

The main learning objective of the writing task is to:

- Organize their ideas into paragraphs.
- Compare and contrast two topics (shopping in-store vs. online).
- Use comparative language such as "better than" "while" "however."
- Express preferences with clear reasons.

1. Why do people make choices?

_____

2. What are some choices we make every day?

_____

3. Why do we make those choices?

How can I apply this information?

Is there anything I don't understand yet?

Shopping in-store and shopping online are two ways to buy things. Both have good and bad points, and people choose based on what they like. Shopping in a store is nice because you can see and touch the products. But it takes more time because you have to go to the store. Shopping online is faster and easier. You can do it from home. But you cannot touch the products. I prefer shopping online because it saves time, and I can shop anytime. However, I still like shopping in a store for clothes or shoes to try them on.
