City Farmers

1 How do you grow fresh vegetables in the middle of a city? It is possible in a community garden—a special area in a city for a vegetable garden. There are community gardens in cities all over the world, from Toronto, Canada, to Barcelona, Spain, and Bangkok, Thailand.

2 In the U.S., community gardens are becoming popular in many cities. For example, in Washington, D.C., there are more than 30 community gardens. The biggest garden is the Newark Street Community Garden. The garden is over 36 years old. It has more than 200 members.

3 Each member of the Newark Street Community Garden has an area of land called a plot. Every spring, the gardeners work together and prepare their garden plots. Each gardener chooses their vegetables. Some choose lettuce, cabbage, spinach, peas, broccoli, cucumbers, peppers, or tomatoes. In addition to vegetables, the garden also has fruit trees and bushes. For example, the garden has peaches, apples, raspberries, and blackberries. The members enjoy having fresh ingredients for their favorite dishes.

4 The Newark Street Community Garden is an active community with friendly people. There is a children's garden area, and there are places to play softball or soccer. Gardeners often have community dinners and picnics. They share information about growing produce[1]. Many people enjoy the fresh and healthy produce from the community garden.
