Choose there's or it's to complete the paragraph.

It's winter, and I'm here just north of the Arctic Circle. There's snow all around me. It's bright and beautiful, but of course very cold, too. There's an interesting kind of animal that lives here in the Arctic. It's the Arctic fox. Oh look, there's one now! It's running across the snow. Actually, it's very difficult to see the fox, because it has white fur. It's a very good form of camouflage in the winter. But there's no snow in the summer, so what does the fox do then? Well, this is what makes the fox so interesting. In the summer, its fur changes to a brown-gray color. It's the perfect color to help the fox blend in with the summer colors in the Arctic.
