Section Three: Reading:

- Passage One:

HOLLYWOOD KIDS

In Hollywood, everybody wants to be rich, famous, and beautiful. Nobody wants to be old, unknown, and poor. For Hollywood Kids, life can be difficult because they grow up in such an unreal atmosphere. Their parents are ambitious, and the children are part of the parents' ambitions. Parents pay for extravagant parties, expensive cars, and designer clothes. When every dream can come true, Kids learn the value of nothing because they have everything.

A 13-years-old boy, Trent Maguire has a driver, credit cards, and unlimited cash to do what he wants when he wants.

Parents buy care and attention for their children because they have no time to give it themselves. Amanda's mother employs a personal trainer, a nutritionist, a bodyguard chauffeur, a singing coach, and a counselor to look after all her 15-year-old daughter's needs. Often there is no parent at home most days, so children decide whether to make their own meals or go out to restaurants, when to watch television or do homework. They organize their own social lives. They play no childhood games.

They become adults before they're ready.

"Looks are very important in Hollywood. If you're good-looking, you will go far. I want to be a beautician. You grow up really fast in Los Angeles, Everyone is in a rush to be an adult, to be going to clubs. It's not cool to be a kid." (Mijanous, aged 18.)

"I live in a hotel and when I come home from school, there are maybe 80 people who say "Good day" to me. It's their job to say that. In the bathroom there are mirrors everywhere. I love looking at myself. I'm going to be a model." (Emilly, aged 10.)

"Everyone thinks Hollywood is so glamorous, but I have news for you. It is really dangerous growing up in Los Angeles. People have guns. Sometimes I think I am going crazy. I am going to get out of here just as soon as I can." (Zavier, aged 18.)

-Passage Two:

Marrakech in Morocco looks like a Hollywood film set. It is a city of ancient, sand-coloured buildings and palm trees in the middle of the desert.

In the center is the main square, Jemaa el Fna. Here you can see dancing snakes and drinks Moroccan tea. But behind the square is the real heart of the city. This is the souk (the arab world for market) Hundreds of little shops and stalls are open from early morning till lunchtime, and again in the evening. The souk, with its narrow, busy streets, is divided into lots of smaller souks. There's the aromatic spice souk, the noisy meat souk, the colourful clothing souk, the gold and silver souk, and many more.

Finally, there's the carpet souk. Here, hundreds of handmade Moroccan rugs and carpets cover the pavements.

No two rugs are the same. In Mr Youssef's rug shop, he invites you to set down among all the beautiful carpets. A silver teapot arrives with little glasses and Mr Youssef talks about the different rugs, while his assistants roll them out one by one. Two hours later, after many glasses of traditional mint tea and lots of bargaining, you finally choose your rug and leave much poorer. Then it's time to return to the main square to watch the snakes and count your money.

Section Three: Reading:

❖ Passage one

Bangkok, the capital of Thailand, is a city of contrasts. The tall glass buildings look like any other modern city. But behind them, the canals, is a place where life hasn't changed for over 100 years. Built in 1866 by the King of Thailand, these canals are home to many Thai people who still live and work there today. There are four floating markets around Bangkok and the oldest and most popular is in the town of Damonen Saduak.

This market opens every day from 6:30 a.m. It's best to shop early and go by water taxi. After 9 a.m. the tourist buses arrive, and it's much too busy. It's a colorful, noisy, fascinating place. Old ladies with huge hats sit in small boats, filled with tropical fruit and vegetables, fresh coconut juice and local food. Did you miss your breakfast? Then just call a seller for a bowl of hot soup. He'll get it from a cooker at the back of his boat! But the boats don't just sell food. Would you like a traditional hat? A silk dress? A flowered shirt? Then just call and point. After the noise and excitement of the market, continue along the canal. Soon, You'll see the wooden houses, orchards, and floating flowers of the canal villages. It's a lovely, peaceful way to finish your trip.
