Hanan Al-Hroub was a poorly paid teacher in the West Bank. Then she won the 1$ million Global Teacher Prize. The committee praised Mrs. Al-Hroub's "play and learn" method, which she still employs. Besides her clown outfit, Mrs. Al-Hroub uses balloons, hula-hoops, toy cars and puppets to explain her lessons. Her aim is to make the classroom a calm and fun place where children can forget about the struggles of daily life, and open their minds. "We play first, and when we play we learn," she said. "The kids don't even realise they are learning." In addition to the toys and balloons, which she pays for with her own money, she uses videos and even PowerPoint in the classroom. For the first month of a new school year, her eight-year-old pupils may not even see an exercise book.

One day, an unemployed man went to apply for a job with Microsoft as a cleaner. The manager said: "Let me have your e-mail address, so that I can send you a form to complete and tell you when you can start." The man said that he had no computer or email address. The manager: "Well, then, that means that you virtually don't exist and therefore can't be employed." The man looked at the last £10 in his wallet and thought of buying tomatoes in bulk. Within less than 2 hours, he sold all the tomatoes at 100% profit. Repeating the process several times that day, he ended up with almost £100 before going to sleep that night. Getting up early every day and going to bed late, he multiplied his profits quickly. After a short time he bought a cart to transport several dozen boxes of tomatoes.

On March 27, 2013, John Sweeney, a plumber from Ireland, started a Facebook page called Suspended Coffees. His message was simple: Buy a cup of coffee for a stranger, because an act of kindness can change a life and make a difference. Eight hours later, the page had attracted more than 20,000 likes. Suspended coffee is a tradition that comes from Naples, Italy, and dates to the 20th century. When customers buy coffee, they also pay in advance for a cup to be given to somebody else; usually someone who otherwise couldn't afford it. This initiative was forgotten, but then it revived again in 2011. That's when "Suspended Coffee Day" started to be celebrated each December.

Life in the future will be very different. Futurologists predict that life will probably be very different in all the fields of activity, from entertainment to technology. Some people have imagined that life in the future would be so easy and relaxing, while others have seen that it would be worse and more difficult. I think that in the future we will have a more comfortable life. This will be obvious in all aspects of life. First, as for education, people will have better education because of technology. E-books will replace traditional books, robots will replace teachers, and students will not have to go to schools every day as they will study at home through on-line teaching. So even absent students will learn.

Someday people will live in space. By the end of this century, there will be permanent settlements that will allow people to lead a normal life in space. Hundreds of astronauts are going to work and live in the space station, which will take ten years to build. In some way, living on the moon will be easier than living in a space station and it will be cheaper because people won't bring everything from the Earth by rockets. The space city will be like a gigantic glass wheel that will contain buildings, factories and special meeting places. Inside it, people won't live differently from small towns on the Earth. It will have air so that inhabitants can breathe and they won't need to wear special space-suits inside the buildings.

One day Thomas Edison came home and gave his mother a letter from his teacher. As she read the letter, his mother's eyes were tearful. Thomas Edison's teacher wrote that Edison was mentally ill and wouldn't be allowed in school anymore. When Edison asked his mother what this letter said, she pretended to read it aloud, saying your son couldn't go to school because he was a genius and the school was too small for him. "Please teach him yourself." Edison's mother hid the letter and decided to educate young Thomas at home. Edison was homeschooled by his mother's decision; he wasn't able to memorize lessons and needed hands-on experience to understand and learn things.

The human brain remembers negative experiences more easily than positive ones. Our brains have developed this way because threats, and dangerous events, had an immediate effect on our memories compared to positive things like food or shelter. Research suggests that our level of happiness depends partly on factors we cannot control – our genes and our life circumstances. However, our level of happiness is also shaped by the choices we make. If you've been chasing wealth, fame, good looks, material things, and power, you may be looking for happiness in all the wrong places. Psychologists suggest that the following six habits make people happier. People who form close relationships tend to be happier than those who do not. The number of friends we have is not important. What matters is the quality of our relationships.

- 1-The text talks about a-unhappy brain b-sad brain
c-happy brain d-negative brain
- 2- Threats, and dangerous events, had an effect on our memories.

Frane Selak was born in Croatia in 1929. He led a relatively unremarkable life as a music teacher. Selak's near-death experiences began in January 1962 when he was travelling by a train from Sarajevo to Dubrovnik. The train left its railway tracks and ended up in a river. Fortunately, an unknown person pulled him to be safe, while 17 other passengers drowned. The next year, Selak boarded a plane from Zagreb to Rijeka. Unfortunately, he was blown out of its door and luckily landed in a haystack; the plane crashed, killing 19 people but Selak survived. Three years after that, in 1966, he got on bus. The bus skidded on the road and fell into a river, drowning four passengers, and by sheer luck Selak swam to the shore with only a few cuts and bruises.

