LISTENING TRANSCRIPT

Keith: Hey, did you know that a new gym opened on Rose Road last week?

Jake: Yeah. I heard about it. New gyms open all the time, but they aren't all that great. Is this one any good?

Keith: Well, I haven't been there yet. But I saw a poster as I was coming here. It seems to offer quite a lot.

Jake: Really? Like what? Has it got weights and ...

Keith: Of course, silly. All gyms have got weights and treadmills.

Jake: Oh, OK. What about yoga classes? I really want to try it.

Keith: I don't know about yoga. The poster said that there are lots of classes, like aerobics. You like that kind of exercise, don't you?

Jake: Yeah, of course.

Keith: Oh. There are also personal trainers who can help you work out. And that's included in the price, too.

Jake: I see. It sounds good, but it must be quite expensive.

Keith: Well, it's 50 euros a month.

Jake: That's 600 euros a year! You can't be serious!

Keith: Calm down. If you sign up for a year, it's only 250 euros.

Jake: That's better. Hey. Why don't we go and have a look?

Keith: Sure. What's the time?

Jake: It's nine o'clock.

Keith: Oh. It's just closed. We can go tomorrow.

Jake: Oh, OK. What time?

Keith: Tomorrow is Saturday, so it closes at 11.

Jake: Fine, then. Let's go around 10 o'clock, after my Spanish class.

Brad Hi, Stevie, what are you doing tonight?

Stevie Not much, why?

Brad Some friends are coming over to my place to watch a documentary. Would you like to come?

Stevie I'm sorry. I have football practice at the sports centre till half past eight.

Brad No problem. We're meeting a bit later. The documentary starts at half past nine.

Stevie OK. See you at a quarter past, then.

Brad That's a bit late, actually. I need some help with the snacks, if you don't mind.

Stevie OK. Nine it is, then.

Brad Great. See you later.

2.

Todd Hey, Mark. I had a great idea.

Mark Yeah? What's that?

Todd I'm thinking of organising a dinner on Tuesday, the day after the exam.

Mark Just one problem.

Todd What? Everyone will have to get up for school the next day, I know, but...

Mark No, the exam is on Wednesday.

Todd Oh, no.

Mark Just have your dinner on Wednesday. There's no school the next day. It's even better.

Todd Yeah, but I've planned to go to a football match.

Mark Oh.

Todd You know what? I'll just have it on Wednesday. Who cares about the match?

Mark You can go to next week's match.

Todd Yeah.

Radio ad: Spring is here! So, come down and join the fun at the Spring Festival. Don't forget that it takes place at Foster Park, not King's Park like last year. Everyone is welcome. In the evening, there will be a fireworks display in the park. Also, there will be a competition for the best strawberry pie, and organisers will be giving streamers to all festival-goers. It's going to be great fun, so be there!

LISTENING TRANSCRIPT

Good evening, this is the six o'clock news. Police have been investigating the robbery of the Regal Bank on King's Street which took place last Tuesday. They have been questioning Gary Smith, the man who was arrested as he was leaving the bank. €300,000 was found in his backpack and police now know that he wasn't working alone. One of the main reasons is that there's still €100,000 missing from the bank. Their investigation points to the security guard, John Green, who disappeared the day of the robbery. The bank manager told the authorities that the guard was new to the job and that he saw the two men talking. More questions need to be answered and police are now looking closely at the security cameras. On to other news now. A man with...

Host: OK, back to tonight's phone-in, which is about cultural differences. Next on the line is Derek from Watford.

Derek: Hello, Steve.

Host: So, what's your story, Derek?

Derek: Well, I invited my new Brazilian neighbours round for dinner. We spent all day preparing food and a delicious dessert. But when I asked them if they liked the food, they didn't really say much, and I was bit offended. All they kept doing was touching their ears a lot.

Host: That's strange.

Derek: It was only later that I realised that pulling your ear means you like something a lot in Brazil.

Host: I see, so all that hard work didn't go to waste. Nice one, Derek. Right, now we have Ian from Rochester. Hi, Ian!

Ian: Hi there, Steve. My story comes from summer camp last year. My Greek roommate John and I are great friends now, but when we first met, we had a bit of an argument. I asked to borrow his camera and he just raised his eyebrows. I didn't understand and he didn't say 'no', so I just took it. He got really angry, and after arguing about it for a while, I realised that the gesture meant 'no'.

Host: I didn't know that. Always good to learn these things. Who's next? It's Ken from York.

Ken: Hi, Steve. I just wanted to point out how long people shake hands for in different countries. I mean, just a few seconds is enough, in my opinion. But I met an Italian man the other week and he was shaking my hand for ages! In the end, I had to say something. I think he was a bit offended, but what could I do?

Host: That's cultural differences for you. Right, next we're going to...

LISTENING TRANSCRIPT

Harry

My parents were away for the weekend and I was at home with my brother. I remember that night because the weather was really strange. There were strong winds at first and all the windows shook. Then the rain started. It hadn't stopped by the time we went to bed. Mark, my brother, came to sleep with me because he was afraid of the lightning. In the morning, it was still raining. When we went downstairs to make breakfast, we saw there was water everywhere and not just in our house, but in all the streets, the neighbourhood, the whole village!

Alex

It was quite silly, actually. I was riding my bike home after football practice. It was late in the afternoon and it was getting dark. There was nobody in the street and suddenly, I heard someone shout! I got a bit scared and lost control of my bike. I didn't see the tree at all. I was hurt, but not badly. My bike, though, was completely destroyed.

Jack

I was at a café with my brother when, at some point, I had to go to the bathroom. The minute I walked in, the lights went out. I wasn't scared, but I couldn't see anything, so I tried to find the door and get out. I suddenly heard a loud sound of something falling on the floor. The lights came on again after a few minutes. Then I noticed a man on the floor. He was hurt. I ran out as fast as I could to get some help. Luckily, the ambulance arrived in minutes and took him to hospital.

Neil

Well, what can I say... I remember the time he ran into a house which was on fire and, all by himself, managed to rescue a five-year-old who was trapped inside. He was the town hero the next day and, of course, I was proud because he was my brother. But there are hundreds of things, both good and bad, about him. He's always confident in himself, for example, but he can be really bossy and stubborn too, sometimes.
