Farming is very important because almost everything we need to live comes from one place, a farm! Farmers help society to have a strong food system and produce different products. There are two main types of farming: crops and animals. Some farmers plant seeds in order to grow crops for food, while others raise animals like cows, chickens and sheep. Some farms have both crops and animals in order to use them for food and making things. Many families can live on a farm. They produce and sell us the food we need. Farmers today need to be good at farming and business.
