

Unit 7 You've Got Mail! Listen and Discuss

- Have a general discussion about favors. Ask students if they have ever had to refuse a favor that was asked of them. Have each volunteer talk about the favor that was asked, the person who asked it, and why he or she refused to do the favor. Students should also talk about how they handled the situation. This may lead to a discussion about white lies. Explain to students that white lies are untrue statements which people say because it seems best socially. For example, when a friend asks a favor, and you don't want to do it, but don't want to say so directly, you might tell a white lie. When we make up excuses, these are white lies. Have a general discussion about accepting and refusing invitations. Ask students how they typically invite someone to do something. For example, do they text them, call, email? In the discussion of refusing an invitation, mention that white lies are sometimes used here as well. Briefly discuss the reasons why.
