywhere. The engineers had just completed another stage of testing in the development of the car airbag. This was how the idea of the airbag was developed in 1967, prompted by the increasing number of accidents and new laws that required protection systems for car drivers and passengers.

Writing Skills 1

Expressing Your Opinion

When giving your opinion, either orally or in writing, it is important to clarify whether the opinion that you are expressing is your own or one that is generally accepted.

Personal opinion	General opinion
I think that...	Most people know/think that...
In my opinion,...	Everyone knows that...
From my point of view,...	It is thought/believed/well known that...
As far as I'm concerned,...	Most people support/oppose the...
I strongly believe that...

A. Choose the most appropriate beginning for each sentence.

- (In my opinion / Most people know that) people today are too obsessed with earning money. They should try and enjoy life more.
- (As far as I'm concerned / It is thought that) global warming will cause the polar ice caps to melt.
- (Everyone knows that / I think that) governments of richer countries should give money to poorer countries.
- (From my point of view, / It is thought that) medical care should be free for everybody.

B. Use the prompts to express opinions about the world today.

- I think that _____.
- It is believed that _____.
- Most people support the idea of _____.
- As far as I'm concerned, _____.
- Most people think that _____.

When expressing your opinion in a debate, it is important not to make your statements so general that they are not true. For example, the statement Everybody loves to eat junk food can be easily argued with. However, the statement Almost everybody loves to eat junk food is much more difficult to argue with.

When expressing your opinion in a debate:

- Avoid words like never, always, all, none. Use words like often, hardly ever, many, very few, etc.
No Few teenagers like school.
- Try using modal verbs to qualify the verb.
There ~~will~~ may never be peace in the world.

C. Modify the following sentences to be less extreme.

- It never rains in the desert.
- There must be life on other planets.
- It is impossible to find a cure for cancer.
- All factories pollute the environment.

Writing Skills 2

Rewriting

English is a very versatile language. By choosing vocabulary and structures carefully, you can often write the same idea in several ways. For example:

There are not enough homes in modern cities for the people who live there.

There is a shortage of homes in modern cities for the people who live there.

Modern cities do not have enough homes for the people who live there.

The number of homes in modern cities is insufficient for the people who live there.

Another way to improve your writing is to avoid constantly using the same word by using synonyms.

A. Complete the sentences so that the second sentence has a similar meaning to the first. Use the words in parentheses.

1. a. There will be an exam in biology on Monday.

b. The students _____ in biology on Monday. (tested)

2. a. Computers have caused major changes in the way people work and study.

b. Computers _____ work and study practices. (revolutionized)

3. a. Not many people like to drink coffee at night.

b. Drinking coffee _____. (unpopular)

4. a. It was the first time the children had seen snow.

b. The children _____. (never)

5. a. Many people think that Venice is the most charming city in the world.

b. Venice _____ one of the most charming cities in the world. (considered)

B. Read the paragraph. Then rewrite the paragraph, replacing the underlined words with synonyms from the box.

greeted	grin	noticed	peered	portrait	rang
roses	scarlet	silent	stepped	the ocean	wandered

Anne arrived at the house and walked (1. _____) through the gate into the garden that smelled of flowers (2. _____). The sound of water (3. _____) reached her ears from somewhere out of sight. She walked (4. _____) up the path to the red (5. _____) door and pressed (6. _____) the doorbell. After a few moments, she saw (7. _____) someone behind the glass of the door, and it swung open to show her grandmother. Her grandmother looked (8. _____) at her for a few moments, and then her face relaxed into a smile (9. _____). Anne said hello to (10. _____) her grandmother and stepped into the warmth of the hallway. The door closed behind her, shutting her into the quiet (11. _____) atmosphere of the old house. She looked around the once familiar walls and saw that the picture (12. _____) of her grandfather was missing, nor was there any sign of him in the house.

Editing Finished Work

Good writers know that a piece of work isn't finished until it has been checked for errors. This is especially important when writing in a foreign language. It's a good idea to take a break before checking your work so that you can look at it with fresh eyes. Read the following checklist for editing finished work.

