Reading 1.1: Read the article and choose the best answer for each item: a, b, c, or d.

Eat Right

² The Japanese are known for having healthy diets and lifestyles. The secret of the Japanese diet is that they eat low calorie foods and control their portion size. They also eat out of small dishes to help them control how much they eat. They eat slowly and try to enjoy their food. This way it gives their brain time to realize that they are full. The Japanese avoid foods like chocolate, potato chips and cookies. Instead, they eat many fruits, vegetables and soups. Culturally, the Japanese love to eat rice all the time, even for breakfast! The Japanese also enjoy fish like salmon and tuna. This means that they eat less red meat which has a lot of fat.

This means that they eat less red meat which has a lot of fat.

³ The Spanish are also known for their healthy diets. They enjoy a diet rich in fruits, vegetables, beans, fish, poultry, olive oil, tomatoes, and dairy. They also eat very little red meat. The Spanish start their day with a small breakfast. Lunch is also normally light. For example, they will eat a sandwich and some salad. When someone wants a snack, he will usually have fruit instead of cake. Dinner is a larger meal, but they do not eat it late. For dinner they usually have pasta with a small portion of fish or meat. For dessert they have fruit. Catalan is one of the regions in Spain. The people there love to eat beans. Beans are healthy, and they fill you up quickly. These diets make the Spanish very healthy people.

⁴ Rabat, in Morocco, is not only a famous tourist destination, it's also known for producing a lot of Mediterranean fruits and vegetables. The people in Morocco use them to cook delicious meals which are usually enjoyed outdoors. In Morocco, people eat a lot of beef and lamb. Morocco lies on both the Mediterranean Sea and the Atlantic Ocean. Because of this, people in Morocco eat a lot of fish, especially pilchards. Salads in Morocco have both raw and cooked vegetables, served either hot or cold. People in Morocco often drink green tea with mint after a meal.

⁵ In Brazil, people eat a lot of beef. Because of the Italian community there, they also eat a lot of pasta and pizza. The farmers in Brazil grow fruit like squash and melons. Brazilians also eat a lot of vegetables. They like to eat tomatoes, onions, lettuce, eggplants, squashes, and zucchini. The different regions in Brazil also enjoy different foods. The central region welcomed a lot of European immigrants. That is why you can find a lot of Italian, Spanish and British food there. The north-western region is influenced by the native Indians. In the large southern region people eat a lot of seafood.

⁶ It is very important to have a healthy diet. People who eat unhealthy food usually have health problems as they get older. It is also important to have some variety in your diet. You shouldn't eat the same foods all the time. You can enjoy different kinds of food from different countries. The most important thing is that you avoid fatty foods and eat a lot of fruits and vegetables. It's fine to love food, but you should try to love healthy food!

¹ Thanks to modern technology, cars today think for us. GPS navigation systems give people directions without looking at a map. Sensors built into cars sound an alarm if drivers get too close to a person or another vehicle. Now, car companies are building driverless cars that will do all of this, and much more. Driverless cars may sound like science fiction. However, they are already on the roads in some places. We would like to hear your opinion about this. Is this a good thing?

James,

² I think it's fantastic! Technology in cars already helps us a lot. By using GPS, sensors, and cameras together, cars park themselves and control drivers when they're about to make a dangerous turn. The sensors in these new cars will sense turns, red lights, stop signs, and other cars. Their computers will use GPS and other data to drive the car to its destination. This will make the roads safer.

- Tesla has already started manufacturing these cars.
- People who disagree are afraid to change.
- This is a really interesting discussion.
- I don't think driverless cars are a good idea.

Question 2 :

According to the blog, which of the following sentences is FALSE?

- Automated cars can anticipate the unexpected like humans can.
- Technology in cars already helps us a lot.

- Also, driverless cars will use less fuel.

³ I agree with you James. I think this is great technology. All you need to do is tell the computer where you want to go and how you want to drive. Select "cautious" and it will obey the speed limit. Or choose "aggressive" and you can drive faster. I sometimes get tired when I drive. So, having a car that can drive itself is amazing. I can't wait to

⁴ There are a lot of accidents where I live. Some people drive really quickly, and they sometimes use their phones at the same time! Others are very careful. I think hands-free driving will have important benefits. For one, driverless cars can improve safety. Most car accidents are the result of human error. These cars will reduce the number of accidents, and the number of patients I see. I will also be able to control my speed, and avoid getting traffic violations every day on my way to work.

⁵ I don't think driverless cars are a good idea. Automated cars cannot anticipate the unexpected like humans can. They might not recognize when a police officer tells traffic to stop or pull off the road. Also, driverless cars may be too polite on the highway, where many people speed. A car that is following the speed limit could cause more accidents

6 I understand what James and Mary are saying. However, I believe that although driverless cars sound perfect, there are limitations. For example, if an accident occurs, who is to blame? Do you blame the driver? The car? The car manufacturer? Driving laws are written for human drivers, not robots. Therefore, countries will have to decide who is responsible and write new laws, which won't be easy!

⁸ Driverless cars are excellent. In a hands-free car, people can respond to email without worrying about hitting another car. Also, driverless cars will use less fuel. The Art of Advertising

¹How often do we hear comments such as these: "I hate advertising," or "There's too much advertising in the world!" In the 21st century, it seems that advertising is everywhere we look. We see it along highways, in trains, buses, even in taxicabs, as well as on the Internet and on TV. It's hard to escape advertising. But do we really want to? Actually, when you think about it, advertising provides us with quite a few benefits.

²First, advertising gives us information that we need. For instance, if you want to buy a new appliance or a new car, you can look for the best "deals" in ads that appear in newspapers, in magazines, on television, or even on the radio. These ads give you details about the product and help you find out where you can get the best price for something. You don't actually have to go to lots of different stores. So, in this way, advertising provides a service for the consumer.

³Besides providing information, advertising also supports the entertainment industry, including television and radio. It may be annoying to sit through commercials during your favorite TV show, but the advertisers have paid for its production. This, in turn, pays the TV crew for their

Read the introductory paragraph to an opinion essay below. Which of the following is the best thesis statement for the essay?

With new technology, advertising can be deceptive. For example, many beauty ads show women with perfect skin and hair. In reality, their photos have been "touched up" by computer software programs. Men, too, are shown as very muscular and strong, when the reality may be quite different. Men and women both age naturally, but advertisements show a different kind of person—one who never gets old.

- With new technology, advertising can be deceptive. For example, many beauty ads show women with perfect skin and hair.
- I think advertising should show people of different ages, shapes, and sizes, not just young people.
- I think computer software programs are very innovative.
- I think changing the way someone looks in a photo is outdated.

Question No. 1

Read the introductory paragraph to an opinion essay below. Which of the following is the best thesis statement for the essay?

I was watching TV last night and realized something about my life: I'm missing a lot of things. When I saw a commercial for a new sports car, I realized I don't have the most modern car. An ad for flat-screen TVs reminded me that my television is eight years old. And finally, the travel commercial reminded me that I don't have the money to travel to exotic places and stay in world famous resorts. So, in the end, all of these things make me feel like a failure. This is not a reason why I watch TV.

- Advertising on TV should provide us with details about all the latest products.
- Advertising on TV should entertain us.
- Advertising on TV should make us miss a lot of things.
- Advertising on TV should not make us feel like we are not successful.
