Working as a Student

Section I

One of the important things we learn while growing up is that finding a job plays a huge role in our lives. A job gives us independence as well as a way of making our own living. Earning your own money is always a good thing and there is no better time to start doing this than as a student.

Section II

When students live away from home it can be very expensive for their parents to support them. Paying for accommodation, books, food, and bills costs a great deal of money. Because of this, many university students find a part-time job while they are studying. It doesn't really matter what the job is, as long as it fits in with their program and earns them some extra cash.

1. Section I suggests that
- working as a student isn't a good idea.
  - a student's life is expensive.
  - it's important to have a job.
  - growing up plays a huge role in our lives.

2. According to the article, why is finding a job difficult for a student?
- The job might not pay much money.
  - They may get a job they don't like.
  - It's not easy to plan.
  - It could take a long time to organize.

During the summer, I work as a volunteer tour guide. It's very enjoyable for me to lead tours and show people around my country. I prepare for the tours by studying the ancient customs and beliefs of my ancestors. I especially like to take tour groups to smaller cities, with a population of less than 500 people. The people in those towns remember our history and have kept our traditions alive.

Medicine and Sports

Section I

Most major soccer teams have a number of medical experts who work closely with the players to ensure that they are in the best possible condition. We don't often see these people. The medical staff works closely with the manager and the players. When a player is injured, they work hard to get him back on the field as quickly as possible. They work with specialist doctors and physiotherapists. Players earn thousands of dollars a month and each day without them means money lost for the team.

Section II

There are also sports psychologists. Sometimes a player's problems are psychological rather than physical. For example,

- when a player is injured during a game
 when a goalkeeper makes a mistake
 when we are in a hospital
2. What type of expert might help a striker who isn't scoring goals?
 a manager
 a sports psychologist
 a physiotherapist
3. Which sentence from Section III is a detail?
 Sometimes, of course, they have to carry him off.

Choosing a Major

Section I

Choosing a major* can be hard. Everyone has an opinion. Your father might suggest that you study medicine to become a doctor. An uncle may recommend law. Your cousin might say business is a good option. The decision is yours, so take time to think about many different possibilities.

Section II

Medicine, law, business, and communications are common majors. But don't limit yourself to these general subjects. Consider specific and specialized fields. For example, Elena was interested in medicine, but she was uncomfortable around sick patients. Elena looked deeper into the field of medicine. She finally decided to major in laboratory science. With this major, Elena can research diseases and cures. In Elena's situation, a specialized major was the best choice.

A Life-changing Experience

Section I

I had to borrow quite a lot of money to go to college, because my parents weren't in a position to help. So I got my degree in four years, went straight to work and worked in the same legal company for ten years in a row. I had paid off the loans and was even saving a bit, and that's when the economic crisis came along.

Medicine and Sports

Section I

Most major soccer teams have a number of medical experts who work closely with the players to ensure that they are in the best possible condition. We don't often see these people. The medical staff works closely with the manager and the players. When a player is injured, they work hard to get him back on the field as quickly as possible. They work with specialist doctors and physiotherapists. Players earn thousands of dollars a month and each day without them means money lost for the team.

Section II

There are also sports psychologists. Sometimes a player's problems are psychological rather than physical. For example,

- ✓  when a player is injured during a game
- when a goalkeeper makes a mistake
- when we are in a hospital
2. What type of expert might help a striker who isn't scoring goals?
- a manager
- ✓  a sports psychologist
- a physiotherapist
