Read the text. Are the sentences true or false?

I come from Hannover in the north of Germany. I work for an advertising company, and we do a lot of business with international companies – all in English! I studied English at school and I use it every day for work, so I think my English is OK. My colleague, Ute, doesn't speak English very often, but she is taking English lessons after work at a language school. Sometimes she asks me to help her. She sometimes makes mistakes because she thinks in German – so she says 'there gives' instead of 'there is' because that's what we say in German. Or she makes preposition mistakes like 'at Monday' instead of 'on Monday' because in German we use the same preposition for both. She makes mistakes, but I think she speaks English very well!