Mariam was a teacher who wanted to motivate her students and make them do their best in the exam. So, she told them that she would give a gift, which was a new pair of shoes, to the one whose marks would be excellent. Children rejoiced over this challenge and they all started writing diligently. After collecting the papers, the teacher was surprised to find that everyone had a full mark. Who would get the gift? she thought. The teacher thanked everyone for their effort but she was confused about who would deserve the award as everyone had got the full mark. The teacher thought of a suitable solution with her students. The students' opinion was that each of them would write his/her name on a folded paper and put it in a box from which the teacher would pick one. So, the paper will reveal the name of the award's winner.

We all have that person who inspired us to change our life in a significant way that made us healthier, happier and more fulfilled. Inspiration can create a positive difference in a person's life. Inspiration is powerful. To be positive and capable of inspiring others, you can show people care. Remember how many times your day was changed by questions like "How are you today?" or "Is everything going well with you?" said by a friend. Your actions are very important too. Many people's lives were inspired by small acts of kindness. Earn trust. If you are told a secret by a friend, it stays between you and him/her. Trust takes a long time to be built, but in many cases it can be destroyed in no time. Keep your promises. If someone is being helped by a volunteer, he/she needs to do it with a smile. Life has many examples of promises that are kept to save many people's lives.

If you look up at the stars, you might wonder if anyone is really out there. You might also wonder if they have found as many strange ways to communicate with each other as we have. The wish to communicate with the outer space has always been there in our minds. As the 20th century began, interest in the possible life on Mars and the possible civilizations there led to a search for signals. An example of how we might receive communications from the planet was mentioned in 1896 when a newspaper article entitled "A Signal from Mars" had offered one. In the late 19th and early 20th centuries the idea of wirelessly sending and receiving waves through the air, was developed. New methods of searching for communications from space were offered too.

Body language refers to the nonverbal signals that we use to communicate. According to experts, these nonverbal signals make up a huge part of our daily communication. From our facial expressions to our body movements, the things we don't say can still convey volumes of information. It was suggested that body language itself may account for between 60 to 65% of all communication. A smile may indicate approval or happiness. A frown can signal disapproval or unhappiness. In some cases, our facial expressions may reveal our true feelings about a particular situation. While you say that you are yourself feeling fine, the look on your face may tell people otherwise. Happiness, sadness, anger, surprise, disgust and fear are just a few examples of emotions that can be expressed through facial expressions. The expression on a person's face himself can even help determine if we trust or believe what he/she is saying.

Language is considered a very complex form of communication that occurs among humans who use words while talking to express their needs and they cry and make faces when they want to express feelings. Animals also show signs of communication such as a bird singing a song or a dog wagging its tail when excited. However, do animals have their language? Scientists are still unsure about this question. Researchers say that animals do not have a true language like humans. However, they do communicate with each other with sounds and gestures. Children show these same forms of communication as babies when crying and gesturing, but they slowly learn the words of language and use them as a form of communication.

It's not always easy to be a good son. Sometimes, you make a mistake and can't find a way to fix it. Other times, you disagree with your parents and don't know how to talk to them without starting a fight. Show your love. Tell your parents what's going on in your life. Your parents love you and want to know what's going on in your life. They may not need to know all of the daily details, but they would love to know what's on your mind, from your struggles with your studies to any big problems you're having with your friends. They really do care, and even if they can't always help, they would just like to know what's happening. Don't be afraid to ask for their advice. Believe it or not, your parents were once your age, and they've gone through the same struggles that you're going through. They'll appreciate that you value their opinion.

Psychologists suggest that the following six habits make people happier. People who form close relationships tend to be happier than those who do not. The number of friends we have is not important. What matters is the quality of our relationships. Relationships that bring happiness usually involve the sharing of feelings, mutual respect, acceptance, trust, fun and empathy. People who make a habit of caring for the well-being of others tend to be happier. This might involve volunteering for an organization or reaching out to support friends and family on a regular basis. People who exercise regularly improve both their physical and mental well-being. Some research has shown that exercise can be as effective as medicine in treating depression.

Read the following text, then write True or False: (50marks)

World Kindness Day was first introduced in 1998 by the World Kindness Movement. The latter is a non-profit organisation. It purely focuses on inspiring and encouraging people to show greater kindness for a better world. World Kindness Day is celebrated on the 13th of November and promotes good deeds and acts of kindness. It celebrates all that we can do for others. A great way to do this is through a kindness project for students to get involved with. A wall of kindness is not only a lovely kindness project for students but is also a great way to decorate your classroom. A wall of kindness is super easy to create. All you need is paper, pens, and a spare wall. This kindness project is beneficial for both students and the school. Students will learn the value of giving, and gain an appreciation for the people who are in need.

- 6-The main text is about critical moments. ()
- 7- The World Kindness Movement concentrated on kindness to make the world better. ()
- 8- World Kindness Day is celebrated on the thirteenth of November. ()
- 9- A wall of kindness is super easy to be made. ()
