Most people think that education is limited to schools only, but the truth is that there are lessons that we can only learn from life, and they may be more important than those learnt at schools. Life lessons are sometimes painful before they are acquired, and in order to avoid this, we must benefit from the experiences of others. We shouldn't pay too much attention to the trivial things that are not important and waste our time and effort. Since life is so unpredictable, we must not live on expectations only and meet everything new in life with optimism and positive thinking. There is no word more boring and monotonous than the word "I". We must be confident of ourselves, but that does mean we talk about ourselves and our accomplishments all the time, as this supports vanity. Man by nature makes mistakes, so be tolerant and seek excuses for those around you, and if someone comes to you with an apology, do not stop him, and do not carry in your heart any envy of anyone.

Medical technology engineering helps doctors define their tasks and facilitates their work more, so the medical device has become an essential assistant for the doctors in all steps, starting from diagnosis, to the end of the treatment course. The need for development in this field has made designing medical devices a great priority, and this in turn led to the intervention of electrical, mechanical computer engineers and others, whose knowledge does not depend on their specialties only, but rather, they must be familiar with all aspects of human body, from biology, anatomy and physiology. So that the medical devices designed are useful for the human body. Another classification includes three categories. Firstly, we have simple devices such as bandages, body temperature meters and others. There are also more complex devices that require a certain amount of caution, such as those that emit X-rays. Finally, there are those which require a deep study before their use, such as the valves used in the artificial heart, in addition to the artificial joints... Medical engineers work in many fields like wellequipped hospitals and clinics in particular, medical companies and the advanced major research centers in universities.

Vaccinations can be considered one of the most significant and successful medical advancements in modern civilization, parents often question the degree of vaccine safety and effectiveness, and the extent of how researched they are. Parents want to protect their child from harm, but may unknowingly be inflicting more harm by deciding not to vaccinate. Despite many concerns parents have, the benefits of vaccinating significantly outweigh the risks. Vaccinations are a medical procedure that are intended to positively impact the body's immune system. It is considered "preventative medicine," as vaccinations are defined as the "process of rendering people immune, or resistant, to an infectious disease" Specifically, they function through the process of "exposing individuals safely to a germ, such as from a particular virus, so their immune system can produce antibodies to fend off a particular virus" Essentially, our bodies are safely introduced to a low amount of germs from a specific illness for our immune system to fight.

The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), originally known as the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, is responsible for providing humanitarian and developmental aid to children worldwide and it has won the Nobel Prize. the first to be awarded to an organisation. Despite being highly active in fundraising, awareness, relief work and research, very few people know the origin of the organisation. UNICEF is supported entirely by the voluntary contributions of governments, nongovernmental organisations, foundations, corporations and private individuals and receives no funding from the assessed dues of the United Nations. Most of the fundraising is done by UNICEF's 36 national committees, the voluntary support of millions of people around the world, partners in government, civil society and the private sector. UNICEF was created in 1946 and began with a definite mission of providing emergency food and healthcare to children in the countries that had been destroyed by World War II. In 1953, Its original name was changed to the United Nation's Children Fund to reflect its broader mission, but it retained the original acronym, after being officially adopted as a permanent branch of the UN in 1954.

The immune system has a vital role since it protects your body from harmful substances, germs and cell changes that could make you ill. It is made up of various organs, cells and proteins. As long as your immune system is running smoothly, you don't notice that it's there. But if it stops working properly - because it's weak or can't fight particularly aggressive germs - you get ill. Germs that your body has never encountered before are also likely to make you ill. Some germs will only make you ill the first time you come into contact with them. These include childhood diseases like chickenpox. Without an immune system, we would have no way to fight harmful things that enter our body from the outside or harmful changes that occur inside our body. The main tasks of the body's immune system are: to fight disease-causing germs (pathogens) like bacteria, viruses, parasites or fungi, and to remove them from the body and to recognize and neutralize harmful substances from the environment to fight disease-causing changes in the body, such as cancer cells.

Antibiotics have played an essential role in the fight against diseases and infections. They have greatly reduced illnesses and deaths due to diseases. With the introductions of antibiotics in the 1940's, like penicillin into clinical practice, formally deadly illnesses became immediately curable and saved thousands of lives .Antibiotic use has been beneficial and when prescribed and taken correctly their effects on patients are valuable. However, because these drugs have been used so widely and for such a long period of time the bacteria that the antibiotics are designed to kill have adapted. Antibiotics are powerful medications that treat certain infections and can save millions of lives. They either stop bacteria from reproducing or destroy them. The first antibiotic was penicillin. Penicillin-based antibiotics, such as ampicillin, amoxicillin, and penicillin G, are still available to treat a variety of infections and have been in use for many years. Experts advise using antibiotics only when they are Culture shock is an experience people may have when they move to a foreign country with a new cultural environment, which is different from their own. These unfamiliar surroundings can lead to a feeling of being a little bit lost. For example, when a student starts studying abroad, he/she experiences different things in custom, dress and food. There are many symptoms of transition shock including: anger, boredom, extreme homesickness, eating disturbances and excessive critical reactions to host culture. Sometimes the symptoms last just few days, but more often they last weeks or even months. People experiencing culture shock usually move through four stages; they will initially have the honeymoon stage which is characterized by a positive feeling that everything is new and exciting. Then there will be the frustration stage, it may be marked by rejection of the new culture, as well as romanticizing one's home culture. But then, with some time and perhaps help from locals, people will start the adjustment stage and begin to feel more familiar and comfortable with the new environment. Adaption and acceptance is the final stage which contributes to the successful integration.

A good citizen enjoys some rights and privileges as a citizen of a free state. While he has the right to participate in the legal, political, religious and social affairs of the nation, he has also some responsibilities. He must not hurt the feelings of others and must protect the weak from the strong. Being loyal to the nation and the society, under all the circumstances, is his first duty. A good citizen must be ready to sacrifice his life for the sake of his motherland. He must love his nation and be a nationalist. He should have firm and deep faith in his motherland. He should obey the laws of the land. But he must also keep in mind the welfare of the state, the benefit of society and the long term interests of the nation. A good citizen must respect the cultural heritage of his country. He must always keep in mind the future of his country. He must raise the standard of living of his country by working honestly.

- 7. A good citizen has not only some rights but also has some responsibilities.
- 8. Not every citizen has the right to participate in the legal, political, religious and social affairs of the nation
- 9. The first duty of the good citizen is to be loyal to the nation and the society.
- 10.A good citizen must be ready to sacrifice his life for the sake of his family.
- 11. A good citizen must respect the cultural heritage of his country.

Man has built a robot after his/her image. Possibly, that is why human beings have a variety of strong emotions, both negative and positive towards robots. The relative advantage of robots and intelligent machines is accompanied with their ability to play a range of movements and thinking endlessly and tirelessly. When designing robots, it is essential for planners to focus on the robots' ability to follow patterns. Due to this engineering reality, robots are certainly specialised in the first step. Another complicated sort is the generalised robot, which can to some extent imitate humans. In the future, the memory of robots is expected to become very extensive. This will allow huge amounts of data storage, the thing which will be reflected in the robot's ability to fulfil a lot of operational tasks. Consequently, the use of robotics will be expanded. Robots offer people a helping hand to focus on the creative process when relying on such intelligent machines to take care of unpleasant physical and mechanical work. The greatest benefits of robots should mean for people staying away from unhealthy environments, such as mines and deep waters. For many industrial countries, using robots could increase production with low costs.