Audience	Is the work appropriate for the intended audience? Have you written a formal piece for an informal situation or vice versa? Will the reader understand what you are trying to communicate?
Extra words	Have you included any extra words by mistake? Common examples include: articles, prepositions, personal pronouns, etc.
Missing words	Are there any words missing? Common examples include: articles, auxiliary verbs, prepositions, personal pronouns, etc.
Grammar	Is the grammar correct? A common example of a grammar mistake is forgetting the third person -s on present simple verbs.
Tenses	Have you used the correct tenses? Make sure that you are consistent with your tense usage and don't change tense in the middle of a sentence.
Punctuation	Punctuation is a very important feature of written English, often dictating meaning. Make sure that your work is punctuated correctly according to English rules.
Spelling	Many people have problems with English spelling, but most problems can be avoided by being careful. If you're not sure of a word, look it up in a dictionary!

A. Correct the errors in the sentences.

1. My father is a journalist for seven years.
2. My parents was born in 1970 and got married in 1992.
3. I like Amy and Carol, but I really can't stand there pets.
4. The doorbell rang when Mindy talked to her friend on the phone.
5. I had a terrible day at work yesterday. My computer crashed and I lose all my work.
6. I think that the athletes should set a better example for young people.
7. Although cell phones have changed our lives forever, not everybody like using them.

B. Add capitalization and punctuation to the sentences.

1. mike turned to kevin and asked will you help me
2. suddenly the children ran to the door their father was home from his business trip
3. what do you think people should do to help decrease poverty in developing nations
4. sam doesnt like school very much but he does enjoy his english class
5. frank asked if he wanted time to think about it before he made his decision
6. my favorite book of all time is oliver twist by charles dickens.
7. in spite of all the bad reviews I still enjoyed the restaurant.

Writing Skills 4

Writing an Account or Newspaper Article

Although most of us know what we want to say when we start writing, it is often easy to forget while in the process of writing, which can cause the work to lack structure and make it difficult for the reader to understand. Plan briefly first, so that you can check your progress as you write. Follow the guidelines below to help you.

1. Decide what information you need to convey to the reader. Ask yourself the questions Who? Why? What? Where? When? How? to come up with most of the information you need to include.
2. Write a brief plan like the one below, explaining what you will include in each paragraph. This will also help you decide how many paragraphs you need to include.
3. When you finish, check the work against the plan to make sure you've included everything. Try and read the piece as if you were someone else. Does it include all the information you need to provide?

A. Read the text that follows the plan and reorder the paragraphs so that they match the plan.

1. Introduction, mystery finally solved
2. Background history of the case, search, police and residents' reaction

3. How the case was solved
4. The men's reaction, what they've been doing, employers' reaction

- a. However, two days ago, police received a phone call from their colleagues in New York saying that there was a man in their precinct who claimed to know what had happened to the two men. An agent flew up to New York to interview the man who had seen the case of the escaped convicts on a popular TV program on unsolved crimes, and had immediately recognized one of the men as his next-door neighbor and the other man as his next-door neighbor's cousin. He said that he'd never realized who they were before, because both men had changed their names as well as the color of their hair and eyes!
- b. The two men were arrested in their new home. They had both been able to find jobs and were planning to get married soon. Confronted with the prospect of spending another twenty years in prison, one of the men had a stroke and was taken to hospital. The other man was driven back to the penitentiary to wait for their final sentencing. Neither man regretted escaping. They had both started new lives and had not committed any unlawful act while out of prison. Their employers have offered to testify as character witnesses and claim that both men have been model workers.
- c. The two run-away convicts were first reported missing in May 2007, when they failed to appear at the door of their cell during morning inspection. Described as two of the most intelligent and dangerous criminals, the two men caused an enormous stir in the media. A national manhunt was launched in an effort to locate and apprehend the two escapees. Over one hundred thousand residents helped the police search the area and the surrounding desert with no success. Local law enforcement officers and residents eventually resigned themselves to the fact that they would not be able to find the two men.
- d. After years of a nationwide search, it appeared that police had finally located the getaway car and prison uniforms of the detainees that had managed to dig their way out of the high security penitentiary in Phoenix, and a few days later the actual escapees.
