S. Re: My first trip to Egypt

Hey Oliver Cruise! My advice is to know some good topics of conversation. For example, you can talk about travel, food, or sports. It's not good to ask too many questions about your friend's family. Egyptians are normally private when talking about their families. They don't talk a lot about them. It's impolite to ask your friend's father questions about age, salary, or politics. Also, try to take a gift from your country.

... crime increasing in your town or city? In many places, crime rates are going down. The truth is that crime rates are lower today than 50 years ago. However, most people believe that crime rates are increasing. They think that violent crime happens in their towns and cities all the time. Sometimes we hear about things that are not likely to happen. Violent crime frightens us, but it is not very common. The world is a safer place today than it was in the past.

The first story on the evening news is often about violent crime. On some news shows, over 40 percent of the stories are about crime. Why is there such a focus on crime? The reason is that scary shows and news programs are popular. However, television does not give people a true idea of the level of danger in the world. Here is an interesting example. In 2013, the rate of violent crime in the United Kingdom went down by 9 percent. However, a study showed that during that time, news stories about violent crime increased by 20 percent. This focus on crime gives people the wrong idea. People believe there is more crime there really is. They think violent crime is common.

Television's exaggerated focus on violent crime affects people's lives in a negative way. This focus on violent crime leads to increased feelings of fear. In order to protect themselves, some people avoid going out. They do not trust their neighbors. As a result, they know and trust fewer people. Many parents keep their children inside their homes, away from friends. They believe the world outside is too dangerous. The children watch more television and don't walk or play sports outside. They become less healthy. This is true for adults too.

The Importance of Color in Business

1 Companies consider many important things when they advertise for products or services. Color may be the most important of these things. One survey showed that 95% of people say that color is the main reason for buying a product. Every year, companies spend thousands of dollars on advertising. They want you to buy their products and use their services, and they want you to remember their company name. These companies use color so that you will notice them, and you will think about them when you see their colors. Colors can have different meanings. So, using the right color is very important.

2 Many companies use bright colors. KFC uses red, white and black. These colors are warm and cheerful. KFC hopes that by using these colors, people will think of it as a friendly company. Souq.com uses blue and white. They are bright, happy colors. Panda uses green and red. Panda uses red pictures in its advertisements. Many people think the red color is a good symbol because it's easy to remember and recognize. However, a few people do not like it. Bright colors are great for companies. ³ Blue is often used by electronic and computer companies. Blue, the color of the sky, oceans, and lakes, makes us think of air, water, and peace. Like the sky and the ocean, blue can be both peaceful and powerful. Toshiba, Microsoft and Dell all use the color blue to show that their computer companies are serious and dependable. It is also used by social networking websites like Instagram, Facebook, and Twitter. Unlike the color black, a blue website makes its users feel welcome. It is a good color to use.

⁴ BP uses green and yellow for its colors. It is the only large oil company to use green. Green is the color of nature. Yellow is the color of the sun. BP hopes that people will have good thoughts when they think about the company. In addition, green makes you think of the environment. BP wants people to consider it as a company that cares about the environment.

⁵ All over the world, companies spend millions of dollars to find the right color to establish their brand, and to encourage people to buy their products. Advertising is important for companies, so they spend a lot of money trying to make their products look good. Companies believe that customers respond strongly to their colors. It isn't surprising that companies carefully consider the colors for their products and their advertising. Most people do not realize how much color affects them. Advertisers know this, so they use color to influence our choices.

The Importance of Color in Business

¹ Companies consider many important things when they advertise for products or services. Color may be the most important of these things. One survey showed that 95% of people say that color is the main reason for buying a product. Every year, companies spend thousands of dollars on advertising.
